CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

The word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize a Bible selection each week, it will prove a priceless heritage to them in after years.

RULER OVER ALL:—Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all.—1 Chronicles 29:11.

PRAYER—

"God Eternal, Lord of all, Lowly at Thy feet we fall; All the earth doth worship Thee; We amidst the throng would be."

What did the centurion at Capernaum say to Jesus, and what answer did Jesus give him?—Matt. 8:5-13.

DR. J. BATES HENDERSON HERE

On Sunday, June 17, 1929, Dr. J. Bates Henderson and his wife, Eleanor Knight Henderson came to the former's old home for a few days' respite from labors incident to his graduation on June 15, from Medical School of the University of Cincinnati, and State Board Examinations at Louisville. On that afternoon arrived by motor, from Spartanburg, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Runnion sister and brother-in-law of "J. Bates," with their son, Edwin, and daughter Helene, now of Winston-Salem N. C. Soon arrived a brother, R. B. Henderson, with his wife and daughter, Hazel, a niece, Mrs. Maynard Branton with her son, Larry Dean and daughter, Doris, and another sister, Mrs. L. A. Honeycutt, with her adopted son, Leamon Davis—altogether an unplanned but delightful family reunion of most of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Henderson. The doctor will begin his internship at Lucas County Hospital Toledo, Ohio, on July 1, and after the year will take up the art and science of that ancient and honorable Aesculapius, the practice of medicine, always holding before him the precept of his former great teacher, Dr. Martin H. Fischer, "Observation, Reason, Human Understanding, Courage—these make the physician."

JUSTIFIED BY FAITH

Rom. 9:1. Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. 2. By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

So we think it not strange when troubles and sorrow come to us, knowing that tribulation worketh patience. See Jam. 1:3; Matt. 5:11. My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations, it is only trying our faith and we have the sweet assurance that God will not suffer His loved ones tempted above that they are able to bear. Peter 5. Who is kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time. See Job 10:2-8-17-11-12-15, also Jude the servant of Jesus Christ and a brother of James. To them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ and called: Mercy unto you, and peace, and love be multiplied and if we will only trust our troubles to God, He will bless us and give us grace to overcome all the fiery darts the devil can hurl at us. Now if we have the love of God in us we have the true record that God has given us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. How are we to know when we receive this life? Because the gift of God is love and this love is not just to the children of God but goes out to the poor sinner man and woman. Does it stop there. No it goes to jail houses where mother's boy is behind the iron bars. A christian mother's prayers are there for that boy that is away down the road in sin for God to save his soul. I wonder how many of the christian people pray for men that are in prison cells. There is not one that can pray like mother for her boy. There is not a heart that aches like mothers. There is no love like mothers, but the love of God, and it is the greatest love that ever has been or ever will be. It will give you peace and your comfort when you are sad if you will only go to the laws of God. I just want to tell the people what the Lord will do if they will only trust Him. I have a boy in jail and love him just as well as the boy that has not been there. Three weeks ago, I laid down to rest and that boy was all my thoughts. I cried until my pillow was wet with tears. I turned it over, got up and knelt by my bed and began to pray and my burden began to get light and the next thing I knew I had no trouble, I was standing in the house hallowing, praise the name of Jesus, and I have not had such a burden since. We have to be willing for God's will to be done, and not ours. answer to a prayer, they want every thing to go so as to have it their own way and that is not God's plan. We are too easy to become discouraged and that is because we have not faith in God. I wonder how many have had an answer to prayer before they got off their knees. I have had prayers answered while I was praying and I am not the happiest person in the world, but people have their sorrows, and eight years ago I learned to take my sorrows to the Lord and He has never turned me away. People may forsake me here in this world of sin and sorrow but Jesus will never forsake or leave me alone. I am never alone, for Jesus is with me and I have a home prepared where the Saints abide and I long to be by my Saviour's side, just over in the glory land where mother and father and my dear ones are waiting for my coming home.

