UNIVERSITY TOUR PASS THROUGH MARSHALL

The first section of the University of North Carolina transcontinental tour, a caravan of 12 motor cars, arrived here Friday afternoon.

According to R. M. Grumman, director of the extension division of the University of North Carolina, the party left Chapel Hill, N. C., June 7 on the 9,000 mile coast-to-coast journey, lasting eight weeks.

Three University of North Carolina professors comprise the faculty in each section. Natural science courses, geology, botany, and general science, are being taught in the first section by Professors W. F. Prouty, H. R. Totten and C. E. Preston.

Each morning, before the motorcade starts on its way, three hours are devoted to class work. Field work and observation trips are scheduled in order to supplement class instruction.

Eight Chevrolet busses, equipped with tents, two Ford sedans, a specially built kitchen car, and a baggage car make up each unit.

Most of the night stops are made at municipal camping grounds. A number of colleges and universities en route have offered the members of the tour the use of their campuses.

The Blanks Travel Bureau of Charlotte, N. C., is in charge of the business arrangements, Mr. Paul Ricks being manager for the first section of the tour.

Most of the members of the tour are from North Carolina. The following other states are represented: Virginia, Florida, Massachusetts, Tennessee, New York, South Carolina, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

Do You Have Cattle For Sale?

If so, read every word of this article and be sure to fill out the blank below and mail it to Mr. Earl Brintnall, Marshall, N. C.

Mr. C. G. Filler, Live Stock Marketing Agent of the Division of Markets of North Carolina, will meet the farmers of Madison County on Monday, Aug. 11, at 2 P. M. for the purpose of discussing the marketing of the cattle of the county.

THIS MEETING IS IMPORTANT. Because of the drought over the United States many cattle are being thrown onto the markets. This movement of cattle has caused a glut and broken prices. Some outlet other than the usual one must be found for the cattle of Madison County.

THERE ARE SOME GOOD YOUNG CATTLE IN MADISON COUNTY. This class of cattle should be retained in the county if at all possible. There will be a demand for cattle from those areas selling out now when the grazing season opens next spring.

Women Outnumber Men At Farm Convention

With a proportion of about 70 farm women to 30 men, the 28th annual session of the State's Farmers Convention held at State College last week was attended by approximately 1200 persons registering and hundreds of others who attended only for some special session.

The Convention this year was made in Carolina edition. There were few outside speakers or lecturers but the occasion was made notable by the deep thoughtfulness and constructive suggestions offered by the farm men and women present as well as by the speakers selected by the program committee.

Probably the most enjoyable feature of the week, in the opinion of most visitors, were the vesper services held on the campus each afternoon. The 17th Field Artillery Band from Fort Bragg gave an hour's concert, following by community singing and by short speaking exercises.

The joint sessions of men and women each morning at eleven o'clock in Pullen Hall were addressed by leaders in various lines of agricultural and governmental work in the State.

These events coupled with the course of instructional lectures given in the class rooms each morning from eight until eleven o'clock gave the Convention the well balanced program which causes it to attract hundreds of North Carolina farm leaders each successive summer.

Lateness of the tobacco crop this season and the heavy infestation of boll weevil in the cotton fields was given as the reason for fewer men attending this year than last.

Demand for Textile School Graduates

The growth of the rayon and knitting industries, coupled with the diversification of the cotton manufacturing industry, has created a demand for intelligent young men who have been thoroughly trained in the manufacture and finishing of textiles.

Dr. Thomas Nelson of State College says that there is an increasing demand for the Textile School graduates of that institution to go into these modern manufacturing plants and earn lucrative positions of responsibility. Since June, Dr. Nelson has received many requests for men...

Edward B. Lawson Honored

Son Of Mr. David Lawson, Of Mars Hill, In South Africa

From a daily paper published at Johannesburg, South Africa, the following is copied:

With the departure of Mr. S. H. Day, American Trade Commissioner, comes the announcement of the appointment of Mr. Edward B. Lawson as Trade Commissioner, who will be in charge at Johannesburg.

Mr. Lawson has been attached to the local staff of the Trade Commissioner for more than two years in the capacity of Assistant Trade Commissioner and is well qualified to accept the responsibilities of his new post. His elevation to this higher position is noteworthy in that it has occurred so early in his career as a Foreign Commerce Officer of the United States.

He was educated in the United States, graduated from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service at Washington with the degrees of B. S. and M. F. S. (Master of Foreign Service). He is the author of a number of economic studies and a contributor to magazines and journals on foreign trades.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

Mr. Lawson, when interviewed, said the office of the American Trade Commissioner will continue to function as a link between South African business houses and American producers, and in the promotion of friendly commercial relations between two countries. He manifested a keen interest in industrial development in the Union, and explained that his office might be of assistance to local manufacturers in securing data on new machinery and modern production methods.

"Hardly a month passes in which some foreign country does not send a commission committee, or individual to the United States to study industries production methods or investigate processes developed there, and I am confident that the American industrial community will extend a welcome to any South African contingent arriving on such missions," he said.

"South Africa is becoming more and more attractive to the American producer. American business executives are more prone than ever to make personal visits to this country in the interests of their firms, and mineral and raw material sources of the Union have for many years past been subject of interest to American users. These visitors have carried back to the United States definite and permanent impressions of the economic and social features of your country, acting, as it were, as individual publicity agents.

Mr. Edward Lawson, above mentioned, is the son of Mr. David Lawson of Mars Hill, who at one time was located...
