

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound...

healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health...

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

PAINT DELIVERED FREE AT FACTORY PRICES Save the Middleman's Profit

Allaire Paint Co., Inc. JERSEY CITY, N. J.

OVER 100 YEARS OLD Pettit's Eye Salve

Deafness is a terrible affliction to men who like to hear themselves talk.

ERUPTION COVERED BODY

321 Lee St., Hampton, Va.—"In July of last year the eczema made its first appearance on my fingers and before the last of August my body was completely covered. I was unable to sleep at night the itching was so severe. I had to take sleeping medicines several times a week to get any sleep at all.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for samples and then bought a box of the Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap and I am completely healed."

Treatment of Sores. Apply Hanford's Balsam lightly and you should find that gradually the sore will diminish in size.

No. SIX-SIXTY-SIX This is a prescription prepared especially for Malaria or Chills and Fever.

Cain did not invent war. He was merely the first murderer.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Procrastination increases the delights of anticipation.

Pain in the side? Rub on and rub in Hanford's Balsam thoroughly.

The wise man does his duty and lets the other fellow do the explaining.

Cures Old Sores, Other Remedies Won't Cure. The worst sores, no matter how long standing, are cured by the wonderful, old reliable Dr. Pierce's Antiseptic Healing Oil.

It never rains but somebody forgets his umbrella.

How To Give Quinine To Children FERRULINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine.

HOW THE GUNS WERE SAVED BY HARD FIGHTING

Vivid Description of a Battle Given by Wounded Corporal of British Infantry.

WHAT ONE MAN SEES OF WAR English Gunners Slaughtered by Shrapnel—Bayonet Charge Routes the Enemy and Prevents Their Capture of the Threatened Field Pieces.

By HERBERT TEMPLE, European Manager of the International News Service.

London.—A British infantry corporal, wounded in battle and invalided home, gave a graphic description of the fighting he saw in France.

"Early in the morning," he said, "we were informed of the approach of the enemy, and were ordered to deploy and take cover over a wide front, which included woods and open country with villages in the valleys.

"Towards ten o'clock we could hear the booming of guns—a sound we became used to on Salisbury Plains—and then the rattle of Maxims and rifles.

"A party of uhlans dashed along the road through our firing line, and we emptied more than one saddle, but more came, and then we were suddenly enflamed by machine guns, which were mounted on motor-cars.

"There was no help but for us to leave the trenches and rush to the woods. Then as we ran for shelter a terrible roar of guns broke on our ears, and shell after shell struck the ground in front of us, and others burst over our heads.

"Our field batteries went into action and answered the German guns, but the enemy had somehow got to know that we were in the woods, for they fired incessantly on us.

"We left the fir on the other side and opened out, supported by the South Lancashires, for our colonel had been warned that the infantry were advancing. We had hardly extended and lain down, when patches of blue green were seen on the sky line—battalions of the enemy following each other at regular intervals.

"The batteries of a Bulford brigade let rip and gouged holes through them. 'Bravo!' shouted my platoon commander as he watched the carnage through his field glasses.

"Now the order was given to fix bayonets. 'Mind, men, you look to your magazines,' shouted the colonel. 'Before the enemy arrived, however, the artillery fire had increased until it was a perfect inferno.

"Our poor gunners had a terrible mauling, and what was worse a strong force of cavalry got around behind us and charged right up to the guns. Very few of them escaped, however, for whole platoons rushed to the rescue and emptied their magazines into them, and not a few were bayoneted.

"It was here that I saw a whole gun detachment laid out. The breach of the gun was open, and a shell was lying on the ground. Nobly they fought and fell.

"The uhlans had the audacity to think that they could take the guns away, and were actually preparing to limber up when our rifles were turned against them.

"As our guns retired—all that could, for some had no teams and others no men—the German infantry were on us. Fortunately a fold in the ground hid us for a time, but we let them come on until their breasts rose above the neighboring mounds, and then we decimated them.

"They fell back in confusion and dropped to the ground. On came another batch a few minutes later, and we treated them in the same way.

to be getting into a gallop to charge us down. "We formed groups and fired into them at 300 yards, throwing them into confusion. We also turned our machine guns on them, and our best shots put their guns out of action.

