In Memory Of BROTHER

who passed away Nov. 9, 1961 I still think of you as my eyes fill with tears.

You left us, and it is so sad. For you were the greatest brother.

You were called away when you were 21, To that home that's beautiful, perfect, fine;

But when I go away and come back, it's so sad.

Will we ever get over missing you brother?

Oh, how I'd love to go home just one more time

And see you standing in the door, With that loving smile and friendly grin.

As the days fade into months and months into year, We will see you in our tears;

But rest in peace and God bless you, brother.

Be Careful With Hybrid Varieties, Asst. Agent Warns
Farmers are continually getting into trouble by using Hybrid corn varieties which are not adapted to this area. This is unfortunate as test after test has shown that Hybrids which are adapted to this area will yield 30% more corn than the open pollinated varieties. The following are the corn Hybrid varieties yielding in the upper two-fifths of the last three year average official variety test: Pioneer 309A; U. S. 282; DeKalb 1028; McCurdy 988 and Coker 616W.
Farmers in the higher elevations in the county, who have run into difficulty with Hybrids, may want to consider the following, which are short season Hybrids: DeKalb 638; Funk G-31; DeKalb 640; Pioneer 301A; V.P.L. 648; Princess W. England, assistant agent, says.
