Gross Revenues Increase By TVA Low Rates

Gross revenues from the sale of electricity under low TVA rates are higher now in the city of Pulaski, Tennessee, than they were under the old, high rates. The electric rates under TVA are less than half, and the sale of power has more than doubled.

The increase in consumption from 70,000 kilowatt hours per month to 158,000 kilowatt hours per month has been obtained in only nine months' operation under TVA rates. In October 1934, when the average residential rate was nearly 6 cents per kilowatt hour the total gross revenue for 70,000 kilowatt hours was $3,300 for that month. In September, 1935, when the average residential rate was slightly more than 2 cents per kilowatt hour, the gross revenue for 158,000 kilowatt hours was increased to $3,495.

Pulaski began TVA service on January 4, 1935—the first city in Tennessee to sign a contract for TVA refrigerators, 70 ranges, and 33 electric water heaters. Average residential use jumped from 56 kilowatt hours in January to 95 in September. Stores and offices also increased their use, and three new industries signed up for low cost power.

One of the most progressive features of Pulaski's power program is the city's effort to bring the benefits of low cost electricity to its adjoining rural neighbors. During the

I Could Not Sleep at Night

If I had set a trap of steel,
I could not sleep at night—
The pain-crazed eyes of dying things
Would shine so fiercely bright.

There in the dark around my bed
Shy creatures I would see
With swollen, frozen, bleeding limbs,
For mercy begging me.

I'd hear the anquished, frightened cries
Of little furry balls
Imprisoned, struggling through long days
While no one heeds their calls.

I'd see small paws, half twisted off
And twice their normal size,
Being licked with parched and pain-foamed tongue
Before my sleepless eyes.

I'd see those wild and free-born things
Which should live on in peace,
With glazing eyes look up at me
In pleading for release.

If I had set a trap of steel,
I could not sleep at night—
The pain-crazed eyes of dying things
Would shine so fiercely bright.

early months of 1935, TVA power was confined to the city only, but now the city, convinced of the economic soundness of low cost electricity is sponsoring the construction of rural lines into Giles County. These lines will be operated and maintained by the city of Pulaski on behalf of its farm neighbors.

The rules governing the oral spelling contest for the elementary grades of all the Madison County schools were announced by the committee in charge of the county school activities last week. An invitation has been issued by the county superintendent to all the schools of the county to participate in the contest, and by the activity committee urging all schools to send two representatives to the contest which is to be held in the Mars Hill high school auditorium, Friday, November 22, at 2:30 p. m. This contest marks the beginning of a series of activities to be held monthly under the supervision of the school masters club at the various high schools in the county.

- The rules governing the contest are:
1. The contest will be held in the Mars Hill high school auditorium, Friday, November 22, 1935, and will begin at 2:30 p. m.
 2. Each public school in Madison county will be allowed two participants.
 3. Only regular bonafide students who are members of the fourth, fifth, sixth, or seventh grades will be allowed to participate for the schools they attend.
 4. The words used in the contest will be selected from the N. C. State adopted elementary textbook in spelling.
 5. At the beginning of the contest a list will be taken of all schools participating and the representatives will be lined up in alphabetical school order. The two school representatives will then be lined up in alphabetical name order.
 6. The committee in charge of the contest will select, with the approval of the county school Masters Club, a teacher of English to pronounce the words for the contest.
 7. If a student does not understand a word he or she may ask the teacher in charge to give a definition. Otherwise, no definitions will be given unless the teacher in charge deems necessary. (For example, words pronounced alike but spelled differently, as altar and alter.)

8. A student will be given only one trial at spelling a word.

9. The elimination process will be automatic, a student dropping out when he or she fails to spell a word correctly.

10. The student remaining on the floor when all other students have been eliminated from the contest will be declared winner of the contest for the school he or she represents.

BEAUTIFUL ROAD ON WAY TO RICH MOUNTAIN TOWER NEAR HOT SPRINGS

LEST WE FORGET

To the Friends of Orphanages in North Carolina

The Thanksgiving season rapidly approaches, reminding friends of the orphanages of their urgent needs and the necessity of supplying them. Care of the large number of homeless children in North Carolina is of prime importance and people of our State never forget the orphanages at this time of the year. Annually, for years, there has been a special effort to aid them at Thanksgiving.

The North Carolina orphanages are supporting approximately 5,000 homeless children each year. This does not include the number assisted through Mothers' Aid. The supporting agencies of these orphanages have gone into this work on a voluntary basis and churches and fraternal orders have been impelled by an inner motive of kindness and service to take upon themselves, and into their hearts, the care of the needy, homeless children of the State. The Thanksgiving season has been made far more beautiful since the people, generally have found joy in the opportunity this season presents to assist in the program of child care and training.

Every orphanage in North Carolina needs money. During the depression, and even before, a great many things were left undone at the orphanages. That condition still exists, but liberal Thanksgiving donations by interested citizens, especially from those best able to give most, the orphanages, will be enabled to pay their bills and face the winter with a greater sense of security. We, therefore, wish to impress upon your minds and hearts the needs of the orphanages of North Carolina at this season of the year. It is an opportunity to render a service to homeless children and, at the same time, make an investment in worthy childhood that will pay dividends far beyond all human expectation.

