One case was disposed of by 'Squire Overby. Jas. McAllister was indicted by Mr. D. N. McLean for cruelly treating his hogs. The hogs it seems got into McAllister's garden and were helping themselves when the proprietor came out, caught the pigs, and set his dogs on them. The porkers were badly torn up. 103 Anniversary F. I. L. I.

The Independent Light Infantry Company will celebrate its one hundred and third anniversary by a re-union and target practice as usual; but, this time, we are glad for sentiment's sake to learn, the rendezvous will be at the "old camping ground" on Cross Creek. It never seemed to be the thing to change to another place, though we believe changes in the run of the creek had something to do with it.

The 23d of August is the old corps' noted day, but as that falls on Sunday, Monday next, the 24th, will be celebrated.

The company is well launched upon its second century, but gathering years have not diminished its vigor and efficiency or its patriotism, nor dimmed the ardor of our people's affection for it.

Steady, boys! and remember the old fellows who have gone before you, your fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers.
