URGES USE OF NITROGEN TO ROT STUMPS

Lloyd Thomas of the Middle Fork Community has a very good way of clearing land for alfalfa. The stumps are still there. During the summer, he will use a chain saw to cut the stumps off below the ground level then use a bush and bog disc to loosen the soil. He will apply the lime and fertilizer required for broadcast then work that into the soil. This application will be left for a few weeks so the nitrogen will start the decomposition of all the roots and organic matter in the soil. When it comes time to plant his alfalfa he will apply more fertilizer to help feed the small plants and get them started. This way, Lloyd says he does not have as much of a weed problem and no sprouts to worry him.

Nitrogen, of course, is the major factor in the breakdown of the organic matter which helps to rot the stumps. This is a good thing to keep in mind when anyone wants to remove a stump in their lawn. Put soil up around it to make a flower bed for a few years. Be sure, of course, to fertilize heavily with high rates of nitrogen for good plant growth. A few short years will eliminate the stump completely.

Mrs. Vann Is Honored For Her Service To MHC

Mrs. L. I. Vann of Mars Hill was cited Wednesday for 37 years of "loyal service to Mars Hill College."

The honor was in the form of a dedication of the 1958 College yearbook, The Laurel, to her. The dedication, an annual feature of the yearbook kept secret until the volume is ready for distribution was revealed in a regular service on the campus by the editor Charlton Davis of Waynesville.

It read, "In acknowledgement of her contributions as an educator — more than just a teacher of German and Spanish, she has aided and inspired her students to attain the very best in life — and in appreciation of her fine example in Christian living — we dedicate the 1958 Laurel."

It was also revealed in the chapel service that Barbara Carmichael, a second-year student from Thomasville, is "Miss Laurel of 1958." The winner one of 12 coeds nominated for the title, was selected by Mrs. Georgia Kaiser, wife of the nationally known former band leader Kaye Kaiser of Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Vann, then Miss Cornelia Howell, first joined the Mars Hill College faculty in 1920 soon after her graduation from Baylor College for Women in Texas. From that time until 1929 she was dean of women at Mars Hill. In 1929 she was married to Dr. L. L. Vann of Danville, Va., who had served as college physician since 1927. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John A. McLeod of Mars Hill, who is still an active member of the faculty.

After their marriage, Dr. and Mrs. Vann lived in Danville for two years but returned to Mars Hill in 1931. Mrs. Vann rejoined the faculty of the modern language department at the college and has taught there ever since. Dr. Vann died several years ago.

In addition to her baccalaureate degree, Mrs. Vann studied at Columbia University and did graduate work in Spain; she received the master of arts degree from the University of North Carolina in 1926 and did additional work there in 1939 and 1940. She ranked second, behind Mrs. O. E. Roberts of Mars Hill, in total service among active members of the Mars Hill College faculty.

BRAVADO FATAL

Price, Utah — To prove he wasn't afraid, Joseph C. Ciarus, 16, suggested a game of Russian roulette to three friends. Ciarus took his empty .22-calibre revolver and showed them how to play. To show he wasn't afraid, he put a single bullet in the gun's cylinder, pointed the weapon at his head and pulled the trigger.

CAST ASIDE

Many a man insists on keeping his worldly possessions in his own name, but is willing to leave his religion in his wife's.

Nothing happened. He did it again. Nothing happened. Then, he did it a third time. The gun fired, sending a bullet into his brain and he died three hours later in a hospital.
