Check Wiring System Advises County Agent

Even the best wiring system needs a little attention now and then, Jackson County farmers were reminded this week by Paul Gibson, county farm agent for the State College Extension Service. Mr. Gibson said the ordinary 115-volt lighting circuit can be as deadly as high voltage lines. "There's too much power packed into electric wires to gamble with them," he commented.

Sylva Catholic

The National Safety Council gives hints for keeping wiring systems in good condition. Outside, you should check frequently for broken insulators, frayed insulation, and loose or sagging wires that may contact trees or other obstructions. Inside buildings, watch for defective outlets or switches, loose connections at junctions, damaged insulation, and worn fixtures. Appliance cords need frequent attention. When defective, they should be discarded or repaired immediately.

The current has been turned off before beginning work. Since water is a good conductor of electricity, be especially cautious in damp places. When purchasing electrical appliances, look for the "UL" label signifying that the equipment has been tested and approved by the Underwriters Laboratory. When a fuse "blows", something is wrong — too much load on the circuit or a short circuit somewhere. Locate and remove the source of the trouble before inserting a new fuse, and then be sure to use the proper size.
