NEW REGULATIONS INCREASE STANDARD OF BABY CHICKS

Raleigh, Dec. 5. - The National Poultry Improvement Plan will move a step closer to fulfillment in North Carolina when two new amendments to the state hatchery regulations go into effect on January 1.

Purpose of the amendments is to raise the standards of baby chicks by making "pullorum passed" the minimum classification for hatchery products produced.

offered for sale or brought into the state. This means that the chicks are from eggs produced by flocks found free of pullorum disease on the last complete test of the current season.

Present regulations permit the sale of baby chicks from flocks having less than two percent pullorum infection under a classification known as "pullorum controlled."

ments to the hatchery regulations the Board of Agriculture was informed by L. J. Fourie, in charge of poultry work for the Veterinary Division of the Department of Agriculture, that the higher standards proposed had the approval of 95 percent of the state's baby chick industry.

Pullorum disease, which once caused heavy fatalities among chicks and turkey poults, has nearly been eradicated in North Carolina since the state began participating in the National Poultry Improvement Plan in the late thirties. Tests were made on more than 800,000 birds last season. Department of Agriculture records show, and the rate of pullorum incidence was less than one-fourth of one percent.
