ACCIDENT DUE TO A CUSPIDOR

Mother of Young Baby Stumbles And Falls. Serious Complications Set In.

Duffield, Va.—In advices from this place, Mrs. d. L. Johnson says: "When my baby was about a month old, I stumbled and fell over a cuspidor, and contracted such pains in my back, I could not stoop over without falling to the floor.

I got terribly weak, and was very uneasy about myself.

My case was certainly a serious one. I was so delicate that most people thought I was going to have consumption, and I thought so myself. Finally my husband advised me try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I tried and am confident that it saved my

The pains in my side and back have disappeared, and all of my friends here say that I am looking better than I have done for a long time.

I recommend Cardul to all of my lady friends, as I believe it will help them, just as it did me, if they will only give it a trial.

You may use this letter in any you wish. I feel so grateful, for if it had not been for Cardul, the woman's tonic, I believe I would by this time have been in my grave."

Try Cardul for your troubles. It will help you, as it did Mrs. Johnson.

WHAT TO PLANT AND WHEN

Advice by an Expert on Agricultural | the peas have been picked. Matters-Raising Poultry and Fruit -Rotation of Crops-Ridding Lawn of Pests.

By PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOLTE. When other things are equal, prob- undesirable occupants, ably the safest form of agriculture for the inexperienced city man to take up of our lawn pests. The first few days is a combination of poultry and fruit. The logic back of this choice is simple, and, we believe, sound. Chickens will thrive and produce profitably under proper management them than last year. There always in every section of this country. They are hardy and stand abuse well, while the amateur is learning the ropes. will be. Small capital is required to make a start, and they multiply rapidly. In fact, a shrewd old Yankee, "down in successful poultry farm by borrowing a setting hen from one neighbor and a setting of eggs from another. After the chicks were hatched he kept the hen until she had laid a setting of eggs and then returned both, thereby discharging his debts without ex-Any sort of well drained land will do for chickens. About all one man can look after profitably is 1,000 hens and their offspring, and he can count on a dollar profit per hen each year in small flocks the profits often run much higher per hen. Housing 1,000 hens in colony houses holding 100 hens to the pen will cost from $2,500 to $5,000, depending upon the material and the location. By scattering these houses over ten acre tract of land there will be no need of inside fences and the flocks will keep separate. By planting this ten acres of good apples, provided it is located in an apple growing region, and handling same according to commercial orchard methods, one can make the land do double duty. It is known now that proper location and handling will secure a crop of apples every year. The secret is this:

1-Spray trees properly. 2-Prune trees properly. 3-Keep the ground cultivated all summer

4-Pinch off all but one of the green apples from each fruit spur as soon as they set.

5-Use heaters during late frost. The third item keeps the water in the soil, and the apples stay on the trees instead of blowing off. The fourth rule is one of the most important, as it evens up the strain on the tree and while the yearly crop will be smaller than the natural crop one year and larger the next it will cost less to handle and the fruit will be much better in form, size and color, and it will bring in more money. Such an orchard will bring in from $300 to $500 a year per acre, and the cost of handling will not exceed $75. It will take from six to ten years to bear profitably. Set the trees out in lence. Robert's thoughts turned to 50 foot squares. Between them set arsenate of lead, one pound to a barfather's automobile troubles, and of dwarf fruit trees in 50 foot squares, rel of water. The ground under and between the trees should be planted to a rotation of hoed crops, like potatoes, corn, cont crops garden crops etc.

Succession of Garden Crops.

Our springtime enthusiasm starts the garden off in great shape and we plant some radishes and lettuce and peas. Later on we find time to plant corn, cucumbers and tomatoes. The class of vegetables which may go into the ground very early is likewise harvested very early. There is a big gap between this early harvest and the time of green corn and red tomatoes, yet we have to work just as hard dur ing this hungry period as if we were getting a bounteous yield.

Why not plan the varieties of vegetables and their planting time so as to secure a continuous and ample supply of good, fresh green things? It's just as easy as any other method of garden management, and it's much more satisfactory. Instead of having only half of your garden working after the early vegetables are gone, plan to put in other crops on the same ground so that the succession will be almost unbroken.

The systematic rotation of farm crops is an absolute necessity, in or- sequently certain of her organs, such der to secure maximum yields, and to as the mammary glands, have bekeep down pests. Various crops have entirely different effects on the soil, some taking more of one element, others feeding heavily on another. The legumes, such as clover and alfalfa, science, whichever we may call it, of are heavy feeders, but they possess the peculiar faculty of transferring nitrogen from the air to the soil, and each individual cow, of her disposithis makes them our most valuable tion, dairy temperament and physical class of plants, without question, Gar- condition. den peas and beans belong to this family.

