Nobly Spoken.

AN OBSERVER Reporter ran across a well known tobacco drummer, Mr. T. W. Fisher, from Baltimore this morning, selling a bill to a goldbug merchant. After the two men had transacted their business they became engaged in a discussion of the money question. The goldbug asked him if he was not afraid to be such a silver champion. The drummer replied: "I have made this question a deep study, and I have become so convinced that Free silver is right that I intend to express my views even if all my goldbug customers should refuse to buy from me and I should lose my place." Nobly spoken.

Mr. Fisher organized a Bryan Free silver club in Baltimore recently with 325 members, many of them Republicans. He says Bryan will carry Maryland by 25,000 majority.

Fine Tobacco.

Rev. Benjamin R. Hall has sent us a sample of remarkably fine bright yellow tobacco, raised on his farm across the river. His crop makes 11 barns. Mr. R. L. Williams has a crop of 8 barns, equally as fine.

Mr. Williams's barns are the best constructed and largest we have ever seen. They have a capacity of a thousand pounds. The Virginia expert who has the curing in charge says that the tobacco will average from 12 to 15 cents a pound.

Plainly, tobacco planting has come in Cumberland to stay, thanks to the OBSERVER's urging for the past two years as well as some twelve years ago. The unfortunate result of the first experiment (about 1884-6) owing to a sudden fall in the price has acted as a deterrent to our people, which was not the case with those neighboring counties which did not make the experiment then. So they have gotten ahead of us in the second movement.

But next year Cumberland will "get there, with both feet." Our chief regret now is that some of our capitalists had not acted upon our advice to establish a warehouse here, this season. One has been successfully opened in Lumberton.

Mr. J. Kirkland Hill, editor of the Maxton Scottish Chief, was in the city this morning.

Bryan at Buffalo.

Never has New York State seen such a demonstration as that which took place in Buffalo yesterday.

It was in honor of the champion of Free silver, William J. Bryan. Thousands upon thousands greeted him at every step, and one crowd alone contained over twelve thousand people. The goldbug press dispatches state that no man in American history ever received such a welcome before. Buffalo it will be remembered is bolter Cleveland's home. Speaking of one of the meetings which Mr. Bryan addressed the press dispatch says:

4,000 people crowded stage, floor and gallery, while outside a vast assemblage, estimated at 10,000 filled the streets about the big building and waiting patiently for the appearance of the candidate.

Then came the man in whose honor the vast crowd had assembled and as he stepped out on the spacious platform a mighty shout went up. Cheer followed cheer and a majority of those in the hall rose to their feet and by power of lungs made the democratic candidate feel that he was welcome. Bowing and smiling, Mr. Bryan sat down quietly and waited for the enthusiasm to subside.

When Mr. Taber mentioned the democratic candidate and Mr. Bryan stepped forward the enthusiasm was like a raging torrent and swept through every part of the house. The reception given Mr. Bryan on his entrance was not a circumstance to it in intensity. Men took off their coats this time, not satisfied with the limited emotion that could be expected with a hat or handkerchief, and waved them about their heads. Many of the honorary vice-presidents forgot their dignity and shouted wild with the rest of the crowd.
