So — — Jim Patrick was Temptation Jones — — Approximately 40 people guessed Jim as the one, but I wonder how many actually figured it out from all the clues? — — every clue pointed to Jim but I don't believe all 40 of those who "guessed" really solved the clues — — only one fellow to my knowledge actually came up with the correct solutions of the clues and that person was Coleman Caldwell — — anyway, I might be mistaken — — everyone had a great time figuring out some of the clues while others seemed content to write down what they heard someone else say — — nearly everybody in town received at least one vote — — I even saw where three people thought I was Temptation Jones — — Jim made a very good one, however, and "hid" the fact very well — — the four show at Jack's Saturday afternoon was highly successful — — we all learned a few things we didn't know — — Earl Edwards and Mrs. Coy Haynie "stole the show" by relating some amusing experiences they had with Bernice and Coy while proposing — — the girls danced well and looked quite well, didn't they? — — Shirley Clark was stunning in that beautiful blue evening dress — — her red-dish hair and attractive features brought forth several "ahs and ohs" — — she is a very pretty girl — — and very friendly and nice — — Lyman Martin, Glenn Painter, R. G. Franklin, Roy Reeves, George Shupe and Dr. Bolinger really "put it on" Saturday night — — kept the audience in an uproar throughout the entertainment — — the chorus lines, featuring Nancy Rector, Madeline Ramsey, Bobbie Jo Nix and Patsy Houston, were also excellent — — and Jim Bean, the promoter, was excellent as the interlocutor — — yes, it was a good entertainment and those present seemed to enjoy every minute of it — — am sorry that more didn't attend — — was sorry to have missed the choral clinic at Mars Hill but couldn't play the piano for the Minstrel and attend the

Singing Convention Now At Bear Creek

It has been announced that a singing school is now in progress at the Bear Creek Baptist Church, beginning each evening at 7 o'clock. The school will end with a singing convention to be held Friday evening, February 24. All singers are invited to attend the service on February 24.

clinic at the same time — — heard that the singing was great — — several from here went and thoroughly enjoyed the music — — the Vota Valentine party Tuesday night at Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ramsey's home was quite an affair — — that's the one where husbands are invited — — I've been to several of these shindigs but the one Tuesday night was by far the most interesting and enjoyable — — after an impressive devotional period, the games and contests started with Mrs. D. D. Gross in charge — — believe you me, she had some games and contests which will be long remembered — — plenty of fun — — heaps of laughter — — and many surprises — — the husbands really "let their hair down" and the wives acted like teenagers which resulted in an enjoyable time for all — — Jim Bailey especially enjoyed the game which Kermit Cody put "flavor" into — — dainty and delicious refreshments with the Valentine motif, were also enjoyed following the contests — — I would like to elaborate more about the party but I was warned, bribed, cautioned and dared to "tell too much" in this column — — so I'll change the subject — — found out during the past week that the Rev. L. Richard Mellin likes ping-pong — — he and Jimmy Sprinkle had some fierce contests Tuesday afternoon — — Jack Gross and I joined them in a three-game set — — and, believe it or not, the Baptists defeated the Presbyterian team, 2-1 — — they're seeking revenge but Jack and I are all set for 'em again — — Mr. Mellin is a grand sport and a lot of fun — — it's a pleasure to see a person his age so active and full of wit — — his type never grows old — — it's a shame more men don't enjoy games and sports — — it makes life a great deal happier — — and healthier — — the tournament starts next Wednesday night at Walnut — — will see you there — — I hope.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

So Valentine's Day has passed, so a young man's fancy will be turning to thoughts, etc. — — and this week we have the World Day of Prayer — — note to the proof reader: you young twirps in that department — — have your dictionary at hand before changing my spelling — — last week, I spelled the wine, "champaigne" and so it is — — my dictionary came from a box of peanuts, but it's Webster's — — it may be that Webster Jr., spells it champagne but let's not go fancy — — have some daffodils two or three inches tall but no crocus blooms — — isn't it time for crocus blooms? — — the kids say they have seen robins but wonder if it could have been a red bird facing forward — — so today is Ash Wednesday — — don't know why it is called that, but it is the beginning of Lent — — sort of glad we in this section don't observe Lent — — in the spring, with our appetites dull, cooking is a chore anyway — — forty days of no meat dishes certainly would stretch out — — now is the best time to stick shrubbery down — — that is, if the ground is damp enough — — do you try the new flowers that come out each spring? — — and vegetables too — — the newer sweet corns are not to be compared with the old ones — — ears as large as field corn with the Golden Bantam taste — — remember when we used the old Golden Bantam that was five or six inches long with about eight rows of kernels — — aim to try some of the hybrid petunias, too — — the single plants are showy, but the bedding varieties are always most popular — — don't get leggy like single plants do — — "cosmos or bust" is going to be my motto this summer — — other people pull them out of the flower beds and garden — — I nurse them along and have a few spindly plants with anemic looking blooms — — believe an early start'll do it.
