A Thought for the Week.

Destroy the flies and the flies and summer diseases will become less common. The fly is a carrier of disease germs.

A traveling salesman has been in town this week selling "Tobacco Quit." This remedy is guaranteed to extract from the tobacco chewer, the cigarette and cigar smoker every desire for further indulgence. We shall be glad if this remedy may have a large sale resulting in a large decrease of those who find the indulgence in this habit so necessary in keeping the mind easy.

Buncombe County Board of Education is trying out a new experiment this year. In the Haw Creek and Chun's Cove district the school children will be carried to the school in a wagon. There will be a school officer whose duty it is to go around with his wagon and team each school and gather up the children and haul them to school and the close of school in the afternoon he will carry them back home. In the west and north this has been a custom for a good while.

Echoes from Mars Hill

The many friends of Dr Baird, will regret, the accident which occurred to him last week, while riding along the road his horse suddenly fell on him breaking his shoulder. Dr. Baird is one of the oldest and most eminent physicians in the County. We trust he will soon be able to render his service to the sick. The friend of which he has always been.

Mr. Robert Buckner died suddenly at his home last Thursday. The news of his death was a shock to his many friends. The community will surely miss him. He was a man who was a friend to all, a valuable citizen, and a devoted christian. He leaves a wife and several children to whom we extend our sympathy. His burial took place last Friday, at Gabriel's Creek cemetery. The Masons of Mars Hill had charge of the services.

Mr. John Bradley secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of Huntsville, Ala., was visiting in Mars Hill last week.

Supt. R. G. Anders, passed through Mars Hill, Saturday.

Prof. James Woodrow of Cloumbia, S. C., is visiting his mother at her summer home in Mars Hill.

Rev. J. R. Owen, who recently accepted Mars Hill Baptist Church is making an excellent pastor and doing a noble work. Mars Hill is fortunate in securing such a valuable man.

The Mars Hill Public School opens next Monday. The teachers are Miss Emma English, Principal, Miss Freeman, Intermediate Department and Miss Ethel Bradley Primary Department.

Prof. Burgin Marchbank, of Ball's Academy is visiting his parents at this place.

Prof. Vester J. Bradley, of the Blinnore Graded School was a visitor here last week.

Road Contracts Let

The Highway Commission on last Saturday let a contract to Patton Bros. of Tennessee, to build five miles and a fraction of road from Marshall toward the Buncombe County line near Sandy Mush. The first part of this section is let at 39 cents per yard and the South end at 29 cents.

The other four miles is from Hot Springs up Spring Creek, they are to receive 44 cents per yard. These men are experienced road builders and will put a large force of men on the jobs at once.

Death of Mrs. Florence Ball

Mrs. Florence Ball died Wednesday night after a lingering illness of several months with Pulmonary Consumption. She was a Miss Banks before her marriage to Millard Ball, and was well and favorably known around Marshall.

Concert

The concert last Thursday evening was a very enjoyable one and all were highly pleased with it. The children all did well and show a high degree of cultivation. It is a grand work that the masonic Home for the orphans is doing and one that all should help in every way that they can. The Orphanage is striving for a new building and needs $12,000.00 dollars for it and this will come. It takes a great deal to support the Orphanage and these children do a great deal toward getting the money necessary to help. Last year $12,000.00 dollars were turned in by these concerts and that is fine. At the concert here the Auditorium of the Court House was full and every one spoke most highly of the work done by the little ones. We are sure that every time that they come to Marshall they will be well received.

ROBERTS-FENDER

Last Monday Evening Miss Elizabeth Fender who has been staying with Mrs. James West for some years left to get married to Mr. George Roberts of Foster Creek, was the lucky man. Mr. Roberts came on Monday to claim his bride and a friend brought the horses and at night the two slipped off and were married. We congratulate Mr. Roberts and the bride he has won and we wish them long life and happiness.

Recorder's Court

On Wednesday the session of the Recorder's Court was attended by quite a large number of people. The docket was large, most of the cases, however, were of minor importance.

The cases from Pine Creek charging some of the boys from that section with disturbing public worship attracted a large crowd of people from that section and the case of state vs J. T. Ballard of Buckner, charged with a. d. w., attracted a considerable number of people. In each of these cases a jury trial was demanded and the cases were continued over to next Wednesday. Only one defendant came clear. The defendant was Thos. Roger charged with failure to work roads. In that case the road overseer was taxed with the costs.

Following Cases Disposed of

State against J. T. Blankenship, failure to work road, nol. pros.

Thos. Rogers cf f. w. r., not guilty.

J. T. Ballard, continued until August 5th.

Lat Jamerson, continued, until August 5th.

George Williams engaging in liquor business, 4 months, appealed in both cases.

Chapel Norton, c. c. w., continued, until August 5th.

Chas. Johnston, former appeal withdrawn, and fined; $75.00.

Additional Locals.

Attorney J. E. Rector, of Asheville was here Wednesday.

Mrs. A. Stackhouse was a visitor in Marshall Wednesday.

Mr. Anthur Ammons and wife and Miss Julia, of Union, S. C., are here on a visit to the family of J. N. White and other relatives.

Rev. Ballard was taken sick and had to return to his home last Wednesday. The meetings closed Wednesday evening.

Several fine articles were left out because of crowded space. One by J. R. Sams will be published next week.

J. Henry Ramsey and family have gone to Mars Hill, to attend the Anderson-McFall Raunion. They anticipate a big gathering of the two families.

Mrs. Chester Honeycutt came down from Asheville last Friday and stayed over Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Honeycutt.

Mr. James Candler, a former resident of the County, and for years engaged in the mercantile business, is here on a visit among friends. Jim is now located in Eastern Ky., where we are glad to know he is doing well.

Mr. Manson Farmer, of Canton, N. C., was a prominent visitor in Marshall Tuesday. Mr. Farmer formerly lived on Little Pine Creek, where he was known as a progressive and thrifty farmer. He sold all his property some months ago and located in Haywood County. He says he likes his present location splendidly.

Sunday School Convention of the French Broad Association

The Sunday School Convention for the French Broad Association met with the Grape Vine Church on Friday July 24, at 1 o'clock p. m., and continued over Sunday.

The introductory address was delivered by Prof. R. L. Moore, President of Mars Hill College and the body was organized by electing Brethren L. J. Bailey and W. P. Jervis, Chairman and Secretary respectively.

A program that had been prepared by the committee appointed one year ago was discussed by the Brethren appointed on the different subjects. The meeting at times became very enthusiastic, especially in regard to the necessary preparation for better service in the Sunday Schools as officers and teachers.

It was decided to have a Sunday School Institute at Marshall for the workers and especially the pastors and teachers, beginning on the third Sunday in August and continuing until Tuesday night following.

Bro. E. L. Middleton, of Raleigh, who is the Sunday School Secretary for our Baptist state Convention will have charge of the work. Bro. Middleton, is recognized as one of the best authorities on Sunday School work in the South and it is a rare opportunity to have him in this section for this work.

It is an evident fact that the Convention did great good and the effect will be felt for the future.

The good people in the community did all that was necessary for the comfort of all who attended and many of us will wish for an opportunity to go there again.

On Sunday the sermon was preached by Bro. J. R. Owen, pastor at Mars Hill and was well received by the people who heard it.

W. R. BEACH,
Pastor Marshall Baptist Church.
