Plans and specifications for building on the present site had been completed. It is the opinion of the Building Committee however, that new plans and specifications will be needed for the new site. A consultant from the Department of Architecture of the Baptist Sunday School Board will be asked to come to Marshall and make recommendations.

Marshall Book Club Met Last Monday Night

The Marshall Book Club met Monday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Sams. Mrs. Wiley Roberts was program chairman for the evening and introduced Miss Mary Morris, much beloved former resident of the county and now from Maryville Tenn. Miss Morris gave the club an intimate and interesting account of her early life and that of her missionary family among the Sioux Indians of the Northwest. Of particular interest was an old hymnal which her family had translated and arranged the music in Indian language.

Following the program, delicious refreshments were served to nine members and four guests.

Revival To Start At Spring Creek Sunday

According to an announcement by the pastor, the Rev. Coleman Caldwell, a revival will start at Flats of Spring Creek Baptist Church Sunday night. The Rev. Silas J. Fortner will be the evangelist. Everyone invited to attend.

Baptist Brotherhood Sponsors Picnic At Craggy Gardens

The Brotherhood of the Marshall Baptist Church sponsored a church-wide picnic Wednesday afternoon at the Craggy Gardens Picnic Area, on the Blue Ridge Parkway. The party left the Baptist Church about 3:45 p. m., and arrived at the Picnic Area about an hour later. The group was a good representation of the church, including young children and grandparents.

After the picnic, the group held its Wednesday evening worship service around a campfire. The service was opened by Mr. John O. Corbett Jr., president of the Brotherhood. Mr. Corbett extended a cordial welcome to every one on behalf of the Brotherhood, and then led the group in the singing of several hymns. Following the song session, the Reverend D. D. Gross, pastor of the church, led a period of devotional worship in readings from the Psalms and prayers.

Wilkins

Dr. Wilkins was one of the investigators responsible for the introduction from India of the native drug, rauwolfia serpentina, to lower blood pressure. Dr. Wilkins will speak at the first independent scientific sessions to be held by the state Heart group, on Saturday afternoon, September 16, at the Battery Park Hotel.

Other speakers at the scientific sessions will be Dr. Harold D. Green of Bowman Gray The Early Diagnosis of Pulmonary Bacterial Disease; Dr. H. G. Sandifer of UNC on "Psychological Factors Concerning the Treatment of Cardiac Patients;" Dr. Edward C. Curnen Jr., of UNC on "Recognition and Management of Rheumatic Fever;" Dr. E. Harvey Estes Jr., of Duke on "Current Concepts Regarding Prevention of Coronary Heart Disease;" Dr. Albert Heyman of Duke on "Diagnosis, Treatment and Prevention of Cerebral Vascular Disease;" and Dr. John B. Hickam of Duke on "The Prevention and Treatment of Heart Failure in Pulmonary Disease." Dr. James V. Warren of Duke is chairman of the sessions and Dr. Wilkins will act as summarizer.

Dr. Wilkins will also give an address at the annual meeting banquet Saturday night on "New Hope for Hearts Through Research." A native of Tennessee, Dr. Wilkins graduated from the University of North Carolina and obtained his medical degree from Harvard Medical School in 1933. He interned and had a research fellowship at Boston City Hospital in 1937, then spent a year on research in London at the National Hospital, Queen's Square. After teaching for two years at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, he went to Boston University in 1940. Now professor of Medicine there and associate director of the Evans Memorial Department of Clinical Research and Preventive Medicine, he is also associate Physician-in-Chief to the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals and Chief of the Hypertension Clinic.

Boston University has long been a center for original work on the surgical and medical treatment of high blood pressure and Dr. Wilkins has specialized in drug therapy for this disease. Since the introduction rauwolfia serpentina, a host of "tranquilizing" drugs have been developed. Support of heart research is one of the major concerns of the American Heart Association and its state affiliates, including the North Carolina Heart Association. As a result of public support of the 1956 Heart Fund, some $80,000 will be spent on projects at the three medical centers in this state during the coming year. On a national scale, heart research grants will run into millions of dollars.

