Catamounts Last Second Pass Beats Lenoir-Rhyne 13-7

Etheridge Shatters Collar Bone Catching Pass; Is Now In Mission Hospital

With only seconds remaining in the game, Jim English hurled a 35 yard pass to the endzone and into the hands of Clyde Etheridge to provide the Catamounts of Western Carolina a 13 - 7 victory over the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears at Cullowhee Saturday night. It was the most exciting finish ever witnessed by Catamount football fans and was certainly one for the movies. Etheridge, the hard luck, third string end who had broken his nose earlier in the season, was brought to the ground so violently brought to the ground so violently by two Lenoir-Rhyne men that he suffered a shattered collar bone.

Two minutes before the final whistle the Cats were trailing 7-0. Lenoir-Rhyne had the ball with third and 6 on their own 23. Quarterback John Charles attempted to punt out but Clark Pennell broke through the Bear's line to block the kick and cover the ball in the endzone for a touchdown. Ralph Clark booted the extra point and the game was tied 7-7.

Western Carolina kicked off to the 39 and the Bears picked up 11 yards on two plays for a first down but were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness on the next play. They attempted three passes, all incomplete, and the ball went to the Cats. Then English connected Etheridge with his touchdown pass and the final whistle blew with the ball in mid-

140 Million Capitalists

"Soak the Rich" used to be quite a popular slogan in some quarters. Whether the same words are used today, the same idea still appeals to a large number of people. The plan put forward by these folks boils down to one main issue: limit the incomes of citizens in the high brackets and divide it among the other people. By putting more money in the hands of more people they hope to attain a greater prosperity.

However, this economic Utopia theory runs afoul of economic fact and economic law. Its basic platform is hinged on the idea that most of the nation's money is held by a comparative few. A greater misconception is hardly possible. In the light of sound reasoning and cold statistics, the absurdity of this notion is obvious. No other civilization has seen a more equitable distribution of wealth among its people.

The People's Money

For example, a tabulation of income tax returns for 1942 shows the full impact of the results of our American system. In that year the group of individuals receiving income of less than $5,000 annually, representing 96 per cent of the country's population, paid 47 per cent of all federal personal income taxes. This, too, is the group which since 1931 has averaged at least 88 per cent of the nation's annual income.

In comparison, some 1,321,000 people reported incomes in excess of $5,000 during the same year. This group—approximately 4 per cent of the population—paid 53 per cent of all federal personal income taxes. In the above-$5,000 group, only 22.3 per cent of their income came from interest, dividends, rents, royalties, and fiduciaries. This is a far cry from the well worn "coupon clippers" line of attack of radical planners.

All Groups Share

Curiously enough, the lower income groups are far from being the underdog in distribution of income from these sources. The above-$5,000 group was responsible for 37 per cent of all income from interest, dividends, and fiduciaries, while the below-$5,000 group pocketed 63 per cent of the income from the same sources. The lower income groups have a large stake in the nation's business and industry.

If these planners could limit the incomes of all individuals to $10,000 before taxes and other fixed charges, some $5.2 billion would be available for distribution to the lesser income people. Representing little more than 4 per cent of the national income, it would amount to only $40 per capita—provided, of course, that there had been no economic or financial loss in the process of redistribution.

This would be a costly price to pay for the destruction of incentive, which would inevitably follow. Most "venture" capital would disappear. Since this is the source of all industrial progress, the immediate and certain result would be a breaking down of the national economy, a reduction of national income and of individual income. Freedom of the individual and his unlimited incentive for gain are dependent on each other. This way, everyone benefits.
