Mr. E. Zeph Ray, Editor, News-Record:- "Allow me space to commend you on the stand which you, through The News-Record, have taken in the recent political campaign in our county. This sentiment has long been needed in Madison and I think that the good seed sown now will continue to grow until our county takes the place which it should take in the history of our state."

Above is an extract from a letter received from Mr. Fied O. Tilson who has been attending Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, Conn. Fred will be at the Thousands Islands in the St. Lawerence during the summer. He has accepted a position there.

July Fourth in Marshall.

Local business men are plannng a good time in Marshall for the fourth of July. Judge Pritchard will deliver an address, there will be a ball game, a singing contest and other attractions for the day. A large crowd is expected to be present. Every body is invited. The exercises will be held in the Island. There will be nothing doing in Marshall on the fourth but a good time. Lets all go out and make the occasion a big one, have a good time for ourselves and give everybody else a good time.

Miss Mattie Dalton was visiting in the country last Saturday and Sunday.

Independence Bell

LMOST a century and a half ago, from Independence Hall, Philadelphia, rang out the news of liberty. Gathered in that Hall, the famous "Signers" put their names to the Declaration of Independence; and from the bell-tower came the tidings to the throng who waited in the Square. Liberty bell no longer hangs in the tower, but rests in the old Hall. The great crack in its side has made it mute. Never again will it declare a message to the nation like that with which it greeted the morning air, July fourth, seventeen hundred and seventy-six. Though its iron voice is silent, the Bell tells its story today. As long as Independence and national Honor shall survive, so long shall we, as Americans, reverently listen to that story. Gladly do we hear, over again, the tale of the by-gone day when the news of Liberty first fell upon American ears. The verses which are given below are by a nameless author. We are reprinting them here because they tell, in vivid narrative, the story of the "first Fourth." -THE FARMER'S WIFE.

HERE was a tumult in the city, In the quaint old Quaker town, And the streets were rife with people Pacing restless up and down, People gathering at corners, Where they whispered each to each, And the sweat stood on their temples With the earnestness of speech.

S THE bleak Atlantic currents Lash the wild Newfoundland Shore, So they beat against the State House, So they surged against the door And the mingling of their voices Made a harmony profound, Till the quiet street of Chestnut Was all turbulent with sound.

"Who is speaking?" "What's "What of Adams?" "What of Sherman?"

"Oh, God grant they won't refuse!"
"Make some way, there!" "Let me nearer!"

"Lam stifling!" "Stife, then! When a nation's life's at hazard, We've no time to think of men!"

O THEY beat against the portal, Man and woman, maid and child; And the July sun in heaven

On the scene looked down and smiled; The same sun that saw the Spartan Shed his patriot blood in vain, Now beheld the soul of freedom. All unconquered, rise again.

EE! See! The dense crowd quivers Through all its lengthy line As the boy beside the portal Looks forth to give the sign! With his little hands uplifted, Breezes dalling with his hair Hark! with deep, clear intonation. Breaks his young voice on the air.

ushed the people's swelling murmur, List the boy's exultant cry! 'Ring" he shouts, "Ring, grandpa, Ring! oh, ring for Liberty!" Quickly at the given signal The old bell-man lifts his hand, Forth he sends the good news making Iron music through the land.

OW they shouted! What rejoicing How the old bell shook the air, Till the clang of freedom ruffled The calmy gliding Delaware! How the bonfires and the torches Lighted up the nights repose, And from the flames, like fabled Phoenix Our glorious Liberty arose!

HAT old State-House bell is silent, Hushed is now its clamorous tongue But the spirit it awakened Still is living, -ever young; And when we greet the smiling sunlight On the Fourth of each July, We will ne'er forget the bell-man Who, betwixt the earth and sky, Rung out. loudly, "Independence;" Which, please God, shall never die.

Old Fashioned Parents the Need of the Day.

"We read recently in one of our , exchange that the moral condition of a certain town had become so bad that the mayor of the town appointed a committee of representative men a n d women to work out a plan whereby the young could receive a moral uplift.

The conditions revealed by his committee were really alarming, and in their report they called upon parents to come to their aid. This is but a typical case. From every quarter comes the cry the young are losing the moral sense of former generations, and that there is a looseness of conduct between the sexes that is bound to end in moral ruin.

This needed training cannot be secured in schools or colleges, however Christian they may be, because the mischeif is done before they reach the school room. It is in the home alone that it can be given, and the parents can be the teachers. Of course the modern parent is not meant-the parent whose god is the dollar of society. What we need is the old-fashioned father and mother. The father who begins the day with prayer around the family altar, and the mother who thinks more of society of her children than of their neighbors; they are the forces upon which we must depend for this much needed moral uplift. -

Imagine the "Virtuous Woman" described in Proverbs placed among the social life of this day. Our hearts mourn over the lonesomeness, even though it be imaginary."-Presbyterian Standard, Farmers of this section are devoting most of their time to the care of wheat crops, which afford bright prospects.

Rev. E. J. Davis preached a very able sermon at Bethel Church last Sunday.

On last Wednesday at 2 o'clock the Death Angel visited the home of Mr. William Payne and called away his wife. Mrs. Payne had lived a christian life striving to do what was right.

The community will miss her kind voice, but we feel that our loss is Heavens' gain .

The Meadow Fork boys played a very interesting game of ball at Paint Rock on last Saturd day. The score being five and six in favor of Meadow Fork.
