Rescue Squads And Other Volunteers Help; Rites Held Sunday

The body of Carl Williams, 48, of the Doe Branch section of Madison County, was discovered Saturday morning about 11:10 o'clock near the old Ferry boat landing in the Sandy Bottom area of the French Broad River.

This ended an intensive three-day search which had been carried on by many volunteers and rescue squads from Enka, Newport, Morristown and Sevierville.

On Fishing Trip

Sheriff Ponder reported that Junior Price, a friend of Williams, and Williams were fishing in the Sandy Bottom area (about 10 miles north of Marshall) Thursday morning. Price told a deputy sheriff he and Williams separated to hunt for bait and when Price later went to a place where they were to meet, he found Williams' shoes, socks, bill fold and hat on a sand bar and Williams' foot prints leading in to the river.

On the other side of the river was a boat, and the sheriff said Williams may have started to swim to get the boat and was caught in the river's swift current.

MADISON MAN SHOT FATALLY IN INDIANA

Boles, James Connected To Local Break-Ins This Month

A State Trooper and a Deputy Sheriff fatally wounded a North Carolina man who ignored their order to halt as he ran from the scene of a restaurant burglary. A companion was arrested.

Investigation showed the burglary to be only a ripped open juke box and an undisclosed amount of coins taken.

State Trooper Jack Appleby and Dep. Sheriff Kenneth Shively were summoned to the scene late Friday after a report of a burglary at a tavern across the street from the Shady Acres Restaurant, about 1 1/4 miles South of Muncie, Ind.

The officers said that 25-year-old Jay D. James of RFD 6, Marshall, N. C., climbed from a side window of the restaurant and ran. They said they ordered him to stop, fired several warning shots into the air and then shot at him when he continued to run.

James was dead on arrival at a hospital.

BEECH GLEN DELEGATION SEEKS TEACHERS

A delegation of about 20 persons from Beech Glen, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Metcalf, met with the Madison County board of education last Thursday night in the courtroom of the courthouse here. Primary purpose of the conference was the attempt to retain two teachers — Mrs. Agnes Metcalf and Mrs. Ralph Neill — on the Beech Glen school faculty.

The delegation voiced resentment that the two teachers were not retained for the Beech Glen School. Superintendent Fred W. Anderson explained that due to the daily average of attendance under State rules, it was impossible to retain both teachers.

The delegation commended last year's faculty and stated that they were most interested in maintaining a good school at Beech Glen. They expressed a desire to work in harmony with the Beech Glen school committee and the board of education, Mr. Anderson said.

The board expressed regret that Beech Glen had been forced to reduce its number of teachers due to the attendance average making it impossible to retain all eight of its teachers.

The Madison County Board of Education went on record in the presence of the above delegation as strongly favoring action which would permit retaining 37 seven teachers and the principal for the Beech Glen School instead of the present allotted six teachers and the principal.

Improvement of North Carolina's business climate was tackled in Asheville Monday at a Western North Carolina Industrial Development Conference in Battery Park Hotel.

Some 75 representatives of 25 WNC counties were told by Gov. Hodges that much has been done and still can be done to build N. C. reputation as a state in which a favorable business climate exists.

"Our success or failure in exploiting this reputation can be determined only by those of you who, in the final analysis, are called upon to lay the goods on the line," Hodges declared.

Our entire state, he said, still has a long way to go before it begins to realize the benefits of its full potential, "but I am convinced that we are on the right road."

Referring to education as one of the tools needed to get the job done, Hodges declared that "we must keep our schools open and improve them steadily."

"... I hope each North Carolinian, particularly this week, will make it his personal responsibility to take part in government and to vote in all elections," he said.

The governor also called attention to per capita and population figures for the mountain region.

The session was the last in a series of four meetings held across the state to stimulate interest in promoting industrial development (Continued To Page Seven)

WHITENER FIGHTS VA BED CUT

Washington — Rep. Basil L. Whitener (D-NC) urged the Veterans Administration last week to reconsider its plan to reduce the bed capacity at Ocon, N. C., when the VA hospital at Swannanoa, N. C., is consolidated with it.

Whitener made public a letter addressed to Sumner C. Whitener, VA administrator. He said the VA plans to reduce the bed capacity of Ocon and Swannanoa combined from 850 to 725.

The two hospitals are expected to be consolidated at Ocon about September 1.

"My experience has been that it has been unadvisable to reduce the number of beds in a veterans' hospital," Whitener said. "The consolidation of Ocon and Swannanoa would result in a loss of 125 beds, which would be a serious hardship on the veterans of this area."
