LOCAL NEWS.

Cotton continues steady at 7 1/4

The Holt Cotton Factory is now almost ready for the Machinery.

There was 5.2 feet of water in the Cape Fear this morning at 8 o'clock.

Three marriage licenses, two white and one black, have been granted by the Register of Deeds this week.

Weather Indications.—Chief Moore Washington, D. C., 11:30 o'clock. Fair tonight, and Sunday warmer.

The Republican County Convention will meet in this city Saturday, May 2d to select delegates to the State and District conventions.

The Consecration of St. Thomas's.

Dr. Strange will preach at St. Thomas's church at 11 o'clock to-morrow, at which time that church will be consecrated by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Watson, who arrived in town to-day, and is a guest of Mr. A. H. Slocomb.

The Co-Operative Cotton Factory.

The Co-Operative Cotton Factory will be standing completed on its site opposite the Oil Mill inside of 90 days. The contract to finish the building complete, furnishing all materials, was yesterday let to Mr. W. C. Bain, the builder of the Holt Cotton Factory on Massey's Hill.

C.; B F Aldrich and wife, Springfield, Vt.; Thos Bisset, Florence; C G Hall, New York; C C Crump, Richmond; S H Richardson, Baltimore; Wm C Atham, Baltimore.

Boltons.

The bicycle path, which Mr. Newton is constructing to Bolton Springs, is now completed to beyond Myrtle Hill. The path will run along side the road till it reaches the M. Bill place, when it will branch off and run through the woods as straight as possible to the Springs. A large colony will inhabit Boltons this summer and there is some talk of electing a Mayor and Aldermen.

The Concert Last Night.

The large audience at Williams Hall last night attested its appreciation of the entertainment given by the pupils of Miss Lizzie Bolton's school by frequent bursts of applause. There were many novel features, and if some of the youthful actors at times seemed a little awkward, they were good naturedly encouraged by the spectators. Mr. H. H. Bolton makes a fine stage manager, and his beaming countenance seemed present everywhere.

Left Here in 1835.

Messrs. Thos. E and J. V. Brown, of Asheville, are in the city. They were born and raised here, but in 1835 their parents moved away. This is the first visit the brothers have made to Fayetteville since then. They said they would not have recognized the town at all, except for the Market House and one or two other old buildings. They were delighted with the looks of the present city, and enjoyed talking old times with the "old timers."

The County Democratic Convention.

Now that the State committee has set June 25th for the holding of the State convention, it is time to think of calling the County convention to elect delegates. We understand that a meeting of the County Executive committee will be held in a week or so to call such convention.

According to the last Democratic vote cast for Governor, in this county, we are entitled to send 16 delegates to the State convention, one delegate for each 150 votes, and one for a fraction of 75 or more.

Knocked Down by a Tramp.

This morning about 1 o'clock, Mr. John Monaghan found a colored tramp asleep in the cab of an engine in the C. F. & Y. V. Railroad engine house. He ordered the man out and turned off to get some water from the pump in the shed, when he was knocked down with a coupling pin. Mr. Monaghan was too badly hurt to stand, but he managed to rise up on his elbow, draw his pistol, and fire at the retreating figure. He could not tell whether he hit the rascal or not.

The Fight Between the Seaboard and Southern Railways.

The Washington Post of April 6, says: The Seaboard Air Line and the Southern system, in their fight for control of independent routes, are now engaged in a war for the possession of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railway, which runs from Mount Airy to Wilmington, N. C., tapping the heart of the mineral, agricultural, and timber districts of North Carolina. This road is now in the hands of a receiver, and the New York members of the reorganization committee favor its sale to the Southern Railway. The members from Baltimore, however, are in the majority, and they strongly advocate the acceptance of the Seaboard Air Line's proposition to purchase this road.

It now looks very much as if the latter will be successful, and the Southern now threatens to tap the Seaboard's territory by the construction of a branch line to Southern Pines, connecting with the Aberdeen and West End Railway, and thus reaching at once the Seaboard's best timber districts and its greatest and most widely advertised resort.

Mr. W. K. Parker of Cumberland Mills and superintendent Holmes of Beaver Creek and Bluff Mills were in town this morning.

A Good Showing.

At the Congregational meeting at the Presbyterian church last Wednesday night, Rev. A. J. McKelway reported 48 additions to the church during the year. 7 by letter and 41 on profession of faith. About $3,000 was raised for all causes. During the 4 years of the present pastorate 210 members have been received, 48 by letter and 162 on profession faith, bringing up the resident membership from 280 to 413.

The Convocation.

At St. John's church, yesterday evening, the Rev. F. N. Skinner preached an instructive discourse upon the effects produced by belief or non-belief in the resurrection of Christ in the lives of individuals and nations.

This morning, after Morning Prayer, the Rev. Stewart McQueen read a carefully prepared paper discussing the mind and attitude of the Anglican communer with reference to the subject of church unity, and more particularly to certain resolutions looking to that desirable end introduced into the last Convention of the Episcopal Church by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Grace church, New York. The paper abounded in interesting points, and showed an earnest desire on the part of the learned divine for the realization of the prayer of Christ that all should be one.

The essay was followed by a short off-hand discussion of the subject by Dr. Strangé, Dr. Huske, Dr. Carmichael, and Rev. Messrs. Wooten and Hughes.

To-night all the clergy are expected to be present at Even Song at St. Phillip's in Campbellton.