As Other plants vary in proportion and a consequence he didn't venture out it is necessary to make frequent changes of the location of a crop in order to avoid using up all of any one element of plant food.

The problem of diseases and pests is a serious one, particularly in the east. After a certain related class of plants, like potatoes and tomatoes, have been grown on the same land for a couple of seasons, it becomes infected with their enemies and the only his hands into his British breeches way to get rid of them is to starve pocket." Lawn Pests.

Prompt action and thorough, intelligent treatment is necessary to kill lawn pests and rid your sod of these

The dandelion is the most notorious of warm growing weather will bring out its glowing blossoms and no hard winter seems to diminish its optimism or energy. There will be more of are. The richer the soil and the finer the place, the more dandelions there

Unlike other weeds, which can be crowded out by heavily feeding the grass, the dandelion responds to such Maine," is credited with starting a treatment even more nobly than does the grass. It is directly comparable to some of our public servants, whose extraordinary abilities could be productive of so much good if applied in the proper direction.

True, the dandelion serves the purpose of calling many householders out of doors into the healing spring sunshine, who would otherwise stay indoors. Its first blossoms bring real joy to the small boy and salad to the railroad section hand, but the man with the lawn mower loves it not. Away with it. We can banish it if we

The best method of eradicating dandelions from sod is to keep the grass cut closely during the dandellon season, remove it and burn it, and spray the lawn every ten days or oftener with a solution of copperas, or sulphate of iron, as it is more properly called. This costs about three cents pound and can be secured from druggists or seed stores. Dissolve three-quarters of a pound in a gallon of water and spray the dandelion plants thoroughly. An ordinary sprinkling can will get results, but it is much better to use a sprayer that throws a very fine mist-like spray. Use it while the sun is shining on the plants.

It will get practically all of the dandelion leaves and blossoms. No damage will be done to the grass, aside rom blackening the tips.

Digging dandelions out is practicaly impossible, but this spraying scheme is very effective.

Plantains and other weeds must be pulled and burned before they blossom

Ants are best destroyed by pouring a little carbon bisulphide in each hole and covering it with earth so that the fumes cannot escape

The best way to kill moles is with special mole traps.

Angle worms are beneficial to a lawn unless present in great numbers. Carbon bisulphide will kill them, too. Cut worms are destroyed by soaking the infected area with a solution of little white worms will be found among the grass roots.

Legumes Add Nitrogen. At the Rhode Island station a five year pot experiment with different legumes was conducted to ascertain the amount of nitrogen secured from the air during the growth of the legumes in a light, gravelly soil, without the addition of nitrogenous manure, but with optimum amounts of other manures. It was found that the approximate gain during five years with cowpeas and soy beans and with vetch, which was grown alternately with each, was a ton of nitrogen per acre about seven-tenths of which was contained in the 25 tons of moisture-free summer crops removed, and the remainder in the soil The following facts should be itself. taken into consideration: The soil in the pots was 10 inches deep, somewhat deeper than the surface soil in many localities; the winter vetch was grown in a heated greenhouse.

The Word of Life

By REV. H. W. POPE,

TEXT-"Holding forth the word of life."

In writing to the church at Philippi which he had just founded. Paul urges upon them two things: First: That they be blameless and harmless, or in other words. that they live a consistent Christian life. Second ly: That they form the habit of Paul then goes on to say that if these Philippian church members were satisfied simply to set a consistent example, and did not also engage in personal effort to help the unsaved he should consider his labor upon these as well nigh lost The ease with which one can do this work. and the blessing which usually accompanies it makes it almost inexcusable for us to neglect it.

On one occasion I handed a little card to a man asking if he would like something to read. On it he saw the word Christian, and at once he said with a sneer, "'Christian,' yes, I have neighbors who are Christians, and have some who are not, and the latter are more neighborly and more honor able in business every time." "That may be," I said, "but remember that it is not their religion which makes your neighbors mean and dishonorable, but the lack of it, and it is not fair to blame Jesus Christ for what does not belong to him."

Then I added, "It may be that you do not feel the need of a Savior now, but the time will surely come when you will feel it."

"I guess I need him enough now My wife died about a year ago, and since then I have lost my daughter My home is broken up and I haven't anything left to live for."

