HERSEY BROWN WOMEN

Attended the annual 4-H Dress Revue last Friday afternoon at the REA Building and I must say, those ten gals who participated really looked good — and they know how to make and model dresses, too — Joy Lou Hensley again won top honors — "Pat" Robinson was runner-up honors and Lucille Sprinkle won third place — all three girls were beautiful — and I mean beautiful — I always enjoy "covering" the dress revue — Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Buckner are doing a swell job — Bob Miller and I had a grand time "shooting" pictures — nearly stealing the show, however, were Joy Lou's two little five-year-old twin sisters, Kay and Faye — they were precious and will someday be as pretty as Joy Lou — the Kenneth Hensleys can certainly be proud of a beautiful and talented family — the graduating exercises at the school last Thursday night were fine — Dr. Seymour gave a splendid address and the entire program was well presented to the capacity audience — understand there were many tears shed at the school Friday morning as the graduates received their final reports and started saying farewell to classmates — the Marshall High School Alumni Banquet Friday night was a "dilly" — the whole affair was highly successful and Mrs. Matthews' talk was one of the finest ever delivered at the school — the cafeteria was certainly beautifully decorated and the Welcome Alumni insignia on the wall was most appropriate — Allene Hancock is a past master at decorating — in fact, she's very good at anything she undertakes — was sorry only two members of my class showed up — Rosetta and Johnny — but I surely was glad to see them — next year there should be twice as many present — those embarrassing moments of Howard Banks, Dot Shope and Guy White were really something — Mrs. Sprinkle and staff really prepared a grand meal and the home ec. gals did a good job of serving — Emma Thomas who just graduated from Walnut High, started work here this week at the office — she's interested in journalism and hopes to make a newspaperwoman one of these days — we will try to teach her everything we know — and hopes she succeeds in her ambitions — Virgil Smith got the scare of his life Tuesday night when Howard Banks jumped out of the dark and grabbed him — I've never heard such a moan — Jimmie Sprinkle is certainly improving at ping-pong — won't be long until he's pinning back my ears — haven't been up to the swimming pool yet but heard the water was cold — guess it'll soon warm up, though —

So today (Wednesday) is Memorial Day — I can remember when we called it Decoration Day and it was so called on all calendars — must have had its name changed after the First World War — remember when we used to have memorial services at the cemeteries where veterans of the Civil War were buried? — all the veterans' graves would be decorated with cabbage roses and Union or Confederate flags — and some long winded citizen, preferably a politician, made a speech as to how these veterans had fought at the Battle of Gettysburg or ridden with Lee's cavalry in Virginia — if the people who thought their grandfather was with Lee in Virginia were laid end to end they'd probably reach around the world — anyway, about this time in the speech I used to get an inferiority complex, since my grandfather had only fought in the swamps of Georgia and the red clay of South Carolina — don't imagine he cut a dashing figure either — he being one of those who used his own hog rifle and swapped a cow each fall for a pair of shoes, since he walked up from Atlanta for each furlough — hardship in war was known in those days, too — just don't remember that we had any singing at these services but we probably did — anyway before we went home the older people assured each other that all the old hatreds of the war days were gone — maybe they thought so at the time but those old hatreds come to life easily, so even today it's a subject to be handled with gloves.

Deal Is Initiated Into Chemistry Fraternity

Thirty-one chemistry students at Gardner-Webb College were initiated last week into Alpha Beta Gamma, national honorary chemistry fraternity.

The initiates met in Asheville with students from a number of other colleges in the Carolinas and Tennessee. They were accompanied by Prof. M. A. Moseley Jr.

Outstanding scholastic achievement was a requirement for membership in the fraternity.

Listed among the Gardner-Webb students accepted was Landon Deal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Deal of Marshall RFD 3. Landon, a 1955 graduate at Marshall High School, was a star athlete while at the local school.

FAMILY TONSILECTOMY

Richmond, Va. — Mrs. Earl Williams stayed at the Richmond Eye Hospital with the three children of the family—Earl Jr., 11, David, 8, and Elizabeth, 4, who had just had their tonsils removed. Papa Williams went over to the animal hospital nearby to be with Danny, who also had his tonsils removed. It seems the dog was having some throat trouble and losing his appetite just like the kids, so he had his tonsils removed, too.
