A Thought for The Week.

There is more brains and muscle in corn bread and butter-milk than all the Soda water and ice cream that all the "dudes" of all the country ever swallowed.

Pull, Brother, Pull.

The editor has received a card from a subscriber saying "stop my paper, I live on Shut-in." His subscription was paid three months in advance and the publisher forwarded him a check for 25 cents and called the account square.

The Shut-in people are all right and their country is all right but our ex-subscriber has soured on us out of an evil imagination. We stopped his paper but will keep grinding on. We bid the brother good bye and extend to him our best wishes and kindest regards for his future welfare and prosperity. If we have offended the brother let him take consolation from these words: "It must needs be that offenses come but woe unto that man by whom the offense cometh. We can't always write articles that taste sweet to everybody. We wish we could but sometimes we all run into an "open switch" because there were no red lights hung out to give us warning of the danger. If we have made any mistake we regret our indiscretion. When we were uttering the old lie school of our youth at the "EXHIBITION," that advance parade ground of civilization, the "kids" all lined up and sang to the admiring and wondering spectators. "You'll pardon our blunders as all are aware, may even extend to the president's chair," and everybody clapped their hands and cheered us.

Experience has proven the truth and the wisdom of that little song. If we make any mistake it will be through a want of wisdom and understanding and should we commit an error we trust our subscribers will not bind us in the fetters of poverty and cast us, mercilessly, into outer darkness where we will be compelled to hear gnashing of teeth.

"Let us all pull together." Pull, brother, pull. Pull out a dollar and subscribe for our paper, pull for good schools, pull for good roads, pull for the progress of our county seven days out of every fifty-two weeks, and if in the "pullin" you get pulled, just keep on "pullin." Pull, brother, pull and in the pulling don't stop to kick. A good "puller" don't kick and a bad kicker don't do much "pullin."

As to State Convicts and Good Roads.

The Asheville Citizen on Oct. 6, carried the following article which is in point in connection with convict labor on the National Highway thru' Madison and Henderson counties.

The Citizen does not pretend to analyze at long range and short notice the strange bill introduced in the lower house of the state legislature at Raleigh by Representative Evans, of Bladen, which looked to the "repeal of the laws for the improvement of the Hickory Nut Gap and Madison county highways," but it looks at first blush as if somebody is trying to block the present movement which provides for the completion of the Central highway by means of convict labor furnished by the state. It is true that Mr. Evans also has a bill which favors the taking of all convicts from railroad work and placing them on state highways, but the bill he introduced Friday, dealing with the sections named, offers no explanation, as far as The Citizen can determine. The facts are that fifty convicts are now working on the Hickory Nut Gap road in Henderson, while fifty more are at work on the Central Highway in Madison County, or at least on a section thereof. Since "possession is nine points of the law," Mr. Evans should certainly state his object in desiring to have these convicts taken away.

As recently remarked in these columns, the proper place for state and county convicts is on the public highways. No really sound argument can be advanced to show why they should be employed in the construction of private and semi-private railroad enterprises. Nor should they ever be brought into competition with free labor, as is the case in several states of the Union today.

But to return to the state convicts now at work in our own section, who are here by virtue of state legislation, and who are vitally necessary to the completion of a modern highway which will benefit not only this section, but the entire state. The bill introduced by Representative Evans has apparently attracted but little attention from our people generally, and while it may not, on the final analysis, be as dangerous as it now appears to be, our senator and representatives at Raleigh should lose no time in looking into its every provision. The convicts were brought here as the result of fair and open representations made to Governor Craig and the legislature, and any effort to remove them should be conducted under like circumstances. The attention of our representatives has been called to this bill by the Asheville board of trade, and they will doubtless act accordingly.

While the Citizen has expressed the opinion that its friend, H. B. Varner, may be pursuing the wrong track in antagonizing certain interests necessary to the successful issue of the good roads movement in this state, the bill of Representative Evans certainly lends some color to Mr. Varner's charges that interests inimical to the good roads cause bought to secure legislation by means of "speak bills."

First Teachers Meeting Held at Lower California Creek.

Editor News-Record:—

The first teachers meeting for the Ivy District was held at Lower California School House on Saturday Oct. 4th, 1913. The district is composed of townships No. 15, 5, 4, 11 and 16. Nearly all the teachers were present bringing with them encouraging reports from their respective schools.

Prof. Buckner, teacher at this beautiful school house, had his splendid school in session when the County Superintendent and teachers arrived.

Prof. Anders expressed himself as being favorable to doing foundation work in these meetings and as an initiatory to that end asked Prof. Buckner to use his school as a means of illustrating some line of public school work. Mr. Buckner chose orthography as his subject and effectively exemplified the subject in all its bearings to the edification of the teachers. Criticisms and commendation were given by the other teachers several lines of public school work were explained by the Superintendent especially the compulsory attendance feature and report blanks on this feature were distributed to the teachers. The meeting was a good success and vindicated the policy of the Supt. in holding district meetings instead of requiring all the county to attend at Marshall regardless of expenses and worry as heretofore. The California school and community had generously provided dinner on the grounds for the meeting which did them much credit. The teachers of this district will meet again on Saturday Nov. 1 at same place at which every teacher in the district is requested to attend.

The teachers all appeared to be interested with their respective work and good results are to follow the meeting.

Mr. J. R. Sams of the Board of Education was present and added to the interest of the occasion.
