Walnut Bows to Mars Hill, 19 to 0

Coach Stines' eleven from Mars Hill High school defeated the Yellow-Jackets of Walnut high school last Friday on the Walnut grid by the score of 19 to 0. It was the opening game for the Walnut eleven. The two teams were pretty evenly matched but the Mars Hill line seemed to have the edge on Walnut's. Walnut has a heavy line and will probably round into better shape later in the season. Walnut had numerous chances to score when Ramsey threw "bull's-eye" passes, only to have the receiver miss them time and again.

Mars Hill scored their first touchdown in the second period and added their other two in the third period. Earhart crashed over Walnut's line for the first touchdown and a pass Earhart to Davis resulted in the second touchdown. J. Davis, back for Walnut, fumbled behind his goal line and Higgins recovered for the last touchdown. A pass Earhart to Ponder was good for the extra point.

Funeral of Sam Hunter In Marshall Monday

Samuel Luther Hunter, age 59, died about 7 o'clock Eastern Standard time in Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday, September 28 at a hospital where he was taken September 16, injured by a blast on a government highway. According to reports Mr. Hunter had prepared the blast and the one who ignited it did not give Mr. Hunter time to withdraw a sufficient distance before igniting it. He was working on the Skyland road next to Clingman's dome about 14 miles from Smokemont where construction work was being done by a Baltimore contractor. The rocks from the blast struck Mr. Hunter in the back, injuring his arm and shoulders, one small rock piercing his spinal column, paralyzing him from his waist down.

The body was brought to Marshall, and funeral services were held at the Free Will Baptist church at 10 o'clock last Monday morning. The services were in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Bascomb Briggan, assisted by the Rev. Arthur Hensley. Interment followed at the Frank Rector cemetery.

Mr. Hunter is survived by his wife and two brothers, Mr. Joe Hunter of Knoxville, and Mr. Bob Hunter of Marshall.

Thomas B. Wallin Hangs Himself

The community was shocked last Thursday to hear that Thomas B. Wallin, age 54, of Walnut Creek had committed suicide that morning by hanging himself in his barn. Suspended by a rope around his neck, he was found about 7:30 by members of his several occasions prior to this. On this particular morning, his daughter Mrs. J. W. Kilpatrick, who lives a short distance from the home of Mr. Wallin, had gone over to Mr. Wallin's to get some eggs for breakfast. She went to the barn and found Mr. Wallin in the barn and he asked her not to come in, that he would get the eggs for her, which he did, running up the steps unusually briskly. He later went to breakfast and ate a hearty meal, his daughter having gone on to her home. Shortly after breakfast, members of the family went to the barn and found him dead, his neck having been broken by the rope as he jumped from the loft.

For several months he had appeared pessimistic, his health not being the best, and he had worried somewhat over financial affairs. However, his son-in-law stated that there was no apparent cause for his worrying. The body was examined by Dr. W. A. Sams.

A coroner's jury, headed by Grover C. Redmon, coroner, investigated and found a verdict of suicide. The jury was composed of Wayne Briggman, F. A. Dodson, D. C. Bryan, Porter Bryan R. S. Sprinkle, and P. A. Allison.

Funeral services were at 2:30 o'clock Friday at Enon Church, conducted by Rev. N. H. Griffin, interment following at the cemetery of Madison Seminary church. Pallbearers were: Jasper Rice, Hugh Rice, Oren Rice, Porter Bryan, Homer Bryan, and Herbert West.

Mr. Wallin is survived by his wife and two sisters, Miss Duffie Wallin, of San Francisco, California, and Miss Lettie Wallin, of Buncombe county. Three sons and one daughter survive him as follows: Fowler Wallin of the home place, Mark Wallin of Leicester, and Fred Wallin of Fayetteville, N. C., and Mrs. J. W. Kilpatrick.

Mr. Wallin is remembered in Marshall as having delivered milk here several years ago.

They lived mid scenes that tried men's souls; They stood the rigid test. In spite of fate they gave the state its bravest and its best. Their progeny have played their part in every field of thought. In civil life, in stress and strife They've counseled, served and wrought.

They helped to carve from wilderness a nation truly great. With pioneers and volunteers They've added state to state. They've counseled nation, state and church; The Congress they've addressed. In wagon trains they've crossed the plains To "The Winning of the West." Mid the stirring scenes of seventy-six Their courage won applause; For every man, rank partisan Espoused his country's cause. On many a bloody battlefield, By flaming canon lighted, They dared to stay in the thick of the fray, Till the country's wrongs were righted.

They saw a nation spring to arms And like Gibraltar stand, They blessed the hour when British Power Was swept from sea and land. They built for peace from Lakes to Gulf, From Cape to golden Strand. They, dared for right and won their fight For home and native land. A "foster son" won lasting fame For victories on the sea. An English fleet had met defeat, AMERICA WAS FREE. The Congress had a medal struck To witness his endeavor. There'd fly at last from staff and mast The "Stars and Stripes" forever. The lad from Wales was Robert Jones, He shipped from British quay. He risked his life to woo a wife. That's why we are here today. Across the earth our kindred sleep. On State they have luster shed. Wherever men have died for right They are bivouaced with the dead. We weave for them a mental wreath And place it as love's token. We say farewell, sleep on, sleep well, Until death's seal is broken. Jno. A. Jones, Del Rio, Tennessee.