Not a single citizen in the State, either male or female, should fail to join in the movement to provide room for helpless orphans in the homes supported by loving generosity. We cannot escape condemnation hereafter if, seeing human need, we "pass by on the other side," or if facing manifest duty, we seek to shift responsibility to others.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Master expects everyone to do his duty to the orphans, His children, our neighbors—our brethren. Every citizen of the State is admonished to forward the INCOME OF A DAY to the orphanage of his or her choice. It will be an investment in the mind and heart and soul of an orphan child, or children, with all their infinite capacities for good, or evil, in the world.

Respectfully,
M. I. SHIPMAN, Chairman,
A. S. BARNES,
C. K. PROCTOR,
MISS LILLY MITCHELL,
R. C. HOUGH,
Publicity Committee.

LEWIS TWEED SUDDENLY KILLED

Son of Major Tweed, of White Rock, Buried Last Sunday

Lewis Tweed, age nearly 25, son of Major Tweed, of White Rock, met instant death, last Friday afternoon, November 8, about 4:30 o'clock at Hot Springs when the truck he was driving, struck a highway post. He was thrown against the post with such force that he was instantly killed, and as he fell back into the road it was said his truck passed over his body. He was alone and was returning to his home at White Rock after having driven a truckload of logs to Hot Springs. The accident occurred on the highway on the east side of Hot Springs, about where the Ellerson entrance leaves the highway. It is said that he was attempting to drive his truck around another car when it struck the highway post. He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage, was Miss Sophia Buckner, and his father, three brothers and four sisters as follows: Junior, Tope, Guy V., Mrs. Roxy Gentry, Miss Blanche Tweed, Ruth and Hope Tweed.

Funeral services were Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the White Rock Presbyterian church, conducted by a former pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. E. Finley, assisted by the present pastor the Rev. H. L. Weir, and the Rev. L. A. Zimmerman. A quartette of Dorland Bell girls sang very sweetly, "Whispering Hope", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Sarah Finley Thomas. A choir from Marshall accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Morrow, sang a number of hymns. Dr. Finley spoke of the young man as being quiet and industrious, and spoke of the mystery of why such a young man should be taken and older people left. The interment followed at the church cemetery. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Many Visitors Admire Views From Tower And Along Road

CCC CAMP BOYS DO GOOD JOB IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

If you have not visited the Rich Mountain Tower near Hot Springs you still have something to live for. People of Madison county should well be proud of its scenery, some of the most beautiful of which may be seen from this tower and from the road recently built by the CCC boys from the Marshall-Hot Springs highway to the tower. The distance to the tower from the Laurel River bridge is about 3 1/2 miles, about 2 1/2 miles of this distance being practically new construction. Most of the road has been surfaced with chat or pebbles. Only two or three short stretches might become slippery in bad weather. Some of the views along the way can hardly be excelled in Western North Carolina. This writer was very much impressed by his first visit last Sunday. At the peak of the mountain the government has built a tower thirty-five feet high and at the present time it is in charge of Mr. T. E. Trimble and Mr. Erve Wills. Their bedroom at the top of the tower is 14x14 with glass windows all around for observation. It is equipped with telephone service, connecting with Asheville, Greenville, Hot Springs and other points. A map of the Pisgah National Forest is part of their equipment, and Mr. Trimble tells us that the elevation of the floor is approximately 3900 feet. While Sunday was not specially a windy day, the wind on this tower outside of the room was decidedly denounced. In the room, however, a stove keeps the occupants comfortable. Both Mr. Trimble and Mr. Wills are Madison county people. Mr. Trimble's home being between Belva and the Tennessee line, and Mr. Wills' home is at Paint Rock, he being the son of Mr. Steve Wills. One of the interesting things about the tower is that the North Carolina-Tennessee state line divides the room in half, so that a person may sit in North Carolina and converse with his friend in Tennessee. This tower is only four miles from Hot Springs by a foot-way, but is perhaps seven or eight miles around the road. One fork of the road built by the CCC boys leads down to the Tennessee side and comes into the Greenville highway about three miles west of what was formerly Alenstand. If you have not travelled these interesting roads and visited the tower, you would probably enjoy that trip.

Writer Last Week Wrote Lies

PINE CREEK NEWS LAST WEEK STIRS WRATH

Dear Mr. Editor:
Last week in your paper was an item, "News from Pine Creek", meaning, Little Pine Creek, in which someone let the devil use them to tell a pack of lies and meant to have signed my name to the letters, name not published.

There was no dance at Kalamazoo at the Hallway party and I understand no ice cream served. Kalamazoo is a place to serve the Lord and not the devil.

Mr. Frank Payne's barn did not burn down and Miss Zettie Riddie does not go to dances. She is a model Christian girl and one of the best girls in our community. Other items in that letter were lies from the whole cloth.

Yours for the best,
J. HENRY ROBERTS
