Character

When we speak of banking we always tie up the thought of money with it and when a man says that he has a bank account we always think he is the one to trust. However there are accounts and banks that count for more than the money in a bank as we usually employ the term. Talking with a merchant once we were surprised to have him say that a man who had little was a better risk than one whom he knew had thousands in the bank and when we questioned him he said that the poor man always paid the other was hard pay. J. Pierpont Morgan once said that of two men who came to him for money, one with nothing and the other worth millions that he would finance the one with nothing but refused the other and asked why, replied, that one had character and the other had not. In the world character is the thing that counts and it is the basis of business and social life. Character presupposes the possession of several things. Faithfulness, honesty, knowledge, truthfulness, purity of life and motive persistence, courage stamina are parts that are called upon to bear the burden.

In youth the accounts are begun just like the advertisement read. A little of these at one time a little at another and when the time for drawing one of these comes, we can do it. There is a boy of Madison County who we have known for many years and have followed him thru college, in the army, teaching school and going to the law school. Speaking of him to one of the lawyers in Asheville not long ago and telling of what he had done and how he had been trying thru the years to do something, the lawyer said, I will look him up and help him in any way I can. Others have done the same. It was not family, nor money, nor influence but the banking of the attributes of character that made people trust and help. It is so with all the World and one who has these things and lays them up will never lack for anything. The way is prepared and what seems to be patronage and goodness in others was acquired by the boy because he was banking for character.

SCHOOL TEACHERS, DID YOU KNOW—That in the Northern cities, where they have compulsory examinations of all childrens eyes, 70 per cent of all backward pupils had defective eyesight, and that 90 per cent of them showed immediate improvement on being properly fitted with glasses? It is a School Teacher's duty to instruct them on this matter. The child does not know and is there to be instructed.
