VOL XXI

MARSHALL, MADISON COUNTY, N. C. FRIDAY, JULY 4th, 1924.

No 36

Robert R. Reynolds

News Record,
Marshall, N. C.
Dear Sir:
In that the vote cast in the Democratic Primaries of June 7th, has been tabulated and the result being favorable to my opponent, Hon. Elmer Long, of Durham, N. C., I would be most appreciative if you would through the columns of your paper express to my friends my deep appreciation of their support of my candidacy for Lieutenant Governor.

The Democrats of North Carolina, have spoken through their Primaries and by their expression have chosen another than myself as their candidate for Lieutenant Governor. I bow in submission to my party's choice and gladly offer my best services in carrying the banner of Democracy to success in the November election.

To the thousands of my friends throughout the State who so loyally supported me, I beg to express my lasting gratitude and deepest appreciation. I am particularly grateful for the splendid vote I received in the land of my nativity, the mountains of Western Carolina.

There is always some degree of satisfaction to be found in every defeat. So in this defeat I rest well in the thought, a thought most comforting that my home county, wherein I have resided all my life, gave me a tremendous majority to which I point with pride and gratitude. Although my friends have suffered a disappointment, as for myself, I feel that my labors in seeking this high honor, have been well repaid for to know that my daily associates believe in me is indeed sufficient compensation and glorification to warrant my resting in comfort.

Prior to the Primary, I proposed to my opponents that we eliminate the expense and annoyance of a second primary, by agreeing that the high man take the nomination. This proposal of mine was accepted by Mr. Long and I am standing by the agreement. Knowing of the fine qualities of Mr. Long, our Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, I predict for him a successful and useful term; and, in conclusion, I beg to State that I shall do my utmost to assist in bringing about the greatest Democratic majority yet registered in North Carolina.

Cordially yours,
ROBERT R. REYNOLDS.

Oxford Orphanage Singing Class.

The singing Class of Oxford Orphanage will give a concert at the Court House on July 11th, 1924. This Class has gained an enviable reputation for giving concerts of a high order—concerts that are both entertaining and uplifting. Below we publish some comments on the concert given by this class of Children from which it seems that it maintains the same high standard of excellence and we believe that a pleasant and profitable evening awaits all those who attend.

If you wish to spend a pleasant hour and at the same time lend your personal aid to a most worthy cause, you will not fail to attend the concert given by the Oxford Orphanage Singing Class.

The 14 girls and boys in the Oxford Orphanage Singing Class are representing about 375 children in that well known institution. Hear them sing and tell how you like them.

Stats Normal Schools And Rural Teachers

This is the time of year when teacher-preparing institutions are graduating young men and women who expect to teach in the public schools next year. It is also the time when rural school boards and county superintendents are selecting teachers to fill the vacancies which have occurred or are anticipated between now and next September. The reward of those who employ teachers early is the possibility of making selections before the available teachers are "picked over" and the most desirable applicants gone. Naturally teachers want to secure positions early. They can then use the vacation period for professional reading and planning for next year with direct adaption to the type of work needed in the school they are to teach. Results are beneficial all round. It is highly desirable that school officers seeking teachers go to their State normal schools for them. This is apt to be the best available source of supply. If normal schools are not preparing teachers for rural schools country school boards should make a demand that they establish this type of service in justice to the rural tax payers who bear their share of the normal schools' support.

Box Supper

There will be a BOX SUPPER Saturday night July 5th, at DEW DROP. The box supper will be in the ODD FELLOWS hall, in behalf of a blind man.

It is for a good cause, and every one should come out, to give a little aid.

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes.

The many ways in which the people are taxed is set forth by Dan Supton, in the Denver Post, as follows:

- Tax the people, tax with care.
- Tax to help the millionaire.
- Tax the farmer, tax his fowl.
- Tax the dog and tax his howl.
- Tax his hen, and tax her egg.
- And let the bloomin' mudsill beg.
- Tax his pig and tax his squeal.
- Tax his boot, run down at heel.
- Tax his horse, tax his lands.
- Tax his blisters on his hands.
- Tax his blow, and tax his clothes.
- Tax his rag that wipes his nose.
- Tax his house and tax his bed.
- Tax the ball spot on his head.
- Tax the ox, and tax the ass.
- Tax his "Henry," tax the gas.
- Tax the road that he must pass.
- And make him travel o'er the grass.
- Tax his cow and tax his calf.
- Tax him if he dares to laugh.
- He is but a common man.
- So tax the cuss all you can.
- Tax the laborer, but be discreet.
- Tax him for walking on the street.
- Tax his bread and tax his meat.
- Tax the shoes clear of his feet.
- Tax the pay roll, tax the sale.
- Tax all his hard earned kale.
- Tax his pipe, and tax his smoke.
- Teach him government is no joke.
- Tax their coffins, tax their shrouds.
- Tax their souls beyond the clouds.
- Tax all business, tax the shops.
- Tax their incomes, tax their socks.
- Tax the living, tax the dead.
- Tax the unborn, before they are fed.
- Tax the water, tax the air.
- Tax the sunlight if you dare.
- Tax them all and tax them well.
- But close your eyes so you can't see.
- The Tax Exempt Security.

