

TOBACCO GROWERS

Madison County's Burley is moving to the markets in large quantities. The present prices obtaining appear to be equally as good as we anticipated before the opening dates. We would not attempt to advise you where you may get the high dollar for your crop; use your best judgment after observing prices on the several markets.

We do not employ any solicitors to influence our customers and friends; your tobacco money is yours to handle as you may desire. Our only suggestion is that you save at least a part of it for a "Rainy Day". We are fully equipped to render the same efficient and courteous banking service that we have rendered to the people of Madison County for nearly thirty years.

SUB ROSA By MIMI

A Blue Honeymoon

THE difference between a blue moon and a honeymoon is that the blue moon is seldom if ever seen in the heavens. Unfortunately the honeymoon of the cool variety does put in an appearance in a sky where Venus is supposed to rule.

Young people rush into marriage without much idea of what it's all about and with the idea of finding out. They expect the wedding bells to start a tune which will not die out until the morning stars cease singing together. They think that orange blossoms grow on century plants. Very often, before the honeymoon has sunk in the west, they are disillusioned. Then the fun begins.

The failure of the honeymoon may mean something more than "two to Duluth." It may mean a round trip ticket to Reno. The light of the marriage moon sinks into the gloom of divorce. That makes the blue honeymoon, all right.

My idea is that we should have a court of love. I know that they used to have such things in the day of queens and chivalry, but it wasn't a real court with judges, witnesses and all that. No, it was a poetical affair.

A couple can be married in a court and divorced in the same place, but there should be a love court somewhere between. I'm sure I don't know just how such a court would be made, but I do know that there's need for it.

Probably we expect too much of marriage, which itself is an old institution and which includes countless individuals who are as ill fitted for love as a cow is for roller skates. It doesn't make any difference how bad a reputation marriage has, there are always plenty of people who are willing to try it.

After a business has failed and people have learned that there isn't anything in the manufacture of left handed monkeywrenches, you can't get anybody to order another one. But with marriage, the more the failure of the thing is advertised, the more anxious people are to give it a try.

That's why the honeymoon turns blue.

The best thing for a couple whose honeymoon is sinking is to talk it over and find out where they are at. If they have been disillusioned, they can be re-enchaned by reason. If they have lost out on love as romance, they may be able to make up with love as affection.

Isn't the moon's fault, for that gentle orb has nothing to do with love, lunacy, or the weather. The fault lies in the lover's heart. The moon knows enough to rise again after it has sunk. Why can't lovers love again after they have grown cold?
