A Tribute to Wade Henderson

The Editor of The News-Record, Marshall, North Carolina. Dear Sir:—

I was shocked a few days ago to learn of the death of Wade Henderson. Wade had lived in our home for the last nine years, and was almost as dear to us as one of our own family. Our children loved Wade and he loved them.

I have had quite a wide range of experience with men, and in all my acquaintances and observations I have never seen a man who came as near measuring up to the full standard of unassumed honesty, truth, and conscientious goodness of heart as Wade Henderson.

While he lived with us, there came to him several times great sorrow, but he patiently and quietly bore it without a murmur. Although badly deformed in body, he never complained of his condition.

He was always kind and obliging and never harsh or out of humor that we ever discovered. He suffered all and suffered nothing. He took the buffets and rewards of this world apparently with equal thanks.

He was our dear friend and we were his. His death is a personal sorrow to us and we shall miss him very much and always cherish his memory.

Respectfully,
JOHN A. HENDRICKS

NEWS FROM STACKHOUSE.

Stackhouse, N. C. Jan. 31, 1913.

Mr. Frank Honeycutt of Stackhouse, and Miss Alice Gahagan, of Allan-Stand were quietly married yesterday at 4 o'clock p. m. by Rev. A. C. Gibbs, pastor of the groom, at the home of Mrs. A. M. Stackhouse.

The bride was on a return trip from Hot Springs, and was met by the groom at Rynnion. They immediately decided to get married and with that object in view came to the dwelling of Mrs. Stackhouse.

No elaborate preparation was made for the wedding by either party.

The bride was dressed in a becoming suit of blue, just as she had stepped off the train, while the groom was clothed in a neat suit of black, just as he had left only a few moments before the store of his brother-in-law where he was serving as clerk.

With all the lack of prearrangement none could fail to note the exquisite beauty of the bride in her maidenly modesty, and the manly appearance of the groom, as they stepped before the minister to hear the words that would make them man and wife.

Only a few friends of the young couple were present to witness the ceremony, owing to the fact that the wedding day had been kept an entire secret, it having been the desire of all concerned to avoid as far as possible a curious crowd such as would naturally have attended the nuptials of a couple so popular.

Although this newly married couple may not have the notoriety of the famous Gould and Shepard match, yet none could look into their beaming faces and doubt them happiness greater.

I am sure I express the desire of all who know these young people, when I say, we "wish them a long and happy life."

A. C. GIBBS.

Miss Geneva Triplet.

Poplar Young Lady of Lenoir is Dead.

(Special to The Observer)

Lenoir Feb. 3.—Miss Geneva Triplet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Triplet, died at the home of her parents Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, after an illness of two weeks with a complicated disease of the brain. Miss Triplet was easily one of the most popular young ladies of Lenoir, possessing a most rare sunshiny and vivacious disposition.

The funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Messrs. J. O. Fullbright, C. M. Pickens, E. N. Joyner and C. T. Squires. The body was interred in Bellevue Cemetery. The floral offerings, profuse and most beautiful, attested to the popularity of Miss Triplet. The deceased is survived by her parents, seven brothers and three sisters.

The above clipping from the Charlotte Observer brings the news of the death of the sister of Dr. Triplet. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon.

The annual report of disbursement of the County funds for the year 1912, which should have been made by the county officers has been delayed on account of the sickness and death of our dear friend and brother W. H. Henderson, this piece of work was assigned to him.

He has made these reports for the past several years. Wade was always prompt and accurate we all trusted him but he was too weak; although he had begun to prepare these reports but death claimed him before he finished them.

The reports will be posted as soon as they can be prepared.
