My Mission Experience

By Welsie O. Ray

I am a Baptist. I attend a holiness mission mostly instead of my own church. My reasons for attending is I am drawn closer to God in the holiness mission, my opportunities for personal work is greater, the appeal to keeping the commandments of God (here in this age) is stronger, personal interest and the Christian fellowship is warmer, and the devotional atmosphere makes one feel that he is in the very presence of God. They have these things in greater degree, I say, than in some of the churches. May the Lord increase the exceptions.

I do not see or interpret the scriptures in all points just like they do. Not their interpretation, but the Bible, is my creed. This is not unusual for members of the same denomination often see certain truths differently. There might be as little harm done by leaning a little toward their understanding as trusting too far my own, for neither am I perfect in knowledge. I believe them to be real children of God and that God is blessing the work. Therefore, if we walk in the light we'll have fellowship with one another; we'll love and help each other, and be of one mind and purpose. Love overcometh a multitude of sins. But I must not let their opinion or interpretation take the place of my knowledge of Scriptures, my diligent reading and studying the scriptures, and the revelation of the Lord; for it is written, "All thy children shall be taught of the Lord."

I do not claim perfection. In taking this stand, I claim I stand with all the best and holiest men of the Bible, and many leading and noted evangelists today. Job, in testifying of himself, did not claim to be perfect, nor did Paul. Holiness people substantiate their belief by the scripture: "Whoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him, and he cannot sin, because he is born of God." 1 John 3:9; but they never mention, or scarcely ever refer to the following scripture by the same author: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." 1 John 1:8. To have a proper unbiased understanding of any subject, we must consider both sides of the question.

God has commanded us to be holy. He has not commanded us to do something we cannot do by His help. Notice, I said, by His help. The proper conception and practice of holiness, I am sure, would bring Baptists, as well as others, up to a higher and holier standard; and would bring many holiness people down off their high horse of sinless profession.

It appears to me that the bringing together of the above two Scriptures (yet one truth) is greatly simplified when we consider that righteousness or holiness, comes to us through faith and grace. Then if righteousness comes to us through forgiveness, have we any right to say we have not sinned, or have no sin?

There is a state, to which every true Christian may attain, where faith is counted for righteousness, where the Lord imputeth not sin to him (being without guile); where he is freed from condemnation; and the scripture says the state of that man is blessed. What a debt we owe to Christ! Can we then be holy? Yes, through the effectiveness of the blood of Jesus Christ.

STEPS THERETO—Humility, repentance, faith, obedience. Are we keeping the blood applied on the door posts? Exodus 12:23. Read also Romans 7:18-17 and 1st Corinthians 1:10.

As A Lawyer Would Say It
"If I were to give you an orange," said Judge Foote, of Topeka, "I would simply say, 'I give you the orange.' But should the transaction be entrusted to a lawyer to put into writing he would adopt this form: "I hereby give, grant and convey to you all my interest, right, title and advantage of and in said orange, together with its rind, skin, juice and pits; and all rights of advantage therein, with full power to bite, suck, or otherwise eat the same, or give away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pits; anything hereinbefore or in any other deed or deeds, instrument of any nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary notwithstanding."—Ex.
