WEAVERVILLE

The Carolina Power and Light Company have recently extended their lines through Weaverville to the Forks of Ivy and to Democrat, making an approximate distance of four-tenths miles. They have also sent a solicitor up Reems Creep to and beyond Hemphill and toward the foot of Craggy for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a line in that direction would be justified by the demand for light service. It is felt by the people of the community that the availability of this service will be a great factor in developing this part of the country. For the further convenience of the light patrons of Weaverville and vicinity, a branch office of the Power and Light Company, with lineman and trouble service, has been opened on Main Street of the town.

A meeting of the Union Bible Class of which Mrs. C. G. Blankenship is teacher was held in the Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday afternoon. The lesson was taken from Genesis, chapters 24 to 50 after which the class will take up the study of Exodus. Eighty-one women are enrolled in the class.

The Club for Mutual Improvement met at the home of Mrs. J. V. Erskine Wednesday afternoon. The subject of club's work for the year "Women's Work in All Times," was taken up by Mrs. W. W. Sprinkle gave a resume of the high lights of the governmental administrations and policies through the administrations of Washington to McKinley. This type of subject will also have its place on the club's programs throughout the year.

Former Madison Man Writes Commending News-Record.

Washington, D. C., 206, 13th St., N.E. March 10th, 1928
Editor of The News Record,
Marshall, N. C.

My Dear Sir:—Inclosed I am sending my check, $1.00, to renew my subscription which seems to have expired. I enjoy the Record, of course it is of more than ordinary interest to me as I am a native of Madison County and some of the happiest years of my life were lived in Marshall, the memory of which I shall continue to cherish until the end. May I add just here that for more than a quarter of a century my life has been cast along lines which have brought me into contact with good people from all sections of our country, as well as some from foreign countries, but in my opinion none of them measure quite up to the standard of our mountain folks, of real man and womanhood and especially our Madison County people whom I have known and loved during all these years, and to them I take pleasure in commending the News-Record as a splendid publication and a most valuable county enterprise.

With very best wishes, I am,
Yours truly,
D. F. LAWSON

The stand of oats has been cut at least 50 per cent in some counties due to the recent freeze. Some farmers plan to overcome this loss by planting spring oats in February.

Songs of Plain Folks

By James Lewis Hays

The Baby

It may be the corn grew thicker
Since our baby came along,
But I think my step is quicker
And my hands are twice as strong,
For the morning's not half over
When I've husked a heaping load,
And I see you at the window
As I'm driving up the road.

Let me tell you, little Mother,
Dear young Mother of the Boy,
There's a strange something-or-other
In his smile that gives me joy!
There's a new and lovely something
Shining in his mother's eyes
Ever since that youngster's coming,
Like a gleam from Paradise.

Oh, it gives me heart and vigor
To attack the meanest task!
Days are brighter, life is bigger;
Just a hasty kiss I'll ask,
Just the grip of Baby's fingers,
And I'm off to work again,
For the while the pressure lingers
I'm the happiest of men!

She had been in very bad health for years and she was very patient during her long weeks of suffering. Mr. Hazewood is Track Supervisor of the Southern Railway and much sympathy is extended him and his children. VALUE OF CHARACTER

Character is a fortune. It pays a better dividend than bank or railroad stocks. The young man who goes forth in the world with an unimpeachable character can never suffer permanent defeat. The blows which he receives from his antagonists will bound back from such a character and all the injury they inflict will be upon the one who gives them. In every emergency it is the man of character who is sought. Those lacking this beautiful jewel may for a time crowd themselves forward and, so long as nothing of importance is at stake, be permitted to enjoy prominence in the state and social affairs but when the crisis comes when the government is threatened, when society is a menace, when it is a special honor to be prominent, character is scrutinized and only he whose character is spotless is selected to lead at such times. Brilliant reputations fade as a meteor fades and their possessions find reputation one thing and character another. They then regret that this important difference had not been thought of before, but the world seems to learn little from these lessons which individuals so often learn under severe circumstances.

The world as a rule is careful of its reputation—the outside cover of the heart—the mist which hides the same, but of its character the heart itself—the object of God's scrutinizing, it is deplorably careless. The question is not what I am, but what will the world think of me. With the knowledge of the advantages of character in this world and the next, let every young man strive to live in such a way that he can respect himself and be utterly regardless so long as he is right of opinion of the world.

Another important thing to remember is that character once gone is gone forever. A shattered character may be retrieved in part but can never be restored to its original strength and perfection. However upright a man who has been reckless of the purity of his character may live after reformation the world may treat him kindly and even honor him to some extent, but still will regard him with a certain degree of suspicion and fear. Hundreds and thousands have found this to be true from bitter experiences and oceans of scalding tars have been shed because it is true.

All this is in the hands and under the control of every young man whose none but ourselves can injure us in this respect. We can build up our own character or we can tear it down, and with the pictures of so many failures in life before us, the most important thing for each of us to do is to see that no blot shall disgrace our individual character.

LAST LYCEUM NUMBER

The last of the Lyceum numbers scheduled for Marshall this season was given at the school auditorium Wednesday night after prayer meeting. The two entertainers were good, but Marshall is sufficiently fed up on the courses for the present. The guarantors had to come across with $3.03 each to make up the loss, besides other work and loss sustained by Mr. and Mrs. J. Hubert Davis, who had the matter in charge.

PRAYER SERVICE ATTENDANCE KEEPS UP

Though not quite as large as on the previous Wednesday night, the attendance at prayer service is wonderful. At the Union service (Methodist and Presbyterian) Wednesday evening the attendance was 211 while at the Baptist church the attendance was 244, making a total of 455—about half the population of Marshall.

From Black Mountain

Mr. Clarence Joyner of this place and Miss Cornelia McDevitt of Revere were married last Monday afternoon in Greenville, S. C. They returned to the home of the groom, where their many friends gave them a serenade Tuesday night.

The jolly serenaders left their cars about a quarter of a mile away from the house and with guns, cow bells and horns, slipped up to the living room window. The groom's brother fired the first shot. Just as he shot one of the boys threw a handful of shot against the window, then all the serenaders began. They marched around the house twice shooting, blowing horns and ringing cow bells, they then went into the house and while the girls talked to the bride and the other ladies present, the boys gathered in the hall and sang, "I wish I was single again." after which they seized the groom and rode him on a plank. When the laughter of this was over the girls rode the bride around the house in a wheelbarrow. The groom's brother and brother-in-law favored the serenaders with several selections on the banjo, guitar and violin; two of the numbers being "Here Comes the Bride" from Lowenghrin and "Over the Waves." The serenaders also enjoyed music on the radio, piano and Victrola. As the serenaders left they rang the bells until they reached their cars. Those enjoying the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. George Joyner, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. George Joyner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Joyner, Misses Dorothy and Carrie Wilson, Lela Odum, Evelyn Joyner, Mary Riddle, Messrs Frank Joyner, Ladd Joyner, Alex Padgett, Pinkney Riddle, Allie Padgett, Starlin Whitaker, Jessie Padgett and Clyde Nanny.
