When You Call At Your Drug Store

Mr. Robert H. Norris, No. 1333 Henry St., North Berkeley, Cal., writes: "We have never had any other medicine but Peruna in our home since we have been married. I suffered with kidney and bladder trouble, but two months treatment with Peruna made me a well and strong man. My wife felt weak and was easily tired and was also troubled with various pains, but since she took Peruna she is well and strong."

A Change.
"Did Caesar's disposition change much during his life?" asked the professor.
"Well," answered the bluffing student, "he had a lot more Gaul when he died."

HUSBAND SPENT EVERYTHING
In an Effort to Bring Wife's Troubles to End, and Finally Succeeds.

Myra, Ky.—Mrs. Sarah Branham, of this town, gives out the following statement for publication: "I am 37 years of age, and suffered untold agony with womanly troubles for 11 years. For 7 years, I was all run down, and was told that I could not live. My husband spent everything he had, but I got only temporary relief.

A merchant recommended Cardui, the woman's tonic, to my husband, and he got me 5 bottles at one time. I began taking it, and before the first bottle was gone, I began to feel better. I took all of the 5 bottles, and I am today as sound and well as any woman, and fat and hearty."

Such testimony as the above, which is given unsolicited, speaks for itself. Can't you see, lady reader, that you are doing yourself, your family, your friends, an injustice by not, at least, trying Cardui, if you suffer from any of the many ailments so common to women?

Cardui is composed of pure, harmless, vegetable ingredients, which act in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly organs, helping build them back to permanent strength and health. Cardui has helped thousands of other women. Why not you? Ask your druggist. He knows about Cardui.

Backache Warns You

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year. Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame—if it hurts to stoop or lift—if there is irregularity of the secretions—suspect your kidneys. If you suffer headaches, dizziness and are tired, nervous and worn-out, you have further proof. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, a fine remedy for bad backs and weak kidneys.

A KENTUCKY CASE
G. W. L. Nesbitt, Marion, Ky., says: "Kidney disease had made me an invalid. I was in bed for weeks at a time and often wished that death would come and end my misery. I could hardly hold my arms above my head at times and the kidney secretions were in awful stages. Doctors had said little hope for my recovery. A relative advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had taken one box, I felt better. Doan's Kidney Pills were a well-earned name and Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR APRIL 12
THE JOURNEY TO EMMAUS.

(Easter Lesson.)
LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:13-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Who is he that shall condemn? It is Christ Jesus that died, you rather, that was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." Rom. 8:34.

We turn aside today to consider as the Easter lesson a well-known event in connection with the several appearances of our Lord after his resurrection; one of the many infallible proofs, Acts 1:3; I Cor. 15:4. The narrative of this journey is one of the most beautiful post-resurrection stories, simple, clear and of great value. It is related, evidently, by an eye witness. The Cleopas mentioned is not the son of Mary, John 19:25. The name of the second pilgrim is but a conjecture, though we somehow feel it was Luke himself. The journey was about seven and one-half miles and most likely they were returning to their homes after the Passover. Somewhere on the way a stranger joined them who asked the nature of their conversation, and the cause of their evident sadness (v. 17). In astonishment, Cleopas answers, but the stranger continues and adroitly draws out their entire story.

Interesting Progression.

I. Their Disappointment, vv. 13-24. It is all too evident that they did not expect a resurrection and that, filled with perplexity and discouragement they were on the verge of despair. It is interesting in this lesson to observe the progression (1) "and they talked" v. 14; (2) "and they found not," v. 23; (3) "and they saw not," v. 24; (4) "and they constrained him," v. 29; (5) "and they knew him," v. 31; (6) "and they said . . . the Lord is risen," vv. 32, 34; (7) "and they told," v. 34. As they "talked" it was revealed that their loving hearts were full of sadness and empty of faith, yet to talk is often the only way to find relief from the gnawing of grief. There seem (v. 15 R. V.) to have been two opinions and in their slowness of heart and unbelief they did not recognize their new companion. In response to his query they told how this Jesus had been delivered, condemned, crucified, and then revealed that this was to them the end of all things, for said they, "We had hoped that it was he." Are we willing he should have part in our every conversation? Continuing they told the amazing tale related by the women and, moreover that their statement of an empty tomb had been verified by certain women who had gone to investigate, but, in conclusion, they again reverted to their sadness by saying "They found his body."

Cause of Sadness.

II. His Appointment, vv. 25-35. Evidently the journey was continued and he gently rebukes them for their slowness of heart to believe the record of their own prophets. All sadness, practically, arises from unbelief in the Word of God, Phil. 4:6; 7; Rom. 8:28-32. He interpreted to them the true Messianic teaching of their own scriptures. He charges them with folly not to believe "all" of the record (v. 25). True wisdom is not that of skepticism which cuts out portions of the word, but, according to Jesus, it consists in believing all of the Scriptures. At last they reach Emmaus, still, let us remember, not knowing who it is walking with them. The road beyond was dangerous and "they constrained him" to accept their hospitality. As he sat at the table partaking of the ordinary evening meal, he assumed the place of the host, took the bread, blessed it and broke it. Instantly those old familiar acts and words revealed to them who it was that had walked by the way.

III. Teaching Points. This narrative is so full of teaching and yet so clear and simple that it is hard to suggest any ordinary deductions therefrom. The story does, however, reveal the interest of the risen Lord in the doubt of these two disciples. That they were probably not of the twelve is evident by the fact that when they returned to Jerusalem they found the eleven assembled (v. 33). Thus we see him going to those outside of that inner circle, also, two who loved him seeking a solution of the mystery and consolation for their sad hearts. First hiding his identity, he drew from them their story. He then took them back to their Scriptures, with which they must have been familiar, and revealed to them that this mystery was according to those holy writings. Again the picture of his disciples is interesting. The progress of development in their faith above alluded to, the evidence of their faith and love in him, their tender affection and the death of their hope. He had not, so they thought, been able to accomplish that which they had expected he would accomplish. In company with all of his disciples they did not apprehend the real meaning of his mission. His teaching is manifested in their urgent hospitality for they must have remembered his words, "I was a stranger, and ye took me in."