OFFICE KAT KOLUM

By the "Office Cat"
 What to write about—that's the big question of the moment. To tell you the truth, I'll just be darned if I know what to expostulate about. I don't see many exciting things happening around here. I don't know what's wrong with me, anyway. I must be getting old, or something. Chasing after these young rabbits now is enough to make anyone old, isn't it? But, boy, how I do like to chase 'em.

I went fishing again last Friday afternoon, but didn't catch anything except strawberries. Yup! That may sound like a strange thing to say, but it's the truth. Yeah, it started raining so hard we had to quit the fishing racket for that day. As soon as we quit fishing, however, we got to hunting around and picked just gobs of wild strawberries, and I say without fear of successful contradiction that they had a fine flavor, and then some. I believe that they were the first wild strawberries that I had ever eaten, but I'm here to say that I hope they won't be the last, for they certainly were good. I ate just as many as I could, and thought I was plumb full, but then I tackled some bacon and bread, pork and beans, potted ham, etc., which was also mighty good, as I discovered that I was still hungry after my berry repast. A strange diet for a cat, you say? Well, maybe! But don't forget that I'm an Office Kat, and there is no way of knowing just what I'll do—or eat. It takes a lot to fill me up sometimes, and I'll tell the community that when I'm hungry, I can really EAT.

I'm really sorry to have fooled you folks so long, but unless something happens pretty soon, there will be no picture of mine at the head of my Kolum—I mean no actual picture of me. I rather think that this bunch down here thinks that the paper will lose a lot of subscribers if my handsome picture ever appears in print. Oh, well, I should worry about that.

NEW WAYS TO SERVE FISH

WHEN foreigners came to Hawaii, they found the natives living on a diet of taro, poi made from the taro root, breadfruit, yams and fish. As the fish formed a large part of the protein supply it was especially important in the diet.

Accordingly, much of the native's time was spent in a combination of sport and work—fishing. Sometimes he would go out fishing alone. If a whole school was sighted off the shore, the entire village would catch up a long net and dextrously enclose the fish. Later, the Hawaiian's love of fishing led him to become the "kanaka" on the whaling vessels.

Fish Pie Pineapple

When Americans came to the islands they were delighted with the fish, too, for they found real sport in catching them. With skill that rivaled the natives; they caught tuna, ulua, dolphin, ono, and other game fish.

Then came the matter of cooking the fish which undoubtedly was delicious. Today, however, we have learned to combine our fish with the delicious product of Hawaii—pineapple. Pineapple provides just that little suggestion of tartness which is so desirable with fish. At the same time the pineapple's delicate color provides a visual interest. Some of the recipes which have been evolved to combine fish and pineapple are given below, and while ulua and dolphin are hardly on the market in this country, acceptable substitutes can easily be found.

Racy Recipes

Tuna Tid-bits: Fry four slices of bacon in a pan to extract fat. Remove bacon and fry one and one-half cups drained pineapple tid-bits in the fat until slightly brown. Arrange around the edge of a platter. Heat one can of tuna fish and pour into the center of the pineapple ring. Place the bacon over the top. To two tablespoons of fat in the pan (add butter to make this amount if necessary) add two tablespoons flour, seasoning, and one cup of milk, and stir until thickened, then pour over the fish and pineapple.

Shrimp Crispettes: Beat together three eggs, one level tablespoon flour, salt and pepper to taste. Drain a can of shrimps and roll them in the batter. Then fry in very hot fat until they are crisp and a delicate brown. Drain on oiled paper, place on platter, and serve with the following sauce. Bring one cup syrup drained from a can of crushed pineapple and one-half cup lemon juice to the boiling point. Mix one-half cup sugar, one and one-half tablespoons flour, and one-eighth teaspoon salt and add slowly to the hot liquid. Boil for one minute, add one teaspoon butter and one-fourth teaspoon almond extract and serve.
