BRINGING UP FATHER

WE HEAR a good deal these days about the irresponsibility of children, their disregard for their parents, and their general thoughtlessness. I suppose there is something to it, but I have more often been impressed with the skill the child uses in bringing the stubborn and recalcitrant parent to time, his thoughtfulness in shielding the innocent and unsophisticated parent from anything that would coarsen or contaminate his character; the care which he exercises in keeping from the older and less experienced person anything that might cause him agitation or mental worry. The average parent is well brought up today.

Lillian and Maude were going to a movie show. Mother, not having anything to occupy her time to advantage, suggested that she go along. The two young girls, caulked by their contact with the world, looked at each other with agitation and hesitated. "I don't believe you ought to go, mother," Lillian said, patting her mother affectionately on the arm. "Why? I won't be in the way."

"Well, it isn't quite the sort of show that you ought to see."

And the two girls gave each other a knowing look. It would break their hearts if mother should go wrong.

Two sophisticated freshmen got off the train at a college town a few weeks ago, parked their baggage in the station and started toward the business section in search of an automobile salesroom. They looked the stock over quickly, questioned the salesman, made a selection, and proceeded toward the final negotiations.

"What is your name and address?" the salesman inquired.

"We've just got in; we haven't any address," the boys answered.

"What's your father's name?"

"Well, you see father doesn't know anything about this. We're paying cash, and it's just as well that father shouldn't know. He would worry if he got onto it and he's not very strong, and we don't want to give him any unnecessary pain."

"I understand," the salesman answered.

Could there have been any more unselfish, thoughtful attitude of a child bringing up his parents discreetly? (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

From LUCK

The crops of this community are in very great need of rain because of the vast amount of dry weather after the frost, although the farmers, it seems, have done their bit in regard to hoeing and replanting, and some have gone to work on the "Highway."

The Sunday School and sing-and Stephen Plemmons and J. B. Segle went in and helped Ballard and Leonard (Mr. Webb's two sons) hoe their crop out last Saturday.

VERY USEFUL

"We had a monkey for a pet, but papa gave him away, and I'm awfully sorry," said Jimmy to his friend.

"Did you love the monkey?" asked his companion.

"No," said Jimmy; "but it used to get blamed for everything that went wrong, and now I can't change."

MARS HILL

"IN HONOR OF MR. BREMON MCINTURFF"

Last Saturday night, June 6, Mr. Clarence Briggs gave a party in honor of his cousin, Mr. Bregon McInturff, who has been visiting him for the past week. A goodly number of boys and girls were invited, and most all were there. The crowd gathered about eight o'clock. Many games were played, and music was enjoyed by all.

Those who enjoyed the hours from eight to twelve, were:

Misses Mattie Briggs, Nancy Anderson, Inez Roberts, Janie Anderson, Thelma Reece, and Grace M. Riddle; Messrs. Paul and Gaither Briggs, Dan Young, Ralph Anderson, Fred Anderson, Byron Roberts, Robert Riddle, Plato Reece and Rubin Ball.

Cake and grape juice were served, after which all departed leaving a good night wish.

The town girls gave Miss Marion Gibbs a surprise party on Thursday night. All reported a nice time.

The younger married folk of Mars Hill, also some single boys and girls went to the home of Mr. Edgar Jarvis on California to a barbecue on Friday night. All enjoyed music and games.

There will be a circus show on the Mars Hill grounds Tuesday, June 16. Come and enjoy the day. The street parade will be at 1 o'clock.

On Saturday night, June 6, a very interesting picture was shown, "Back Home in Broke."

Mrs. Cooper and daughter, Cleone, have returned to visit friends in Mars Hill after spending the winter in Fla.

Mr. W. C. Anderson is visiting his son, Mr. N. P. Anderson, and daughter, Mrs. Hugh Edwards, in Winston Salem, N. C.

The three families—Mr. L. D. Edwards, Mrs. W. T. Bradley and Mr. C. Y. Tilson—are recovering after being poisoned on ice cream.

Mrs. W. E. Wilkins on Monday night, gave her summer school history class a social. They all enjoyed it very much.

The Sunshine Philathea Class entertained the Baracca Class on Monday night. Refreshments were served, and all had a good time. The girls are always successful in entertaining the boys.

Mrs. E. C. Coats, who is leading the town girls Y. W. A., has not only gained the friendship, love and interest of the girls, but she is holding it. They are doing a great work. They have organized several Y. W. A.'s in Madison County. They organized a Y. W. A. at Big Pine last Sunday.

Mrs. Carrie Sprinkle and family have just returned from Flag Pond, Tenn., where they went to attend the wedding of Mrs. Sprinkle's sister, Miss Grace Sams, who married Mr. Guy English.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Briggs have just returned from Hick-

Miss Owa Bradley and her sister, Mrs. Carl Westbrook, known in Mars Hill as Miss Lottie Bradley, are expected home in a few days. Miss Clota Edwards, who has been teaching in Smithfield, N. C., is at home for the summer. Miss Meda Peek left Sunday to attend the University of Tenn., at Knoxville. Miss Grace Huff, who is a teacher in the High School at Mars Hill, is leaving in a few days to attend summer school at Chapel Hill, N. C. Mrs. Beacham and daughter, Grace, from Spartanburg, S. C., are visiting Mrs. W. E. Wilkins.

So Weak Couldn't Stand

"My wife's health broke down and for years she was just a physical wreck," says Mr. Thomas Glynn, of Gibson, La. "We did everything we knew, yet she seemed to get worse and worse. She was so weak till she couldn't stand, and had to be carried like a baby. It looked like nothing would save her that had been done."

CARDUI

For Female Troubles

"I began looking around. I knew that Cardui was for women. I decided to try it for her as all else had failed. She couldn't eat, she couldn't sleep, and I was desperate."

"After taking a few doses of Cardui, we were so glad to note that she wanted something to eat, and with each bit of nourishment, and each day's doses of Cardui, she grew stronger and got up out of bed. She is now able to cook, and stronger than in a long time."

Cardui has been in successful use for nearly 50 years in the treatment of many common female troubles.