IN THE LIMELIGHT

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH ACTIVE

The duchess of Marlborough in an interview in London the other day on the aims of the Women's Municipal party, of which she is the president, said:

"That women have for so long held aloof from the active exercise of the vote in local government is due to the fact that they do not realize the value of political unity. Now the St. Mary-lebone Women's Local Government association has been the means of showing us what vigor women can bring into the political life of London. "For a start at their next meeting on March 27 a basis will be drawn up on which our work will be founded. From the women who sign we shall pick the cleanest and most ready spirits as the women's party candidates for the next borough council and London county council elections. They will be pledged to a program of progressive social legislation. They will not seek votes on the catch words of either of the men's municipal parties, but will let the voters see plainly what they stand for."

"We want to form a party at municipal elections which will have the same political effect as the entry of a labor party candidate at parliamentary elections. We aim at supplying the need of a central electoral machine which in conjunction with other local government associations will produce a party of women so strong that it can approach party agents before a vacancy is declared and insist that a suitable woman candidate shall run on party lines."

MRS. SHAFROTH A STUDENT

"If I could, I should like to go to college always," said Mrs. John F. Shafroth, wife of the senator from Colorado, in Washington the other day. "This reminds me of a story I once heard about a man who was left a legacy with an income to be paid as long as he should continue to remain in college. The story went on to say that at the age of eighty the man was still in college."

"Now, I have no such ulterior motive as that, but I love teachers and all that pertains to study. I should count it the greatest joy if I had time to take a college course every year." All of which brings one abruptly to a consideration of the question why our western women have such active and alert mentalities. Is it because the climate of the West is intensely invigorative, and therefore stimulating of mind as well as body, or it is that the inheritance of a pioneer tenacity from their mothers and grandmothers has induced a desire not to be denied once it fixes itself upon a certain aim?

In any case, the fact remains that western women have a mental intensity and vivacity not exceeded by that of the women of any other part of the country.

Mrs. Shafroth is a shining example in this respect of western woman-kind. She is intellectual as well as clever. She is acquainted with her country's progress from the political as well as the artistic standpoint, and her viewpoint is comprehensive because she is a student.

She was graduated from Howard college, Missouri, her home state. But her student days by no means came to an end when she left college. Rather, then commenced a period of more thoughtful study than she had undertaken before.

BUYS DUKE'S RARE VOLUMES?

According to a London cablegram Henry Edwards Huntington, an American millionaire, has purchased the great library of the duke of Devonshire. The library contains many rare volumes, and it is said the purchase price exceeds $1,000,000. The Chatsworth library, consisting of the Claxtons and Kemble collection of plays, are part of the collection. The British museum was anxious to obtain the rare editions, but was obliged to retire from the contest owing to the lack of funds, according to the report. Included in the purchase, are 23 Claxtons, a score of Shakespeare's quartos, plays by Ben Jonson, Marlowe, and other Elizabethans. The collection was sold by Kemble to the sixth duke of Devonshire for $10,000. It is said that in order to avoid adverse public opinion the books were shipped out of the country secretly.

Mr. Huntington was born in Oneonta, N. Y., February 27, 1850, and began business life in the hardware trade in his native town. His fortune, however, was made in the railroad construction business. His first venture in this line was made in 1880.

AMERICAN GIRL IN HIGH POSITION

Another American woman of distinguished family, Mme. Grouitch, will soon do her share in carrying American civilization to the Balkans, when she goes to Belgrade, where her husband has been appointed secretary of foreign affairs. She is now in America on a flying visit. She is well known in exclusive society circles of New York, Chicago, Washington and other large cities. Mme. Grouitch, who was formerly Miss Gordon of Virginia, met her husband at Athens when both were students there. After they had married he rose to be Serbian minister to England, and with him she played an important part in the high social circles of the British metropolis and Paris. She did notable work for the wounded of her adopted country during the Balkan war, and made a tour of America in the interests of the wounded soldiers. Later she went to Belgrade to work in the hospitals. King Peter and the two young princes are delighted that she is to live in their capital. The two young men, brought up without a mother, owe much to Mme. Grouitch, who acted as a social mentor during their several years in England.

Secrets of the Wardrobe.
When Winston Churchill was running for the governorship of New Hampshire, his opponents became pestiferously active, making speeches, writing letters and distributing campaign buttons. One morning a friend sent this telegram to Churchill: "Have you no buttons for your supporters?" The candidate was out of town and did not get the telegram, but a pretty girl stenographer did. She sent this answering wire: "No. We use safety pins." "WINSTON CHURCHILL" —Popular Magazine.

HAIR CAME OUT IN BUNCHES

Route No. 3, Box 20A, Broken Arrow, Okla.—"My trouble began with an itching of the scalp of my head. My scalp at first became covered with flakes of dandruff which caused me to scratch and this caused a breaking out here and there on the scalp. It became so irritated until I could not rest at night and my hair would come out in bunches and became short and rough.

"Everything I used would cause it to grow worse and it continued that way for about three or four years. While reading the paper I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. It proved so good that I decided to get some more. I used them as directed and in two weeks I saw a good effect. Now my hair is longer and looks better than I have ever known it to be. I give all the credit of my cure of scalp trouble to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Ella Shefield, Nov. 20, 1912. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.
