High Color

Purplish blue crepe afternoon dress.

By VERA WINSTON

PURPLE IN ALL its tones, from deep dark to that purple with a bluish cast, is in high favor just now and is giving black a good run for its money, especially for afternoon clothes. Purplish blue crepe is used for this striking afternoon dress, unadorned, as are some of the most effective dresses. Cowl drapery at the neck, and hip draping from the center seams which terminates in a bustle back adds emphasis to an otherwise straight silhouette. The sleeves are long and slim as is the skirt.

Edna Allen entertained with a bridal shower at the Sutton home Thursday evening, November 13 in honor of Miss Sue Hooper, whose marriage to Walter Painter has been announced.

The dining room table, arranged by Mrs. Charles Cathey, was lovely with an arrangement depicting the Thanksgiving season. Candles in the shape of an ear of corn, a turkey and five Puritans, both men and women, were used in the center with fall fruits and nuts with tall white tapers at either end. These were also used on the card tables where the guests played Bingo. As each person bingoed she gave her gift to the honoree along with a number of other prizes.

Baskets filled with candy and the words, Sue and Walter, Nov. 15, written on them, were used for favors.

Seated at the dining room table were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. John Hooper, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Burke Painter, Miss Joyce Hooper and Miss Edna Allen. Others attending were Misses Mary Henson, Elizabeth Warren, Hattie Hilda Sutton, Snow England, Leah Sutton, Mrs. Claude Jones, Mrs. Dick Green and daughter, Mary Jo, Mrs. Jesse Buchanan, and Mrs. Clyde Painter. Chicken salad, hot rolls, date nut rolls, cookies, Boston brown bread and olives were served by candlelight.
