SYLVA IS TO HAVE BALLOON ASCENSION JULY 4, FIRST ONE HERE IN 31 YEARS

In celebrating July 4th on Monday, the 5th this year, Jackson county citizens and Sylva's visitors will have the opportunity to see their first balloon ascension since the county fair in 1917, and many of the younger generation their first in a life-time. Through the efforts of Charlie Campbell, who is directing part of the 4th activities and the Merchants Association, Claude L. Shafer, famous balloonist and parachute jumper, of Indianapolis, Ind., will come here for an exhibition at 5:30 Monday afternoon, the 5th.

Shafer has appeared at fairs and various celebrations for a number of years, and his performances always please the crowds. His ascensions are made on schedule and his equipment is always the best. He appeared at Asheville last Sunday at the Recreation park where thousands witnessed his show.

A picture of the balloon is shown in the advertisement on this page. It is shown on the ground, then at 2,000 feet and the small spot at the top of the picture represents 4,000 feet up, just before the parachute jump is made.

The balloon ascensions and parachute drops have always been one of the most popular and thrilling of free acts, and this year will be no exception, however it is one of the first and oldest free acts today. The ascension will be made from the Sylva Graded School grounds, or the Mark Watson Field, and will take place at 5:30 P. M. afternoon of July 5 weather permitting. The committee has taken out insurance should it rain, or bad weather prevail at the above time, due to the fact that it has taken quite a sum of money to bring the balloon exhibition to Sylva. Several dollars are being spent in advertising this gigantic 4th of July celebration, by radio, newspapers, window cards, and the bumper cards which appear on automobiles and trucks on the high ways within the next few days. If the old man weather will permit, Sylva will witness its largest crowds in many of a moon. Nearby Bryson City, Franklin, Waynesville, and the smaller towns and villages are being well advertised with handbills, window cards, etc., in a thirty-mile radius like a circus. Mayor Allison joins the 4th of July committee in welcoming people from far and near to visit our city for this great 4th of July celebration.

known through this entire section and is well acquainted with this rugged mountain section, having hunted and fished the entire region many times. The searchers took up the task Monday morning of locating some trace of the missing man.

"Mr. Hawkins, 73 years old, was not in the best of health when he disappeared from his home and it is feared that he was taken sick and crawled off to some secluded spot and died, or that he has fallen off some of the high cliffs and killed himself.

"An emergency patrol of the Boy Scouts of Sylva, including Marshall Cooper, Bob Moody, James Moody, Frank Askey, Earl Collins, Bill Moody, Bill Edwards, Edmund Brown and Ray Hooper, went to Cashiers on Saturday to aid in the search."

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Cashiers Methodist church with

TIMBER TALKS By W. C. HENNESSEE

Wood, The Indispensable

The years just passed proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that civilization with all its conveniences and modernization cannot survive without a few basic substances. Among these is wood.

It is estimated that eighty percent of all American families live in houses which are built chiefly of wood. While millions of people use wood as the principal fuel for heating their houses.

We hardly realize the many ways in which we use wood. This newspaper, for example, is printed on paper which was made almost entirely from ground wood pulp. In fact, most of the knowledge which mankind has accumulated over the centuries is preserved and recorded for future generations by being written or printed on paper which is made of wood pulp.

Now that we have seen that wood is definitely here to stay, let's devise ways and means of improving its quality. For many land-owners that will mean a complete reversing of present policies. Instead of using only the "cream" we may have to use the "whole milk", or perhaps only the "whey" for a few years. In other words, the better trees must stay and the poorer ones must be weeded out.

Here are a few other suggestions to assure development of timber:

1) Dedicate one out of every ten acres on your farm to timber growth.

2) Select the land as to character and capacity to produce alternative crops of greater value.

3) Become a grower of wood and learn the techniques of the business.

Idle waste land should be planted to trees. Place your application for trees with the county agent now.

LET'S KEEP JACKSON COUNTY GREEN.
