HEARD AND SEEN

By "POP"

The first football game of the season was very successful as far as two Madison teams were concerned — Marshall and Mars Hill — Marshall blasted Leicester, 20-0, and Mars Hill trampled Bakersville, 26-7 — Hot Springs and Walnut, however, tasted defeat, Hot Springs bowing to Clyde, 33-6 and Old Port defeating Walnut, 38-0 — Walnut's defeat was even more significant with the shoulder injury of its star back, Bruce Roberts — everybody is sorry that Bruce had his shoulder injured and hopes he will be in shape again soon — much work is in store for the Tornados — the team looked very good in spots and also "just-so" in spots — the locals must learn not to "jump the gun" so often — those 5-yard offside penalties can hurt — "Footsie" Williams fielded a good team when you consider it was Leicester's first football game — Clarence Edwards, Marshall fullback, looked very good and his brilliant runs prevented the game from being otherwise "dull" — Coaches Barnwell and Reeves don't have as many boys as in the past years but they are doing a good job with the boys — they'll improve, that's for sure — and Marshall should have a creditable season — the Marshall band, majorities and cheerleaders were strictly "on the ball" — John Lackey is doing a fine job with the musicians and those "fancy steps" add greatly to the display of marching and music — the Marshall Civitan Club in cooperation with the N. C. State Patrol can feel justly proud of the grim reminders and display which were set up at Mashburn's property over the Labor Day week-end — thousands of cars and motorists stopped to look at the display which included the charred body of the Barefoot car — hundreds of cards were given to drivers, warning them of the dangers in this congested area — Patrolmen C. H. Long and Fred Bowen, along with several members of the Civitan Club, stood in the hot sun for hours handing out the cards — most of the tourists seemed to appreciate the display and warnings — Patrolman Long and John Corbett did much work in this effort to save lives — Bowman-Rector Funeral Home also aided greatly by letting one of its ambulances stay at the display — making the display more impressive — the effort may have and probably did, save some wrecks and lives — congratulations to Miss Tolley, Hot Springs student, who was awarded the honor of "Miss Madison County" at the Carolina-Tennessee Fair at Newport Thursday night — also heard that the Marshall and Mars Hill bands did an excellent job at the fair — went up to Mars Hill Sunday and attended the open house at the Elmore Home — the four daughters of Mrs. E. R. Elmore, with their families, entertained from 3 until 6 o'clock in observance of their mother's 75th birthday — the home was beautifully decorated and I enjoyed seeing so many of the fine people there — Earl Bryan and I had quite a nice talk in the yard — Bob and Frances Seymour came up while I was enjoying refreshments — they both looked fine — I'm glad Bob Holt didn't come up while I was taking on the refreshments 'cause he'd accused me of going up there just for the refreshments — who was the Marshall college student (boy) who included a pot holder, dish cloth and dish towel in his baggage when he started off to college the other day? — went over to the PTA meeting Tuesday night — Clyde Roberts is going to make 'em a good president — enjoyed seeing and hearing the Girl Scouts and Brownies perform — they told of experiences at Day Camp which were enjoyed by those present — one of the cute little girls stated that she took the "shell off of a potato" — well, I guess a peeling can be called shell, can't it? — the Girl Scouts repeated the oath, Scout laws and song — Mrs. Lorraine Robinson told of her trip to Wildscres which was very interesting — in fact, the meeting was very entertaining — more men should attend — in fact, more women and teachers should attend.

BETWEEN US WOMEN

THE FARMER'S WIFE

"Everyone to his own taste," said the man who kissed the cow — if you take the Post, look through the back number to the August 11th number and read "I Love Those Italian Men" by Letitia Baldrige — or better still, read it to your husband — Miss Baldrige is some sort of private secretary in Rome — she loves the custom of Italian men following women on the street making remarks about her — it is considered a compliment to be thus annoyed on the street — the age of the woman has nothing to do with it, the old and ugly get the same attention as the young and beautiful — can you imagine two or three men, bald and fifty, following a woman fat and sixty, along the street — people have been jailed for less than that in America — if the Italian woman likes the custom, well and good but please excuse us — and what about the Pearsall plan on which we vote Saturday? — most of us are halted between two opinions — whether to vote for a plan as confusing as the Pearsall plan or not to vote and let come what will — we must make up our minds in the next two days.

WISE FOOD BUYING WILL REQUIRE SKILL

"How does the consumer decide on what is a good buy?" asks George Abshier, extension consumer marketing specialist at State College. He says that wise food buying requires a high degree of skill and a broad knowledge of many products.

In its simplest economic terms, according to Abshier, a good buy is determined by the amount of satisfaction received per unit of cost, compared to other choices.

Cost and satisfaction must be weighed carefully, along with other factors, such as convenience, facilities and family tastes.

Cost involves more than money. Proper judgment of the real cost, says Abshier, involves calculation of cost per pound, and the ultimate cost per serving of the final edible product.

The cost per serving may vary greatly according to the form of the product, whether fresh, frozen, or canned, and the manner of packaging.

According to Abshier, convenience of preparation, serving, and storing should be considered. Prepared foods provide greater convenience at greater cost. The extra cost of this "built-in maid service" may offset the time and energy saved, especially for homemakers working outside the home.

The satisfaction a food provides the consumer is the major test in determining a good buy. The taste, attractiveness, and general quality affect the satisfaction.

Wise buying is a big job, says Abshier, and determining the good buys is a matter of weighing all the factors. The results will vary, but the final test is whether the maximum amount of family satisfaction is obtained from the expenditure for food.
