temarkable Gastronomic Feats That Are Hardly Believable, Though All Authenticated.

Champion Fried Egg Eater of the Berkshires was the title of Louis Morris of Housatanic, Mass., before he entered in a recent egg eating contest on a wager. He had a record of 22 eggs and the wager was on his contention that he could easily increase this record to 25. When he reached the seventeenth egg he was seized with an attack of acute indigestion and a doctor worked over him for an hour before he was restored to consciousness and pronounced out of danger. He also has a record for 54 ears of green corn, cupful of flour and stir until well At the beefsteak dinners of many political clubs astounding records are made in the consumption of viands. Some of those who take part think nothing of eating 10 and 12 pounds of meat at the sitting. At one clambake held at College Point recently eight baskets of food were eaten by one diner. This basket included a leg and a breast of a chicken, 25 clams, two ears of corn and four potatoes. This record is declared accurate and authentic and is posted up in an East side club room.

A Rhode Island farmer had a record of half a bushel of walnuts, of which he was extraordinarily fond. He used half a bag of salt while eating them. A New Jersey blacksmith on a recent wager ate nearly a peck and a half of cherries. He said he could go on eating "forever," as he put it, but those who witnessed his feat declared they had seen enough to prove the eater a wonder. A Chicago man inordinately fond of mush and milk, lived on it for a week not long ago, eating four great bowlfuls of it three times a day.

Diesel Engined Vessel. The ship Hagen, which is the largest vessel in the world to be propelled by Diesel oil engines, recently made her trial trip in the lower New York bay. The vessel which was built for the Standard Oil company, measures 400 feet over all and has a displacement of 8,350 tons. She is equipped with two six-cylinder Dissel engines of two-cycle type, adapted to develop 2,400 horsepower, at 140 revolutions a minute. At sea the steering engine is driven by compressed air. When nearing port, steam from a donkey boiler is used in the steering engine. The vessel is lighted by electricity the living quarters are heated by a hot water system, the water being heated by the main exhaust of the engine. During the test the vessel ran
