SINGING CONVENTION AT LOWER WALNUT CREEK SUNDAY.

The singing convention at Lower Walnut Creek on last Sunday evening was attended by a large number of people from Marshall and the surrounding community. There were present the singing classes of Lower Walnut Creek, Upper Walnut Creek and Dry Branch and the singing was excellent affording entertainment of a very high class to all who were present. Bro. Steven Davis, Chairman of the convention, announced in the beginning that the object of the convention was not a contest between the classes but to sing songs in praise of the Master. Singing was interspersed with brief addresses appropriate to the occasion by Geo. M. Pritchard, E. Zeph Ray and W. R. Sams. The speakers took the view that the speeches were only for the purpose of giving the classes and opportunity to rest and that long speeches would be an imposition on the large audience that was present to hear the music. At the close of the singing by the individual classes all the choirs joined in singing "What A Friend We have in Jesus," the benediction was then pronounced and every body went home in good spirits. The order was excellent.

Good Roads our Motto.

No Dispute in Madison About the National Highway.

The Waynesville Courier carried an article in its last issue on "Madison Road Trouble." Our worthy contemporary seems to think we have had a dispute about where the convicts were to be put to work on the National Highway. It quotes our article of two weeks ago as being of interest in connection with the subject discussed in its columns. The people of Madison care very little about where the road begins, that is where the state convicts begin work on the National Highway thro' our county. There was a little good natured rivalry between certain sections of the county as to where the convicts should begin work, but now that the convicts have been started to work and the road is under construction there is neither rivalry nor dispute about the matter. It is settled and we are all good road enthusiasts and the contentions of the different sections of the county is lost in the county-wide and state-wide gospel of good roads.

The News-Record did think that the idea of sending the convicts to "Shut-in" was ridiculous and the article in that connection was no attack upon any one but was means to discourage the idea of placing the convicts at a point where their work would be of so little service to the general public. And not to create strife or trouble.

The News-Record stands for good roads and better roads throughout every section and community of the county and state. This is our doctrine three hundred and sixty five days in every year. On this question the progressive element of our people are right with us. The road is going to be built and we are all helping to turn a wheel.

Reception.

Invitations were issued the first of last week by Mrs. W. H. Morrow for a reception on Thursday from 3 to 6 in honor of her sister-in-law Mrs. C. M. Gage, nee Miss Mary Emma Hood who is so well known in our town.

The reception was attended by the ladies of town and vicinity and welcomed to our midst one whom all had learned to love and admire.

The house was beautifully decorated in nasturtiums and golden rod and the receiving room was a mass of these flowers that were banked and scattered with prodigal beauty every place. The refreshment room was decorated with American beauty roses and sultanas.

In the receiving line were Mrs. W. H. Morrow the hostess the Bride, Mrs. J. M. Gudger Jr. of Asheville, Mrs. John W. Langley of Pikeville Ky., and Mrs. Eliza Morrow.

Miss Mary Gudger received at the door, Miss Maggie Morrow received at the dining room and escorted the guests to the reception table at which Miss Mayne Morrow presided. The following young ladies served the guests: Misses Francis Morrow, Mattie Dalton and Effie White and Edna Gage Morrow. Delicious refreshments were served consisting of salad, cheese wafers and coffee and mints. After moments of delightful intercourse and well wishes to the Bride the ladies departed. The guests were numerous thus testifying of the esteem in which the bride is held in our midst.

The following persons were here from a distance; Madames J. M. Gudger, Jr. John W. Langley, of Kentucky, Mrs. Dodamead of Hendersonville, Mrs. Warren Davis of Hot Springs, Mrs. R. S. Ramsey of Sandy Mush, Mrs. R. R. Ramsey of Walnut.

The Reception was one of the prettiest that has taken place in Marshall and we are sure that the hearty good wishes expressed at the time are but augury of the welcome that is felt by all to one that has filled a large place in the social life of our town and whom now returns to be permanently with us. The News Record joins the others in well wishes.
