EDITORIAL

IT BUGS US TOO, BOB

Bob Terrell, able sports editor of The Asheville Citizen, hit the proverbial nail on the head recently when he wrote the following squib in his sports column:

Something that bugs me: All around the South Atlantic League baseball clubs motor from city to city on fine roads, most of them four-lanes — UNTIL they start the stretch from Asheville to Knoxville or vice versa. Then they hit that gosh-awful stem-winding stretch of pavement that links our cities together.

Someday, someone will do something about it. But when? There isn't a more important stretch of road in the land. As a friend pointed out the other day, this highway is a pretty important military road (or would be in case of international fireworks), but I would hate to try to move a great deal of troops and supplies over it.

It's something to think about.

We add our "Amen" to the above.

If Madison County is to realize increased tourism, especially in Hot Springs and Marshall, better roads must be built. With prospects bright for vast improvements at Hot Springs, it is unthinkable that this progressive town's dreams will ever be fully completed unless tourists and would-be residents are able to get into and out of this area. Recreational, commercial and other inducements are important but the MOST IMPORTANT step to be taken is BETTER ROADS. This not only holds true for Hot Springs but this entire section of the state.

We have understood that vast improvements are in the offing pertaining to improved highways from Hot Springs to the Tennessee state line. The sooner this project is completed the better. But what about the strip of heavily-used road between Hot Springs and Asheville? The only stretch which is improved enough to be termed modern is the Marshall By-Pass. Tourists are NOT going to travel from north to south or vice versa until the ENTIRE strip from Tennessee to Asheville is vastly improved. "Spot improvements" are not the answer.

We urge our highway commissioner and other members of the Commission to take steps IMMEDIATELY to rebuild or, at least, improve this vital highway.

NO RESPONSE YET

Last week's appeal for adult leadership so that Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball can again be played in Marshall this summer has brought forth very little response.

It isn't because the editorial wasn't read. Several people have mentioned it to us but no one has volunteered to manage the teams or take over the responsibilities of the teams.

It's a shame in a town which so sorely needs supervised recreational programs for our boys and girls that so few adults have the "time" or interest to give to youth development.

A certain bright-eyed youngster came in the office Monday and said he and his mother had read the editorial and that he (the youngster) wanted to play. We were compelled to tell him that we weren't sure whether or not there would be a team here this summer unless some "grown-up" would manage it. Here was a young boy wanting to play baseball. Who knows, maybe a future big-leaguer. There are many others just like him.

We again urge some interested man to come to the rescue. Contact Frank Moore at the Citizens Bank or contact this newspaper office.

TREAT TOBACCO PLANT BEDS FOR FLEA BEETLES

P. W. England, assistant county agent, says that in the coming weeks Madison County farmers will be having trouble with flea beetles on their tobacco. For the farmers who have not set plants it is a good plan to treat the plants in the plant bed before they are pulled and transplanted in the field. You may use either a DDT dust or a DDT spray to treat your plant bed. If you use a dust, use 1 1/2 pounds of a 10% dust on 100 square yards. If you use a spray, use about 1/2 cup of a 50% wettable powder in 5 gallons of water. This will treat 100 square yards. By treating before the plants are pulled it will give protection from one week to ten days in the field. For field treatment it will require from 10 to 16 pounds of a 10% dust to treat one acre. It will require one pound of a 50% wettable powder in approximately 20 gallons of water. This is a practice which is well worth the time and expense required on burley tobacco.

Kelley Ray Gets Award In Nation's Capital Friday

Born Near Mars Hill; One Of Five Persons In Nation To Receive Award

Kelley R. Ray, county supervisor of the U. S. Farmers Home Administration serving the Asheville area, will receive the Department of Agriculture's award for superior service in Washington Friday morning. He was one of only five persons in the nation to receive the award.

The announcement was made in Raleigh by Melvin H. Hearn, Farmers Home Administration director for North Carolina.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will make the award at ceremonies in Washington for Ray's "initiative in providing credit and management advice to an increasing number of rural families in this area." Mr. Ray's assistance has enabled them to farm

In his tenure as county supervisor of the Asheville office, serving Buncombe and McDowell counties, Ray has never had a real estate borrower who was behind with his loan repayments. He has never had a real estate foreclosure. For more than five years he had not had a delinquent borrower in his unit, Hearn said.

Ray was born near Mars Hill and spent his early life on a farm there. He was educated at the Asheville Farm School, Mars Hill College, Berea (Ky.) College, and the University of Kentucky. He taught school for 11 years in North Carolina before joining Farmers Home Administration. Ray has been a county supervisor for 21 years.