"Soon our orders came to retire, but we picked up our dead and consigned them to their last resting-place with tears streaming down our faces—officers in one grave and men in another. They were buried in glory.

"Next day I was added to the list of wounded. I was shot in the shoulder. "Germans Can't Shoot. Several hundred wounded British troops were arriving daily in London.

"I was at Mons on the bridge across the canal there, right in the thick of it," said a young infantryman. "It was there that I got this bullet in the thigh. But I got the chap who did it.

"We did not have much shelter where I was. We just had to do the best we could. The fire was frightfully heavy, but you know they can't shoot for toffee, and waste an awful lot of ammunition. The artillery are the best but even they can't shoot. It's numbers that does it—nothing else.

"As soon as we shot one lot down another came up. That's what happened all the time. Their losses must be enormous. "Shoot!" contemptuously echoed a big infantryman, whose head was swathed in bandages "Germans shoot! Why, they could not hit this station at a thousand yards."

"Germans Like Battering Ram. "The Germans were like a great, big battering ram," said another. "They did not seem to mind how many were killed, and sometimes they were simply thrown away. At one place the German infantry filled the streets and were simply mowed down by our guns. It was terrible punishment."

"The first Red Cross train that arrived at Waterloo carried officers. First of all, those who were able to walk were assisted to alight. Whatever their pain, they disguised it by smiling, and several were smoking.

"Some had their heads enveloped in bandages; others wore slings. Many walked with a limp, and several placed their arms round the necks of R. A. M. C. men, and were assisted to vehicles. One man walked with the aid of a crutch. Another had been hurt on the jaw, but he was smoking a pipe with great relish.

"With expedition the officers whose injuries were not severe were placed in taxicabs, motor-cars, and private omnibuses. Then the stretcher brigade turned its attention to the officers who remained in the "wards" of the train.

"Pillows and blankets were placed on the stretchers, and a procession filed up the platform and entered the train. The first officer brought out was reading a newspaper and smoking a cigarette. The next man, too, was smoking. His injury was to the leg. A third had his knees drawn up. All except one were looking cheery.

"Ambulance wagons and buses were waiting, and one by one the wounded were placed on beds and driven to the hospital. All in Best of Spirits. The R. A. M. C. and ambulance corps were still engaged in tending the injured officers when a second train, plastered with red crosses, ran in at the adjoining platform.

"Soon the soldiers were flocking out of the carriages. The first group to walk to the cars mostly wore slings. There were bandaged heads, arms and shoulders, but the soldiers themselves were in the best of spirits and jumped into the buses with the friskiness of school boys.

"Some of the wounded, however, were more seriously injured. One man lay on a stretcher, which was allowed to rest on the ground for some time, and a doctor examined him and felt his pulse.

"Others, too weak to move much, were lifted from stretchers into vans, where they were made comfortable on mattresses and blankets, with soft white pillows for their heads. Rugs were wrapped around them, and so they made the journey to the hospital with a minimum of inconvenience.

"As a party of the wounded were being driven through Moorgate street they were heartily cheered by a large crowd of business men. The flower girls threw their blossoms at the soldiers. Her Dainty Passport. A Swedish actress, says a Stockholm correspondent, narrates how she was taken for a German spy in Paris, and not knowing how to proclaim her identity, and being surrounded by a shouting mob, she felt quite alarmed.

"Suddenly a lucky idea occurred to her. She slightly raised her skirt, and, showing a dainty little foot, exclaimed, 'You look at this. Do you call this German?' She was saved and carried in triumph to her hotel.

Women Motor to Watch Battles. Ostend.—When fighting was general about Brussels, smart women of the Belgian capital motored out to watch battles in the cool of the afternoon as gaily as though going to the races.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 4 CHRIST ANOINTED FOR BURIAL.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—She hath done what she could. Mark 14:3.

Event crowds fast upon event during this the world's most tragic week. Two days before the passover occurred, the chief priests and other leaders entered a conspiracy how to rid themselves of this troublesome Nazarene.

