Extra Time Is A Rare Item For College President's Wife

By CATHERINE GAINES

One day a young man who was clutching a furry object appeared at the door and stammered:

"Lady, do you want a cat? Y'see I'm a student and I found it in my room and I know THEY won't let me keep it . . .'

"Lady" smiled, took the little animal in, and sat down for a quiet She is the wife of that man with a right to frown over kittens in dormitories, Dr. Hoyt Blackwell, president of Mars Hill College.

Mrs. Blackwell, by virtue of her own three children, has a deep understanding of young people. house overlooking a campus filled wish more than a thousand students is her idea of the perfect place to be. Mrs. Blackwell's home, the college and Mars Hill Baptist Church are her main interests. She is a memUnion of the church and teaches a Sunday School class for young wom-

She has been an active member of he Mars Hill Parent-Teachers Assoiation for many years. Her sons, Albert, 17, and Eric, 10, are now attending schools in Mars Hill, Hannah Brown is a Junior at Wake Forest College.

Extra time is an item Mrs. Blackwell has very little of, since as the wife of a college president, she must be ready for impromptu entertainng. Her latch string is always out for visiting dignitaries, old friends, and streams of former students.

"Of course, hobbies," she laughs, 'involve having time." But she does claim one, reading, a carryover from days when she majored in English literature. Mrs. Blackwell is a graduate of Carson-Newman College. ber of the Woman's Missionary where her father, the late Albert R.

TRAPPED BY PENNY

Cleveland, Ohio - Shortly after a passenger handed him five pennies for a tip, Lou Takaes, a taxi driver, was held up by a gunman and robbed of $10. Police arrested a suspect, who protested his innocence. Takacs remembered that one of the pennies had been blackened and had a dent in it. Sure enough, that pen ny was in the suspect's pocket.

Brown was a trustee

A second hobby, and certainly appreciation, goes to music. The Blackwell home is always filled with the musical strains since all three children have studied the piano for many years.

Albert carries his love for music a step farther with hours of practice on a trumpet. His interest in horns, Mrs. Blackwell says, goes back to a day when at seven he emptied his piggy-bank, took his "life savings," and bought a bugle.

The college, itself, is a source of pride and inspiration for Mrs. Blackwell who has seen it grow during the last 26 years, under her husband's presidency. Their house is situated on a hill above the campus, a prime vantage point for watching the placing of new bricks in new buildings.

Tradition is also preserved at the college and one of the president's wife's favorite student stories revolves around a marker on the main street.

The marker, which rests on the site of the first college purmano, reads, "N. W. Corner, First Build-

"Mrs. Blackwell," a worried lookng freshmen asked her one day. 'who was that Mr. Corner buried ut there?"

Miss Ramsey Is Bride Of James R. Woody Jr.

Miss Shelby Jean Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ramsey of Hot Springs, became the bride of James R. Woody Jr., son of Mrs. James Woody of Hot Springs, Route 1, Saturday, March 31, 1956, at 7:00 p. m., in the Hot Springs Methodist Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph Hogan, and organ music was presented by the Rev. Jack Alber.

The bride was given in marriage by her brotherin-law, Mr. Jack Ebbs. She wore a waltz length dress of lace and satin. Her shoulder length veil of net was held with orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Miss Sue Ella Reeves of Hot Springs, served as maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a iress of yellow, fashioned like that of the bride.

Mr. Burder Woody, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Ushers were Bruce Woody and Tommy Harrison, of Hot Springs. A sisting at the reception in the recreation room of the church were Mrs. Jack Ebbs and Mrs. Floyd Gregory, sisters of the bride, both of Hot Springs.

Following the ceremony, the couple left by automobile for South Lebanon, Ohio, where they will reside.
