If Tom carries collision insurance, he could recover from his own insurance company the allowable damages of the policy.

Dan Bailey was an employee of Walter Gallant. During the course of his employment, and while driving Gallant's automobile, Bailey had a collision with an automobile owned and driven by John Young. Both Bailey and Young were at fault. May Gallant recover from Young money for the damages done to his automobile?

No. Bailey at the time of the collision was driving the car as an agent of Gallant. The negligence of an agent is imputed to his principal. It is the same as if Gallant himself had been driving the car. Since both drivers were at fault, Young may plead in bar of the action the doctrine of "contributory negligence."

If Bailey had not been at fault, Gallant could have recovered the full amount of any damages to his car resulting from the negligence of Young.

Walter Campbell lent his car to James Gardner one evening. Gardner paid Campbell $5 for the use of the automobile. The automobile was badly damaged as the result of a collision between Gardner and Herbert Wilson. Both Gardner and Wilson were at fault. The accident would not have occurred if either had been driving carefully. May Campbell recover from Wilson money for damages done to his automobile?

Yes. Whenever personal property is loaned or rented to another, there is created a bailment. In this case, Campbell was the bailor and Gardner was the bailee.

The negligence of the bailee is not imputed to the bailor as in cases of agency. The bailor may recover from a third person whose negligent act has damaged the bailed property, even though the bailee's negligence contributed to the loss. As against Campbell, the bailor, Wilson cannot use the defense of "contributory negligence."

Graperies HD Club Met Friday With Mrs. Aleene Cody

The Graperies home demonstration club met May 17 with Mrs. Aleene Cody in her new home. At this time we had a house-warming after our regular meeting. The club was called to order by our president, Mrs. James H. Arrington, who presided at the meeting. We sang "Believe Me," led by Mrs. Hazel Proffitt. The devotions were given by Mrs. Bonnie Gosnell, using for the Scripture reading, Psalms 1; prayer by Mrs. Ruby Corpening, our assistant home agent.

A beautiful, touching poem was read by Mrs. Hazel Proffitt, "God Shines the Stars." Everyone enjoyed this very much.

The meeting being announced in order to transact business, our project leader for May took charge in the absence of our agent, Mrs. Ethel Wallin. Mrs. Eileene Hensley gave an interesting discussion on Food and Nutrition. The seven basic food, meal planning and serving. Her twin daughters, Misses Kay and Fay Hensley, gave a demonstration on corn muffins, using pictures to show the mixing steps, then gave each a taste sample of the finished muffins which they had baked for this purpose. The secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Everette Gosnell, gave her report, and a report was given on our fund raising project.

The aim of our club is to sponsor the buying of a new piano for our church. Mrs. Eileene Hensley and Mrs. Ruby Corpening gave a report our District meeting which is all ways a bright spot in our club year.

We then discussed our plans for our trip to Charlotte May 31 to be on Betty Feezer's T.V. program.

Mrs. Corpening made announcement on a week in Raleigh-Home-makers week for all who could go. The meeting was dismissed by all repeating the "Collect for Club Women."

Mrs. Cody then opened her many beautiful gifts which we all enjoyed seeing with her. Thanking each for their gift she then served delicious refreshments to the 23 present. Mrs. Cody was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Earl Rice, two sisters, Mrs. Robert Lewis and Miss Glennis Rice, and a sister-in-law Mrs. Harmon Rice. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all. We enjoyed going through her lovely home everything was so nice. We wish for them a long and

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE

Tom and Joe ran into each other with their automobiles. Both were at fault. The accident would not have occurred if either had been driving carefully. Joe was, however, far more negligent than Tom. Tom's car was damaged to the extent of $300 and Joe's car was not damaged at all. Both are insured. What, if anything, may Tom recover from Joe?

Tom will not be permitted to recover anything from Joe. Joe's attorney, who will usually be one employed by his insurance company, will plead as a defense "contributory negligence" on the part of Tom.

If both parties to an accident are at fault, under the doctrine of contributory negligence neither can recover from the other. This is true even though one was 90 per cent at fault and the other was only ten per cent at fault. Tom's contributory fault or negligence is a complete bar to his right of recovery from Joe. Tom did not come into court with "clean hands." He is denied recovery for the purpose of punishing him for his own misconduct.

The doctrine of "contributory negligence" has been severely criticized. A small number of states have by statute abolished it, and have substituted instead the doctrine of "comparative negligence." Under the doctrine of "comparative negligence" there is an apportionment of damages according to fault. For example, if Tom had been ten per cent at fault, he could have recovered from Joe under the doctrine of "comparative negligence" $300 less $30, or

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it. A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we want to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

And for all the pepper we packed into that 6-cylinder engine (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models), we were careful to keep it simple, easy to service—and a real stickler on economy.

Feel in a traveling mood? Well—happy coincidence—this is the time of year your Chevrolet dealer feels in his most generous trading mood. Looks like it's high time you two got together.