Reports on heart research will be only one feature of the Heart meeting, which will last two days, Saturday morning, September 16, will be given over to problems of health education and the rehabilitation of cardiac patients as presented in "how not to do it" skits, followed by group discussions and a pooling session of combined reports. Dr. William L. Fleming, professor of Preventive Medicine at UNC, is chairman of this section which will begin at 9:30 a. m. On Saturday afternoon, while the medical men are in their scientific session, from 2 to 5:30, lay members of the Heart Association will attend a showing of new films on heart disease. These films and the exhibits which will be on display are designed to aid heart workers in their educational approach to the public. There will be a social hour Saturday evening at 6:30 and the banquet at 7:30.

Sunday morning, September 16, will be devoted to fund raising problems, with discussion led by William W. Moore Jr., director of fund raising for the American Heart Association and William W. Wood, executive director of the North Carolina Heart Association. The annual meeting luncheon will follow at 1 p. m., with a guest speaker, reports of the Association treasury and the nominating committee, and the installation of officers for the coming year. Members of the Medical Society of the State of North Carolina have been invited to attend the scientific sessions and the other sections of the program they desire. All meetings will be held in the Battery Park Hotel in Asheville. For more information, write to the North Carolina Heart Association, 200 N. Hargett St., Raleigh, N. C.

USE PLANNED MARKETING BEEF PROGRAM

Wayne County Agent G. Mark Goforth Jr., believes that the utilization of all farm land and labor to its best use should be the goal of every farmer. He points to the sound business approach used by Dr. D. J. Rose in his cattle operation as a means of achieving this goal.

Dr. Rose raises calves that he sells each year. But he takes the necessary time to decide how each calf could be marketed to the best advantage. He keeps the best blocky beef type calves and feeds them additional grain. But those calves that would not utilize the grain as well are sold directly from the cows in the fall. Then the older calves go into the feed lot in the early fall. These older, heavier calves are full fed grain and hay for 3 or 4 months and then sold in the early spring. The smaller calves are grazed through the winter, and during the following spring and summer they have good grazing plus a limited amount of grain. As the amount of grazing decreases during the summer, the grain is increased. These cattle are then sold in the late summer. This program gives Dr. Rose 3 primary selling periods — fall, spring, and summer. By selling at three different times, he reduces the risk of selling all his cattle on a low market. In addition, he uses his labor, grazing and feed to the best advantage.

Revival To Begin Sunday, August 24

An old-fashioned, sin-killing revival will begin at 281 Deaverly Rd. in West Asheville starting Friday night, Aug. 24. Rev. Jeter Harris of Bingham Heights community and Rev. Eulas Maddron of West Asheville will conduct the services. Services will begin at 7:45 p. m. each evening. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone. Come and help in this campaign for lost souls. Your prayers and interest will be most appreciated.

Food Sanitation School Big Success

We of the Madison County Health Department feel that the recent Food Sanitation School held in Madison County at the Marshall High School last week was a real inspiration to us as well as being beneficial to the foodhandlers who attended. There were over a hundred people from the various foodhandling establishments of this county who attended either one or both sessions of the school. During the two brief sessions the basic fundamentals of sanitary foodhandling were discussed. These are: elementary bacteriology, personal hygiene, recommended foodhandling practices and proper dishwashing procedures. Door prizes and refreshments were received or postmarked not later than the closing date.

Enlistees Are Now Accepted For Special Forces Of U. S. Army

Sgt. Klutz, Army Recruiting Representative for Madison County announced this week that a limited number of vacancies exist for enlistment in Special Forces, the elite of the famed Airborne troops. Qualified men will be accepted on a first-come first-served basis. All interested may contact Sgt. Klutz Friday between 12 noon and 4 p. m., at the Court House in Marshall. There were given at both sessions and a beautiful steam iron was awarded to Mrs. Frances Briscoe, of the Mars Hill College Cafeteria for the best sanitation suggestion concerning foodhandling. We wish to express deep appreciation to the various merchants and firms for supplying the door prizes and refreshments; also the various guest speakers and all participants on the programs.
