"Aunt Jane Henderson" Charged with Perjury. Mayor Rector Binds her to Court. Defendant Gives Bond.

The case of State vs. Jane Henderson charged with perjury was called for trial last Wednesday at 2 o'clock p. m. in the Mayors Court of the town of Marshall with Honorable Cleophas Rector, Mayor, presiding. Both State and defendant announced their readiness for trial. The State introduced several witnesses whose testimony tended to prove the truth of charge against the defendant in that she testified falsely in a case some days ago in which Bit Stanton was indicted for retailing liquor. The defendant denied having sworn falsely in the retailing case against Stanton. After about five hours of examining and cross examining witnesses and argument by counsel the court adjudged probable cause and bound the defendant over to the next term of the Superior Court for the trial of criminal cases. The State was represented by E. Zeph Ray; the defendant by Geo. M. Pritchard. The case was one of the most drawnout that has recently been tried here in an inferior Court. The lawyers are obligated to Mayor Rector for his great patience in the trial of the case.

Convicts at last at work.

On last Friday night when the late west bound train pulled along down th French Broad River it carried forty-two passengers destined to Madison County. The passengers were composed of six white men and thirty six negroes, all big stout able bodied men. They wore clothing furnished by the State of North Carolina and are in the service of the state for various terms ranging from three to thirty years for the commission of crimes in the felony grade, ranging all the way down from murder. They were taken to the county stockades, at Brush Creek, between Marshall and Walnut, where they will, for sometime, have their headquarters.

On Saturday morning the first dirt was broken and the first actual work, except the surveying, was done toward the construction of the National Highway thru Madison County into Tennessee.

The authorities have decided to begin work at this point and build the road from that point toward Tennessee instead of commencing it at Shut-in and building this way. We commend them for their good judgment in this matter for to build from this point will open a highway where it will be of the greatest service to the most people and have a greater county-wide stimulating effect upon good-roads movement.

With this road in course of construction and the county road and bond authorities lending their aid and co-operation we will soon have roads, good roads, enough in the county to make other counties set up and take notice."

No greater step has been recently made that means so much toward the progress and material development of this county.

Revere Wedding.

On Sept. 28th 1913. at high noon, Richard Franklin, Jr., was married to Miss Pearl Rice, both of Big Laurel. The ceremony was performed at the home of the brides father, Wm. S. Rice, 'Squire J. Leak officiating. Mr. Franklin and Miss Rice are two of Madison County's popular school teachers. Quite a throng of friends were present. Immediately after the ceremony the dining table was the chief attraction. It literally groaned under the load of good things. Like the timbers of a great ship in the storm. Everybody present was suddenly taken by the arm and ushered in to this room of rooms, and all enjoyed the sumptuous feast. After dinner the bride and groom and a large number of their friends left for the home of Mr. A. Franklin, the groom's father, to take supper. We trust that the happy couple may have a successful and long life.

J. A. LEAK.