The man's voice trembled, and the tears began to come. I saw that I had touched a tender chord, and I said "My friend, if there is any one on this earth that needs Jesus Christ, I think you are the man." Then I held up Christ as a comforter and told him how willing Christ was to come into his sad heart and make it glad, and into his desolate home and make it bright with heavenly hopes. Then, taking it for granted that he did not know how to find Christ, I went on to explain the way of salvation. Then I said, "Now my friend, with this ununderstanding of what it is to be come a Christian, are you willing to Christ as your Savior right here and now, and give me your hand on it?" "Yes sir. I am," he replied and he grasped my hand heartily. Then we removed our hats, and prayed, and he prayed, after which he gave me his name and told me all bout himself This was at a fair in the midst of noise and confusion. Horses were racing, fakirs were shouting and the merry-go-round was in full blast. And yet in the midst of that surging crowd this man with bared head was confessing his sins to God and inviting Jesus Christ to come into his heart. It is a great aid in opening conversation with strangers to have with you a variety of leaflets or gospel cards. You can hand one to a person saying. "Would you like something to read?" If he does not express an opinion, you can give him another, saying, "This one is a little different," or "Here is one which I think you will enjoy." By this mean you gradually become ac quainted, and by and by you can give him one which presents the way of salvation plainly, and ask him if he has accepted Christ as his Savior.

Sitting in a hotel in Denver I was reading a newspaper. By my side sat a young man talking with two others. Soon he uttered an oath. Taking out a little card entitled, "Why Do You Swear?" I laid it down on the arm of the chair between us and went on reading. He picked it up and read it As soon as his companions left he said to me, "My friend, that is the best thing on swearing I ever saw. It is an awful habit I know and I ought not to do it, but you see I am a newspaper man on the Chicago Inter Ocean. I am thrown in with a rough crowd and I cannot seem to overcome the habit." He then went on to tell me about himself and we had a long heart to heart talk. Remember he began the conversation, and he did most of the talking

When we have ascertained 'one's real position, the next thing is to lead him to accept Christ. The main object is not to lead people to giev up their bad habits, or to attend church. or even to join the church, but rather to accept Christ as their personal Lord and Master. We should then show them from God's word that they have forgiveness of sins and eternal life (Acts 10:43; John 3:36).

They should also be instructed in the duties of the Christian life, especially the duty of confessing Christ publicly, and the habit of daily prayer and Bible reading.

Pure in Heart Shall See God

Shall life itself be less beautiful than one of its days? Do not believe it! Men call the shadow thrown upon the universe where their own dusky souls come between it and the eternal sun, life; and then moura that it should be less bright than the hopes of their childhood. Keep thou thy soul translucent, that thou mayest never see its shadow; at least never abuse thyself with the philosoph which calls that shadow life. Or rath er would I say, become thou pure theart, and thou shalt see God, who rision alone is life.-Rev. Ge

RECORD OF WORK WELL DONE

Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign Fruitful of Results for the Good of All Mankind.

Some comparisons showing the progress of the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the last eight years and the present needs of this movement are made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a brief report of its work recently issued. During the eight years of its work, the national association has assisted in the organization of over 800 state and local anti-tuberculosis societies located in almost every state and territory of the Union. Over 500 hospital and sanatoria have been established, with more than 30,000 beds for consumptives. About 400 dispensaries, with more than 1,000 physicians in attendance and at least 150 open air schools for tuberculous and anaemic children, have also been provided. Laws dealing with tuberculosis have been passed in 45 states, and ordinances on this subject have been adopted in over 200 cities and towns. An active field campaign of education against tuberculosis has been carried on in 40 states and territories by means of lectures, exhibits, the press, and the distribution of over 100,000,000 pamphlets on the disease

PIMPLES CAME IN BLOTCHES

Morrison, Tenn.-"For one year I suffered from a very severe attack of acne or pimples, accompanied by eczema. It first showed itself by the formation of small red, rather hard nimples which were not only disfiguring, but were painful. They also appeared on my neck and chest. Their itching was often so intense as to cause insomnia, and they very often caused pain and burning. I tried several so-called 'sure cure' remedies, but they did little or no good. Several months ago I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and wrote for a sample.

"I found them so soothing that I at once purchased a twenty-five cent cake of Cuticura Soap, and a fifty cent box of Cuticura Ointment. After using them for about a month, all of the itching and the pimples had en-tirely disappeared." (Signed) John Finger, Dec. 30, 1911.
