Miss Olive Thomas Becomes Bride Of M. J. W. Wible

The marriage of Miss Olive Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Thomas of Mars Hill, N. C., and Mr. James W. Wible, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wible of Montgomery, Ala., solemnized Saturday, May 4th, 1935, at Mars Hill Baptist church, was an event of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends. Beauty and simplicity characterized the nuptials, witnessed by several friends of the couple.

The Rev. J. Bunn Olive, pastor of the church, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens and tall baskets of white flowers forming an altar. White cathedral candles in tall white candelabra were lighted by the two bridesmaids.

A musical program consisting of a violin solo, "The Rosary," played by Mrs. King, accompanied by Mrs. Wilkins at the piano. Mrs. Earle Brintnall sang "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning." The wedding march from Lohengrin was used as a processional and Mendelssohn's recessional. The vows were spoken to the strains of Nevin's, "To A Wild Rose."

The bride, a striking brunette, was lovely in her gown of white lace over satin, made on close fitting lines with short train. Her long flowing veil of tulle was made cape shape. She carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas, lilies of the valley and swansonia.

Miss Verdine Marshbanks of Greensboro was maid of honor. She wore a gown of flesh color lace over satin and carried an arm bouquet of orchid and pink sweet peas. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Everette Tweed, Jr., of Marshall, and Miss Pauline Thomas, sister of the bride. They wore identical dresses of pink organdy over satin and carried burning tapers tied with white tulle.

Little Margaret Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lee of Mars Hill, was flower girl. She was dressed in orchid organdy and carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered in the path of the bride who entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Billy Wible, who acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception and buffet supper was held at the home of the bride and groom near Marshall, honoring their attendants and out-of-town guests.

CHAIN LETTERS IN MARSHALL

Last week the first of the chain letters one reads so much about in the dailies came to Marshall. It is reported that Mr. J. A. Campbell was the first here to receive one. Since that time the sale of stamps and writing materials here has increased more than 100 per cent.

It is causing as much excitement here as did the recent storm. Even though the fad may last only a few days it is giving many people the expectation of receiving something for nothing and is causing several forms of business to show prosperity.

NEW DEAL BLUES

By Otto Rice
A half million more out of work this winter than last—prices sky high—rents up—wages damn small—the Treasury billions of dollars in hoek—millions—loafers drawing $60.00 a month—We're a darn sight worse off now than we were under Herbert Hoover.

MY FIRST WHITE ROSE

Today I must wear my first rose of white,
It's hard to be brave and say it's all right,
For as the days come and days go,
Little Mother of Mine, I miss you so.

Miss Your cheery "Good morning";
Miss your hallowed "Good night";
Miss the touch of your hand on mine,
When there are battles to fight.

But dearest Mother, Heart of Mine,
I would not have you know
What I must meet in the driving rain
Of sorrows here below.

For you have left me a legacy:
I smile through my tears,
You bequeathed me your friends,
Love mellowed by years.

You who are now so beautiful
In your purple royal,
You with your jewel crowned head
A Mother loyal.

And when from Heaven's Infinite meadow
Oh me you peep down,
On! May your mother love still guide me
Through the shadows that frown.

May you not see me grieve,
May you not see me sad;
For to have had such a mother,
Oh! I must just be glad.

Yet our Master in His lonely hour
Had need of His Chosen Three,
So, Mother of Mine, you understand I know
Why I turn to these friends to comfort me.

Still there's one sweet consolation
Which fills my heart today—
I gave to you, my very best
Before you went away.

MABEL CRAIG WILKINS.

New Lock Frustrates Bandit Attacks

BANK WARNS ROBBERS OF NEW EQUIPMENT

Bank bandits are not likely to raid the Bank of French Broad, now that they have installed a new lock, designed to protect all bank vaults from hold-up. A Diebold Automatic Relocking Delayed Control Combination Lock keeps all currency, except the small amount carried in teller's cages, beyond the bandits' reach at all times.

Officials of the bank explained that the lock cannot be opened at any time until a certain set period has elapsed. It is never possible to eliminate the delay period. Bandits have learned that it is always necessary to wait the full period if they would reach these funds.

Experience has shown that the delay is more than bandits dare to risk. Successful holdups depend upon quick action and a speedy getaway. Police would have ample time to block their getaway if they await the opening of the lock.

The lock is fully automatic. It is automatically re-wound each time it is opened; if it is not opened immediately after the delay period has elapsed, it is automatically relocked.

The installation not only reduces to the minimum the loot bandits could get, but also acts as a preventive for holdups before they are staged. Signs on the entrance door and in the bank lobby warn the bandit "spotter" of this protection. It is not probable that the risk of a hold-up will be incurred when the reward is known to be so small.

The prevalence of bank holdups with their attendant injuries and death to both bank patrons and employees prompted the bank to make the installation.

Junior—Say, mother, how much am I worth?
Mother—Why, you're worth a million to me, dear.
Junior—Well, then, could you advance me a quarter?—Ex.
