Artificial Breeding Program Is Expanding

The artificial cattle breeding program is making rapid progress in North Carolina, reports J. F. Brown, Extension dairy specialist at State College. He says there are now 23 organized artificial breeding associations in the State with a total membership in excess of 2,500, and it is estimated that more than 20,000 cows will be bred under the program this year.

Reports show that in January and February 2,258 cows were bred by 21 associations. Two associations began operating in March, and all others except those in Forsyth, Yadkin, and Davie counties began in January.

Despite the fact that most of the technicians are new, reports as of April 1 indicate that the non-return percentage by technicians on January 1 services will average around 44 per cent, which is considered a fairly good figure with so many new men on the job. Reports already indicate improvement in the percentage for February 1 services.

All counties doing artificial breeding have been contacted by one or more Extension dairymen and given detailed assistance with the overall program.

STATE COLLEGE HINTS TO FARM HOMEMAKER

BY RUTH CURRENT State Home Demonstration Agent Double the Board to Save Time and Labor: A wide board to fit on top of the regular ironing board of standard size for ironing linens, draperies, men's shirts, and other large pieces, will save many lifts of the iron and shifts of clothes during ironing. Use board that can be put on or off the standard board as needed.

A width of 20 inches is suggested for this board. In an ironing study made by New York State specialists, it was found that this was as wide as any of the women in the study could reach at their preferred ironing height without bending forward. For comfortable, efficient ironing an upright posture is necessary, even while reaching the full width of the board. This allows free movement without strain on neck, arms or back.

The length of the board should be about 42 inches — or slightly longer than the board on which it fits. One end may be tapered for convenience in slipping clothes over. Cut the board from 7/8-inch plywood or 5-ply wall board. Fasten wooden cleats on the underside to fit it to the lower board. To hold it more firmly, wooden buttons may be screwed onto the cleats which may be turned to clamp on the upper board.

New York State Housewives who made the first tests of the wide board in their homes reported that it saved 15% of the time spent on their weekly ironing. On this 20-inch wide surface, a man's shirt needs to be moved only three times in ironing.

Mildew is a fungus present in the air. In hot, damp darkness, it develops rapidly, in cottons and linens particularly, causing a sour odor and grayish-brown stains. The older the stains, the more difficult they are to remove. Fresh stains may often be washed out in soap and water. Stubborn stains may require bleaching. For white cottons or linens only, washing in hot suds, moisten with lemon juice and salt and dry in the sun. If stain is old, bleach with hydrogen peroxide. Rinse well. For any washable colored fabric, wash in warm suds. Old stains are difficult to remove.

Avoid letting damp clothes stand in a basket during hot, damp weather.
