TEN — SHUN! EYES RIGHT! "Bookie Too, I thought that would do it. I have been trying to get you to listen to me for the last twenty minutes, but you were so deep in that book you are reading you wouldn't pay me a bit of mind. What I want to tell you is that this is NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK — March 16-22."

"Well I know that already."

"Read about it in the News-Record, of course. That's why I am reading this book."

"O — Kay, Bookie Too, put that book down for just a minute, while I tell you some more about the significance of this week, known as NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK. First I guess I had better explain about these special weeks that are set aside all through the year. Maybe, I could use as an example National Egg Week. During that week you are supposed to eat eggs and more eggs."

"Does that mean that I am supposed to EAT BOOKS this week?"

"Now Bookie Too, don't act stupid. You know as well as I do that eggs are for eating, and books are for reading."

"Well, I am reading a book, so for goodness sake, let me read. This is a real good book about a cat named Thomasina. I liked that book I read about THE DOG THAT WOULDN'T BE. BRIDGE TO THE SUN was good too. Oh, there are so many good books on my shelves, I wish I could just sit here and read for a month."

"Bookie Too, that would be selfish. Don't you know that the folks on Sandy Mush, in Marshall, up Big Pine, in Walnut, over in Mars Hill and on Highway 19-23 are waiting for us to come. They have been waiting since February, when the big blizzard kept us home."

"When can I find time to read if you talk to me every minute when we aren't out on the route."

"Bookie Too, folks can always find time to do the things they really want to do."

"Well, yes, that's true. I had just found some time to read when along you came trying to tell me that I should do what I was already doing. By the way this is NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK. Here's a good book for you to read."

"Thank you, Bookie Too, thanks a lot. Let's both stop talking, and READ — READ — READ."