Speech of Bainbridge Colby, Former Secretary of State Under President Wilson

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York City, June 26.—Reaching the height of the argument over the Ku Klux Klan plank, the National Democratic Convention at midnight tonight heard the arguments of the chosen leaders of both sides, Bainbridge Colby for the minority report asking specific mention of the Klan, and William Jennings Bryan for the majority plank, denouncing religious and political intolerance without mentioning the Klan.

"Both those resolutions are aimed at the Ku Klux," said Colby, opening his address, "but one is singularly deft in avoiding the name of the Ku Klux Klan. One of them said nothing about the purpose. What sort of a committee on resolutions is this un-American, this poisonous, this alien thing in our midst, abhorrent to every American, hostile to the genius of our institutions, in the precepts of Americanism—I have no sympathy with a group of gentlemen who move only at the dead of night in the protection of pillow cases and shrouds. These are not the habiliments of sportsmen or courageous men and thank God they are not the uniform of an Americanism of which I am familiar.

"I am opposed to the majority resolution report. It is an obvious stuttering and stammering and falling thing. It doesn't satisfy my thought, it doesn't satisfy my manhood. It is no credit to the Democratic party. It is a party that cares for nothing if it knows it is right. I approve the minority report because it is simple, lucid and true and expresses the thought. The Ku Klux Klan is composed of either vicious or foolish people. It is one of those temporary things of history which manifests itself like a distemper.

There isn't a man here who would not regard a membership in the klan as a reflection on his character. That's why they move at night under cover and skulk away. They are ashamed. I venture to predict that in a short time you will not find a Ku Klux Klan member; you will not even find the man who remembers he was a member. "It would be a retreat, a betrayal, a desertion of democracy to do less than adopt this minority report and put this simple and unmistakable declaration in our platform."

Opinions Worth Noting

Hon. Carrol Beedy, member of Congress from Maine said in a speech on Russia on the floor of the House: "Religious worship is not encouraged in Russia. It is more accurate to state that it is tolerated. While in Moscow I saw, near the gate which leads into the Red Square, that notorious sign. "Religion is the people's opium." Prior to my arrival in Petrograd the figures of Christ and a capitalist in effigy were dragged through the streets. However, despite the fact that religion is tolerated rather than encouraged, the Russian people as a whole are apparently very reverent. The Russian working man or peasant rarely passes a cathedral without doffing his hat and crossing himself many times. We attended divine services in the Russian churches which were uniformly well filled with worshippers and in which elaborate services were being conducted without interference by the government. The communists party of Russia, consisting of 400,000 members, is in absolute control of the soviet government. To its membership are admitted only those who, having been put upon probation, are found to be wholly trustworthy. But irrespective of his other qualifications, it is a fact that no member of a church will be admitted to membership in the communistic party. Aye, more! A man not a church member will nevertheless be excluded from the communist party if he marries a woman who belongs to a church. And, again, more! Though neither man nor woman belong to a church, should their child be christened in a church the man is barred from membership in the communist party. And since, generally speaking, only communists attain to high position in the government, it is a fact that the policies of the soviet government in Russia are determined by men who are professed atheists and agnostics. For this reason, if for no other—although I am not prone to boast of my religious scruples, possessing merely as profound a reverence for things spiritual and religious as the average man—for this reason I shall never raise my voice within the walls of this chamber elsewhere to urge my people through recognition to put the stamp of American approval upon this godless government of Russia."

Shall It Be From Farm To College.

The school year has just closed and your boys and girls have finished their course in high school, been given their diplomas and you and they are justly proud of what they have accomplished. This is a critical time for them because what they do this summer will probably determine whether or not they will go to college, enter a trade, or drift along without trying to get additional training to make themselves more capable and better citizens. Do not wait until fall comes on to begin talking about what the boy and girl is to do this coming year. If he or she is to go to college begin at once to learn all that you can about the colleges and universities which offer the courses in which the child is most interested. Send for catalogues, make inquiries, talk to graduates, and above all, get the confidence of your children so that they will talk with you freely about what they wish to do. Giving a boy or girl four years of college work mean to many farmers considerable of a sacrifice and the loss of the companionship and help of their children; but, in most cases, if that sacrifice is made now, the future years will be richer for both parents and children in every way, large numbers of young people who have graduated from the high schools are lost to further education because not enough interest is taken in them and in their welfare. Be sure that you do not allow your children to drift.

Acute Indigestion

Is A Food Problem

It is hard on a child to suffer indigestion in summer. Usually there is fever and vomiting, apt to be very prostrating. One way to prevent such attacks is to see to it that the child does not eat heavily when over-tired. Often the trouble may be traced to improper food, which should be stopped immediately. As for treatment, do not forget that in indigestion, the organs have quit operating, and the bowel is full of undigested food.

Don't worry about the stomach—it will empty itself. But give a good clearing out treatment. Liv-o-lax will do the work thoroughly.

Then put the child on a very light diet for a few days. You can get a good-sized bottle of Liv-o-lax at the drug store for 30c.
