before September 19, 1930, shall be registered on Friday, September 17, or Saturday, September 18.

10. Persons who were born on or after September 19, 1930, shall be registered on the day they become 18 or within five days thereafter.

Only those youths in the 18-through-25 age group who are at present in the armed forces, or who are members of a reserve component or extended active duty, are exempt from registration.

The Governor said information and instructions relative to the registration will be issued during a two week's remaining before the start of registration with the office of General J. W. B. Mc... State Director of Selective Service.

The 101 local boards will conduct the registration at their respective areas, but the Governor emphasized that the registration is a state-wide obligation and he called upon all agencies and citizens of North Carolina to help make the registration in this State a success. He appealed to radio stations and the press for cooperation in circulating information concerning the national Selective Service program.

The World War II Selective Service call was delivered through 155 boards. Many of the 619 members and appeal agents of the

According to approved practices, recommended fertilizer and varieties used, pastures improved, orchards started, trees grafted, cards enlarged and improved, purebred sires purchased, and sheep here started.

Feeding practices are beginning to be improved. Hogs are going out of filthy pens and being put on pasture with farrowing houses. Protein and mineral mixtures are being added to corn rations. Homes, barns, and approved North Carolina type sned-roof poultry houses are going up. People are learning how to grow poultry on a commercial basis to supply our home market. Farms are being cultivated in a way to suit the size, location, tools, labor, and market. Poultry and strawberries are about to get started and fill a place in the county that they deserve on our small farms. In another year about half of the vet-

World War II boards have agreed to serve as members of the new boards. The local board members, government appeal agents and medical advisors contribute their services without pay.

During the period of the World War II draft, which continued for 6 1-2 years through March 31, 1947, approximately 987,000 North Carolinians (exclusive of men in the 45-65 age group) were registered, and 370,000 were called for active service.

The Jackson County board is composed of C. C. Buchanan, O. E. Monteith, and D. L. Robinson. The board is now making preparation or starting their work on Monday. Office space will be in the same rooms, over The Leader Store, as was used during World War II.

AMERICAN LEGION TO FCC TO END RADIO CONTESTS

WASHINGTON—As of sometime after September 10, the switch will be pulled on give-away broadcasts, according to the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC has established a new rule.

The commission hasn't decided just when the rules will be effective. They will accept statements from interested parties up until September 10, however.

The announcement here last week called attention to a section of the communications act which says that no radio station "shall knowingly permit the broadcasting of any advertisement or information concerning any lottery, gift enterprise or similar scheme, offering prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot of chance, or any list of the prizes drawn or awarded by means of any such lottery, gift, enterprise or scheme."

Each program may require individual study to determine if it is within the law, the commission added.

Also barred would be programs where, as a condition to winning a prize, the winner must furnish any money or other thing of value, or have in his possession any specific product of the sponsor, be required to be listening to the program or required to give an answer previously announced by the station.

The proposed rules would cover standard, FM and television programs.

Network officials in New York said they would withhold comment pending a study of the commission's statement and its possible effect on their programs.

State's Farm Program Discussed In Report Just Issued

What's wrong with North Carolina agriculture? What needs to be done to improve it?

Answers to these questions, which are of far-reaching consequence to the State, are to be found in a 44-page report just issued by the State College Extension Service. Entitled "A Farm Program for North Carolina," the report contains the long-term agriculture recommendations drawn up by a committee of specialists at the request of Governor Cherry.

The committee, headed by Dr. J. H. Hilton, dean of the State College School of Agriculture and director of the North Carolina Experiment Station, was given the task of making an overall study of the State's agricultural ailments and recommending a long-range corrective program. The suggested program, adopted unanimously by the specialists, was submitted to Governor Cherry last April, and is now available to the public in printed form for the first time.

Part I of the report gives a brief analysis of North Carolina agriculture as it is now, Part II presents the recommendations for the future, and Part III tells how to get the job done. Much pertinent information is presented in chart form.

The report will be of interest to all farmers and particularly to agricultural leaders in every county. Copies may be obtained free from county agents or by writing the Agricultural Editor, State College Station, Raleigh.
