

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS FAIL IN KIDNEY TROUBLE—A WOMAN'S GOOD ADVICE.

I regard Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as the best medicine for kidney and bladder trouble I have ever taken and I will always recommend it to all that are afflicted with bladder or kidney trouble. For eleven months I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble in violent form. The symptoms in my case were fearful. During all this time I was being treated by the best and foremost doctors of the country, all of them failing to afford me the slightest relief and I continued to grow worse all the time and while I had utmost confidence in their treatment, it seemed that the time had come in my case when I must try other remedies, consequently, I resorted to the use of Swamp-Root and before I had taken three small bottles, every pain and symptom had completely disappeared. For any form of kidney trouble, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the medicine to use. I have never known it to fail in a single case.

Very truly yours,
L. M. HUNTER,
R. F. D. No. 1, Morton, Miss.
State of Mississippi

Personally appeared before me the undersigned member of Board of Supervisors in and for said County and State, the within named L. M. Hunter, who after being duly sworn states that the foregoing testimonial is composed of his own words, written with his own hand and the same is absolutely true and genuine.

Feminine Rebuke.
The suffragette was conversing with the eminent African traveler.
"And you don't believe in woman suffrage?" said the lady.
"No, madam," the hunter of big game replied, "I believe that the feminine traits, gentle, humane, tender, fit your sex for the home rather than for the stern duties of life or the possible necessities of the state."
"Yes," the suffragette replied. "I have heard those arguments before. And now may I ask how you received that deep scar on your cheek?"
"It was given me by a lioness, madam."
The suffragette smiled.
"Good for the lady lion," she said—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Knowledge from Experience

ORLEANS LOSES HOPE

"Pretender" Changes Plans in Attempt to Form Monarchy.

Royalist Leader Attempts to Reconcile Few Warring Followers—Populace Cares Nothing for Restoration of Throne.

Paris.—The royalists, who are always fervent in France, although their political influence ceased to be important long ago, were surprised and rather dismayed to receive from the Duke of Orleans an order that he will have no direct representative in France hereafter.
The Duke of Orleans, the royalist pretender to the French throne, of course, who is an exile in England, writes an open letter in which he expressly states that any one assuming to be his personal representative will do so without authority.
In this way the duke hopes to end the discord which began several months ago after he changed his representative here. On the one side is the newspaper known as Action Francaise, of which Leon Daudet is head; on the other are individuals who oppose the militant methods of this newspaper.

In his letter the Duke of Orleans says he has undertaken to reorganize his followers in an effort to decentralize the royalist movement, as he has always been opposed to centralization. The political bureau is suppressed, but delegates will be appointed who, by means of committees, will carry on the royalist campaign.
As a matter of fact the cause of the Orleansists, the most important branch of royalism in France, has shrunk to a mere shadow. Tourists, particularly Americans, visiting France, are prone to discuss the possibility of the monarchy some day replacing the present republic. But these discussions spring more from romantic speculation than from any knowledge of the situation.

The French republic was never stronger, more solidly placed on its foundations than at this moment. The royalists proclaim themselves openly in the senate and chamber of deputies, but their number is insignificant; they fail to hold even the balance of power when the other parties are closely divided.
Among the working classes no desire for the restoration of the monarchy is apparent. The last strong-

HAS WORKED A FULL CENTURY

Coloradan Retires at Age 114—Said to Be Nation's Oldest Man—Wanted to Retire With $100,000.

Grand Junction, Col.—"Cherokee Bill," an Indian-negro, said to be one hundred and fourteen years old, and declared by the United States census to be the oldest man in America, has announced that he will retire.
"One hundred years of work is enough for any man," said Bill. "I wanted to retire with $100,000 to my credit, an average of $1,000 for every year of my life, but I cannot make it."
He is reputed to have 300 pounds of gold cached away in hiding places about the little shack which he calls home. His gold, according to estimates, is worth between $75,000 and $80,000. His fortune has been made within the last fifteen years from gold mining in Leadville, Cripple Creek and along the Grand river. The only name by which he has ever been known in this part of the country is "Cherokee Bill."

Tug Hits Whale During Fog

Strikes Sea Monster Asleep Off the Pacific Coast, But Escapes Damage.

Tacoma, Wash.—With a mighty thump, that sent Capt. Crosby sprawling in his deck house, and deck hands flopping wildly out of the bunks, put the engineer on his back and set the mechanism shuddering, the tug Redondo came to a sudden stop near the light four miles north of the fork of the Fraser river on the sturdy tramp ship's trip here from Vancouver, B. C.
At first Capt. Crosby thought the tug was aground. But the real reason for the big thump and the cessation of the engines was even more hair raising. For it was discovered the Redondos was on the back of a whale. And it was a whale something more than three times as big as the tug.
Capt. Crosby said the sea monster must have been asleep, for otherwise he would not have lain about in the deep in that way and got bumped into. Whales have been reported as extraordinarily plentiful off the mouth of the Fraser, and constant lookout was kept for them, but the night was misty and completely hid the whopping, napping ocean giant.
The tug smashed into the whale

How He Found Out.
"Mr. Chairman," shouted one of the delegates to the convention. "I move that the nominating speeches be limited to one minute."
"Second the motion!" yelled a dozen others.
A storm of protest arose, but the chairman put the motion.
It was lost by a vote of 47 to 45.
"I merely wished to find out, Mr. Chairman," explained the delegate who had made the motion, "how many ambitious orators there are in this convention. There are forty-seven."

Find $10,000 in Wooden Leg.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—An old wooden leg may not be much of a legacy, but when it contains $10,000 it certainly is worth having, thinks Jacob Randall, a pauper at the poor farm of Canadian county. The leg was given to him by Alexander P. Hamilton, a supposed pauper at the farm, just before he died a few days ago.
Randall later discovered a large roll of money in the stock of the artificial limb. If Hamilton had relatives they are not known of here.