"I was at Mons on the bridge across the canal there, right in the thick of it," said a young infantryman. "It was there that I got this bullet in the thigh. But I got the chap who did it."

"We did not have much shelter where I was. We just had to do the best we could. The fire was frightfully heavy, but you know they can't shoot for toffee, and waste an awful lot of ammunition. The artillery are the best but even they can't shoot. It's numbers that does it—nothing else."

"As soon as we shot one lot down another came up. That's what happened all the time. Their losses must be enormous. "Shoot!" contemptuously echoed a big infantryman, whose head was swathed in bandages "Germans shoot! Why, they could not hit this station at a thousand yards."

"Germans Like Battering Ram. "The Germans were like a great, big battering ram," said another. "They did not seem to mind how many were killed, and sometimes they were simply thrown away. At one place the German infantry filled the streets and were simply mowed down by our guns. It was terrible punishment."

"The first Red Cross train that arrived at Waterloo carried officers. First of all, those who were able to walk were assisted to alight. Whatever their pain, they disguised it by smiling, and several were smoking.

"Some had their heads enveloped in bandages; others wore slings. Many walked with a limp, and several placed their arms round the necks of R. A. M. C. men, and were assisted to vehicles. One man walked with the aid of a crutch. Another had been hurt on the jaw, but he was smoking a pipe with great relish.

"With expedition the officers whose injuries were not severe were placed in taxicabs, motor-cars, and private omnibuses. Then the stretcher brigade turned its attention to the officers who remained in the "wards" of the train.

"Pillows and blankets were placed on the stretchers, and a procession filed up the platform and entered the train. The first officer brought out was reading a newspaper and smoking a cigarette. The next man, too, was smoking. His injury was to the leg. A third had his knees drawn up. All except one were looking cheery.

"Ambulance wagons and buses were waiting, and one by one the wounded were placed on beds and driven to the hospital. All in Best of Spirits. The R. A. M. C. and ambulance corps were still engaged in tending the injured officers when a second train, plastered with red crosses, ran in at the adjoining platform.

"Soon the soldiers were flocking out of the carriages. The first group to walk to the cars mostly wore slings. There were bandaged heads, arms and shoulders, but the soldiers themselves were in the best of spirits and jumped into the buses with the friskiness of school boys.

"Some of the wounded, however, were more seriously injured. One man lay on a stretcher, which was allowed to rest on the ground for some time, and a doctor examined him and felt his pulse.

"Others, too weak to move much, were lifted from stretchers into vans, where they were made comfortable on mattresses and blankets, with soft white pillows for their heads. Rugs were wrapped around them, and so they made the journey to the hospital with a minimum of inconvenience.

"As a party of the wounded were being driven through Moorgate street they were heartily cheered by a large crowd of business men. The flower girls threw their blossoms at the soldiers. Her Dainty Passport. A Swedish actress, says a Stockholm correspondent, narrates how she was taken for a German spy in Paris, and not knowing how to proclaim her identity, and being surrounded by a shouting mob, she felt quite alarmed.

"Suddenly a lucky idea occurred to her. She slightly raised her skirt, and, showing a dainty little foot, exclaimed, 'You look at this. Do you call this German?' She was saved and carried in triumph to her hotel.

Women Motor to Watch Battles. Ostend.—When fighting was general about Brussels, smart women of the Belgian capital motored out to watch battles in the cool of the afternoon as gaily as though going to the races.

SHREWD TRICK SAVED BANK Cashier's Hot Sovereigns Convinced Depositors That Their Savings Were Not in Danger.

Many years ago, in consequence of a commercial panic, there was a severe run on a bank in South Wales and the small farmers jostled each other in crowds to draw out their money. Things were rapidly going from bad to worse, when the bank manager, in a fit of desperation, suddenly bethought him of an expedient. By his direction a clerk, having heated some sovereigns in a frying pan, paid them over the counter to an anxious applicant. "Why, they are quite hot!" said the latter as he took them up. "Of course," was the reply. "What else could you expect? They are only just out of the mold. We are coining them by hundreds as fast as we can."

