HEARD AND SEEN AROUND TOWN

By LANK

Attorney James Baley wielded a broom Tuesday A. M. A broken window pane in the court house.

Five women canvassing the town for subscriptions. Doc Dinwiddie says that when they approached him, he told them that he was merely a poor soda jerk, and earned a dollar a day by working hard.

How could he pay them? Good work, Doc. But many of the men couldn't resist the wiles and charms of the young ladies, and these gentlemen, to use some bad slang, "got took."

Some very amusing remarks made in one of the local stores by a woman, said remarks being exceedingly derogatory to her husband.

UNSEEN & UNHEARD CAN YOU IMAGINE—He E. Roberts has juvenile court judge?

John A. Hendricks operating the machines at the local theatre?

P. V. Rector as soda jerk in one drug store, and Craig Rudisill jerking soda in the other?

"Red" Tipton attorney-at-law? A. W. Whitehurst as blacksmith?

Eugene Rector as Farm Demonstrator? Ernest Teague as a garage mechanic?

F. A. Dodson as chief of police? Howard Norris as postmaster?

Ted McKinney as sheriff? J. Coleman Ramsey manager of the A & P store?

Doc Sams railway agent? A. L. Plemmons as medical doctor?

Jeter P. Ramsey as a local tonsorial artist? A. W. Coats operating the City Mill Co.?

(More of this nonsense next time) CIVITANS MEET TOMORROW

The regular meeting of the Marshall Civitan Club will be at the French Broad hotel at one o'clock tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 15.

RICE—LANDERS A marriage of much interest was solemnized Sunday, Feb. 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Anders, of Stockville, when their daughter, Miss Emma, became the bride of Mr. Joe Rice of Marshall.

The Rev. H. L. Phillips of Mars Hill was the officiating minister. Messrs. Fern Arrowood and Blaine Emory were in charge of the music.

Mr. Arrowood picked on his guitar and sang, "Blue Eyes." Messrs. Arrowood and Emory sang, "Old Pal Of Yesterday."

The home decorations consisted of pine, galax leaves, and ferns. The matron of honor was Mrs. Herman Gibbs. The bridesmaids were: Misses Melba White, Rosalie Gibbs, and Ellen Anders. The best man was Mr. Herman Gibbs.

The guests of honor were: the Rev. H. L. Phillips, Mr. Jay Beachboard, Miss Dessie Whitt, Mrs. Edd Brown, Mrs. Joe Luther Walker, and Mr. Donald Whitt.

Immediately after the ceremony dinner was served for about 50 friends and relatives. For the present, Mr. and Mrs. Rice will remain at the home of the bride's parents.

RUNYAN—FRANKLIN Coming as a surprise to her friends was the announcement Friday of the marriage of Miss Geneva Lou Franklin and Mr. Jim Runyan, of Knoxville, Tenn.

The wedding took place Saturday, January 19, at Maryville, Tenn., the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Oliver Tarwater, of the Methodist church.

The bride, who has been teaching school in Murphy since last September, has made her home with her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Martin, of Raleigh, for a number of years. She is a graduate of the Eastern Carolina Teachers' college, of Greenville, N. C., having received her A. B. degree in 1932.

Prior to going to Murphy, she taught in the Marshall high school. A charming brunette, she has attached herself to a host of friends in the eastern and western parts of the state.

Mr. Runyan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Runyan of Knoxville. He was educated at the University of Tennessee and Knoxville Business college. At present he is in the real estate business. Mrs. Runyan left Wednesday for Knoxville to make her home.—Asheville Citizen.