Clever Russian Swindler

Then Poplavsky married a young woman named Smurnoff and forthwith insured her with the Kertch company for 1,500 rubles. Soon he found a female patient in one of the St. Petersburg hospitals whose case was hopeless. He was able to get her furnished with his wife's civic papers, and when she died he collected his wife's insurance money. She also was buried in the name of Fedoulna. Then he settled in St. Petersburg as Boleslav Kupinsky and opened a timber business. He tried to insure with the Helmsingors company for 25,000 rubles, as he now admits, intending to repeat the swindle that had so far succeeded. But by this time he was being watched.
The police will exhume his and his wife's doubles to try and learn how they died. They believe that he had several pupils, who worked the trick on other companies. The obligation in Russia to produce passports and documents showing one's antecedents really made the swindle easy, because the production of them had the effect of stopping the inquiries that would have followed natural suspicion.

He Got Insurance Money by Fraud—Now St. Petersburg Police Have Him in Custody.

St. Petersburg.—A widespread swindle effected by fictitious life insurance operations has just been discovered by the St. Petersburg police. The chief figure is Sigismund Poplavsky, son of an insurance agent. He has owned to frauds on the New York Life, the Urbaine and the Kertch insurance companies. Poplavsky received a high school education in his native town of Tiflis and started swindling early. He got appointed to the traffic department of the Vladikavkaz railroad and there sold six wagonloads of wheat belonging to a shipper. He was indicted and his mother bailed him out, giving him the title deeds of an estate she owned as security. He sold the bail security and hid in the Caucasus.
His first experiment in fraudulent life insurance was a dozen years ago. He insured himself with the Urbaine company for 15,000 rubles. The following year a very sick man presented himself at the Pakof office of the company, far away from where the policy was taken out, and duly paid the premium. He showed all the passport identification documents of Poplavsky. Soon the sick man, whose true name was Ivan Fedoulnin, died, and Poplavsky, who had taken the other's identity, drew the insurance policy. Still keeping Fedoulnin's name he went to Narva and in a year had spent the money. Then in 1901 he insured as Fedoulnin with the New York Life for 35,000 rubles and in the following year he took a man from the hospital who was incurably ill and equipped him with all the Fedoulnin papers. The dying man was installed in the apartment of Poplavsky's brother, where very soon he died. His real name is so far unknown, but he was buried as Fedoulnin and once again Poplavsky got the insurance money.

Make Books for the Blind

Movement to Establish a System of Uniform Type Incorporated at Washington.

Washington.—An organization known as the National Library for the Blind has been incorporated here to carry on a movement to establish a universal type for blind readers and to distribute books among them.
Literature for the blind, now published at a rate of less than 50 books a year, is made less useful to them because it is now printed in at least five different styles of type. There is now no method of circulating books for the blind.
The national library aims to have all books for blind readers printed in type which shall be universally understood and to establish traveling libraries. The library will also buy and copy sheet music for blind students and assist them in new means of livelihood by transcribing books and music for the library.

Dog Philes His Victim.

Yardley, Pa.—Jeff, the bull terrier, of which Frank Robinson, church warden, justice, village milkman and philanthropist, is the owner, when less than a year old had whipped every dog in the vicinity with but one exception. On Jeff's peculiarities that, after having whipped a dog within the proverbial inch of its life, he carries the other canine home, to be nursed or to die. At home Jeff is as meek as a lamb and dines regally with Tabby, the Robinson family cat, and her several kittens.

BEST TRICK NOT IN THE AIR

Aviator Was Clever at His Work, but Shone Best in Another Line of Endeavor.

Henry M. Neely, the aviator poet of Philadelphia, said at a recent banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford:
"Yes, it is true that it takes a lot of money to become an aviator. You can't get an aeroplane and you can't learn to fly without plenty of cash."
Mr. Neely smiled.
"I was watching a brother aviator making a volplane the other day when I heard a young lady say: 'He can do a lot of tricks, can't he?'"
"Yes, you bet he can," her companion agreed.
"What is his best trick?" she continued.
"His best trick, far and away," was the reply, "is buying a biplane on credit. He's done it twice now, and I shouldn't be surprised to see him pull it off a third time before he breaks his neck."

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ITCHING ECZEMA

"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruption began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. A fine doctor treated the trouble two weeks, but did me no good. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment but without much hope as I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and so on until I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap was always kept in our home, and we decided after that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug." (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redonda Beach, Cal., Jan. 15, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 24 K, Boston.

A Little Off.

Senator Penrose was talking in Washington about the dreadful hunting accidents of last month. "When buck fever seizes a man," he said, "he goes as far off his aim as the old lady went in her definition of the word 'bell-cog'." She was talking with a friend about a bishop.
"He's a fine man," said the friend, "a fine, handsome man. His only trouble is that he's a little bell-cog."
"Bell-cog?" said the old lady with a surprised frown. "He must have changed, then. The last time I saw him he was tall and rather slender."

Feed Your Crops Available Potash

Insoluble plant foods are cheap in the beginning but may be dear in the end. We feel good when we hear that the soil contains enough Potash to raise 5000 crops, but we feel tired when we discover that it will take 1000 years or so to make it available. We will be converted into plant food ourselves long before that.

POTASH

The acids derived from green manure may make insoluble phosphate of lime more available. But the lepidolite Potash in the soil is less soluble in these acids than in the slightly alkaline waters of the best soils. A little soil Potash becomes available yearly, but not enough to provide for profitable crops. Crops have two periods of Potash hunger. One just after germination and the other requires ample available Potash at these periods and if you provide it you will find that Potash Pays. Send for our pamphlet on making fertilizers.