WINCHESTER CARTRIDGES

For Rifles, Revolvers and Pistols Winchester cartridges in all calibers from .22 to .50, shoot where you aim when the trigger is pulled. They are always accurate, reliable and uniform. Shoot them and You'll Shoot Well.

Always Buy Winchester Make. THE RED W BRAND

How He Forgave McNab. A Scotchman on his deathbed was reminded by the attending minister that the hour of death is an hour for the banishing of all ill-feeling—a time for universal forgiveness.

He was a McGregor, and his feud with the McNabs had been notable. So the clergyman, with the family's permission and assistance, summoned the head of clan McNab to the dying McGregor's bedside.

"I forgive ye, M'Nab," whispered the expiring man, "wi' all my heart—but may my curse rest on my son forever if he ever does!"

Nothing so effective as Elixir Habek for Malaria, Chills & Fever. Chief of Police, J. W. Reynolds, Newport News, Va., says: "It is a pleasure to recommend Habek for Chills and Fever. Have used it when necessary for 20 years and have found no remedy so effective."

Same Thing. Wayward Son—Do you mean to say that unless I mend my ways you will not leave me a cent? Father—Yes, for unless you do I'll not have a cent to leave. — Boston Evening Transcript.

RUB-MY-TISM Will cure your Rheumatism and all kinds of aches and pains—Neuralgia, Cramps, Colic, Sprains, Bruises, Cuts, Old Sores, Burns, etc. Antiseptic Anodyne. Price 25c.—Adv.

The Obedient Help. Hubby—What do we have for dessert? Wifey—Cottage pudding, I think. I told her to have blanc mange.

YOUR OWN DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU Try Murine Eye Remedy for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. No Smarting—No Itch—No Pain. Write for Book of the Eye by mail free. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Machinery has been invented for weighing and regulating the flow of material over a belt conveyor. For nall in the foot use Hanford's Balsam. Adv.

The chronic invalid is a blessing to the doctor who needs the money. Cool a burn with Hanford's Balsam. Adv.

Few men smoke for the sole purpose of burning their money.

Be Clean! Inside and Outside If you would be healthy, strong and happy, baths keep the skin clean and in good condition. But what about the inside of the body? You can no more afford to neglect it than the outside. It is just as important that the system be cleansed of the impurities caused by weakness of the digestive organs or by inactivity of the liver.

The Popular Mexican Dish As Delicious as it is made in Old Mexico.

Libby's Chili Con Carne The most successful combination of the world's two best foods—meat and beans. Made from the genuine Mexican Chili Peppers, Mexican Chili Beans and selected meats, according to the native recipe, and it's good. Just the thing when you want something nice and spicy. Try this: Heat a can of Libby's Chili Con Carne in boiling water (according to directions on label) serve on squares of toast or with rice or mushrooms.

Lightly Clad. "Anything on for today, Gracye." "Only what you see." "Ahem! That isn't much."

Important to Mothers Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcherson. In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

Sweden is on the verge of national prohibition of alcoholic beverages and tobacco.

One Way to Lengthen Life Late in life, when the organs begin to weaken, the hard-working kidneys often tire out first. Falling eyesight, stiff, achy joints, rheumatic pains, lame back and distressing urination are often due only to weak kidneys.

Prevention is the best cure and at middle age any sign of kidney weakness should have prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life more comfortable for thousands of old folks. It is the best recommended special kidney remedy.

A South Carolina Case Wade Leaphart, 1824 Assembly St., Columbia, S. C., says: "For several years I suffered from weak kidneys and a rheumatic pain. My back ached terribly and I couldn't raise my arms to my head. I was confined to the bed and my physician said he couldn't help me. When I had almost given up hope, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and it wasn't long before they cured me. I am a well man today."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

ADVICE TO THE AGED Age brings infirmities, such as sluggish bowels, weak kidneys and torpid liver. Tut's Pills have a specific effect on these organs, stimulating the bowels, giving natural action, and imparting vigor to the whole system.

WANTED Men to learn barber trade. Few weeks required. Steady position for competent graduates. Wonderful demand for barbers. Wages while learning; free catalog; write RICHMOND BARBER COLLEGE, Richmond, Va.

W. N. U., CHARLOTTE, NO. 40-1914.