THE FARMER'S WIFE

Ladies, do you mind if I lower the boom on your husbands? — I know a few men read this column for themselves, but others may not — anyway, the political pot has gone into high early this time — most men think women don't take politics seriously enough — I wouldn't know about that, but most women don't take politics as seriously as they do some other things — last campaign men from all over the county met at one of the filling stations in Marshall as regularly as Sunday morning came — within rock-throwing distance of 4 churches the huddle formed — discussing strategy? — I wouldn't know — where were their wives and children while the meeting lasted? — don't know that either — but I'm positive that the churches who claim these men could have used them those Sundays — never saw a woman present (knock on wood) only heard one man mention these meetings but a lot of women thought it could be postponed to 12:01 when church services would be over — see you in Sunday School, boys — found some of the old fashioned climbing nasturtium seed in town last week — you remember the sort that runs twenty feet or so and blossoms all the way — the best thing about them is that they bloom in poor, rocky soil with no fertilizer whatever — rich soil makes them all vine and no bloom — and the seed makes a good pickle spice — have some sweet corn to plant when the leaves on the poplar tree are the size of a squirrel's ear — which will be about next week.

The next PTA meeting will be held Monday night, May 7 at 8:00 o'clock. We wish to see more parents come out and show the students we are backing them up. How do we know what they are interested in unless we visit with them and discuss their plans with them? We can't sit at home, wish for a better school and more interest in the children, and get it — we must work for the students and with them. As this is our last meeting of this school year, come and show your interest in the coming year. There have been lots of improvements this past year. Let's make more in the coming one. MRS. DAVID KIMBERLY, Pres. MRS. JACK JOYCE, Reporter
