NO STEALING
 Memory Selection: "Let the thief no longer steal, but rather let him labor, doing honest work with his hands, so that he may be able to give to those in need."
 —(Ephesians 4:28)
 Lesson Text: Exodus 20:15; Joshua 7:19-26; Matthew 22:15-22; Mark 11:15-19; Luke 19:1-27.
 In examining the last six Commandments in order to help Christians discover the eternal principles underlying a Christian's relationships with his fellow men, the purpose of our study today is to discuss some of the reasons why people steal from others, from their society, and from God, and to make a strong case for honesty as one of the fundamental Christian virtues.

 "Thou shalt not steal," is the eighth Commandment. And it is broken more often than we care to admit. We do not always render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's!
 Many well-meaning men and women are victimized into believing that the complexity of our current-day life, inflationary prices, and competition for recognition made it difficult, if not impossible, to succeed without cheating. We would like to believe that men universally prize their integrity. Upon nothing else in life do we place a higher premium. But stealing, in one form or another, goes on almost constantly. Why?
 First, there is a minority group in any society which is chronically diseased... the kleptomaniacs. They are sick, and they cannot help themselves. Appealing to their conscience and will is a waste of breath. Their promises are made in good faith, but their resistance to the temptation to steal is negligible. Others steal so they can gain prestige. How often has an embezzler used his ill-gotten funds to build up his reputation as a philanthropist or a benefactor? If he is an outgoing person, he banks in the warmth of adulation; if he is an introvert, he simply settles for inner personal satisfaction. And the man who boasts that he can collect a full eight-hours' pay without producing eight hours of honest work, is very common — and not much nobler! The student who takes advantage of the honor system and cheats on an examination is a thief, too.

 Still others steal for the sole purpose of accumulating wealth. They believe that trickery and deceit are justifiable means of gaining economic security. How mistaken they are!
 We are all acquainted with these different kinds of stealing. And as Christians we are interested not merely in diagnoses, but also in remedies. What will make it possible for those who steal to become whole in terms of integrity and re-acceptance by society? Those who steal because they are mentally diseased — the kleptomaniacs — will not be helped by moral preachments. They must

The Upper Room
 • THE UPPER ROOM, MARSHALL, TENNESSEE

Read Luke 12:13-21

A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth. — (Luke 12:15).
 A parable has been described as "an earthly story with a heavenly meaning." Jesus used many parables to illustrate His teachings.
 For instance, He told the parable of the rich man who had bountiful harvests and decided to build larger barns to hold them. Thus he planned to have "goods laid up for many years" so that he could take his "ease, eat, drink, and be merry."
 But God said to him, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." Jesus concluded the parable, saying, "So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."
 What an example of our world today! People spend so much effort and worry accumulating and increasing material wealth. They give so little time and attention to laying up spiritual treasure, which cannot be taken away, even by death. These are the treasures of love, mercy, kindness, justice — fruits of being faithful followers of Christ, of His way of life.
 Prayer: Our Father, forgive us for striving for earthly pleasures and possessions. Turn our minds and hearts to seek spiritual treasures which pass not away. Trusting Thee to supply our needs, in Christ's name we offer our prayer. Amen.
 Thought for the day: "Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth."

BRUSH BURNING PERMITS ARE NOW ESSENTIAL
 J. Moody Chandler, Madison County Forest Ranger, announced this week that brush-burning permits are essential and urge everyone in Madison County to read the following law and secure permits at once:
 Brush-Burning Permit Law:
 14-139. Starting fires within five hundred feet of areas under protection of State Forestry service. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to start or cause to be started any fire or ignite any material in any of the areas of woodlands under the protection of the State Forest Service or within five hundred (500) feet of any such protected area, during the hours starting a midnight and ending at 4:00 p. m., without first obtaining from the State Forester or one of his duly authorized agents a permit to start or cause to be started any fire or ignite any material in such above mention between the first day of October and the first day of June inclusive. No charge shall be made for the granting of said permits.
 During periods of hazardous forest fire conditions the State Forester is authorized to cancel all permits and prohibit the starting of any fires in any of the woodlands under the protection of the State Forest Service or within five hundred (500) feet of any such protected area.
 This Section shall not apply to any fires started or caused to be started within one hundred (100) feet of an occupied dwelling house.
 Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisoned for a period of not more than thirty (30) days. (Chapter 14-139, General Statutes of N. C. Public Laws of 1953 Session.)

 be persuaded to submit to medical and psychiatric treatment. Unfortunately, this is sometimes ineffective, and in such cases the affected persons must be separated from normal society and placed in confinement, as much for their own protection as for the protection of society. The Christian fellowship renders a humanitarian service both to the victim of this disease and to society when it sympathetically encourages such a person to seek professional help and when it, by acknowledging the abnormal behavior of the disease as one of its symptoms, removes the stigma of harsh moral accusation from the hapless victim. And to the person who steals to build up prestige, the Christian faith asserts that the principle that must be established in this person's conscience as well as in his heart is that God expects us to live completely within the framework of all our limitations. The prestige of honor is more satisfying than the prestige of material wealth.
 What, then, of the person who steals to get wealth? The Christian faith attempts to alter radically our sense of values by substituting decency for desire. The temptation to steal steals us all. We must recognize the temptation, and because it is an affront to our highest humanity, we must push it from us as a thing foul.

CARD OF THANKS
 We wish to thank the many friends for their kindnesses during the illness and death of our beloved father, Horace Metcalf; also, for the many floral tributes; and especially we thank Bowman-Rector Funeral Home for its many services.
