

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

James E. Robertson, District Manager of the Social Security office in Asheville, has announced new service area assignments for the field representatives serving the Western North Carolina area.

Drew C. Nichols has been assigned to serve Madison County, replacing Douglas H. Butler. Nichols will, however, participate in a management seminar in the Asheville office for a 3-month period prior to assuming his duties in Madison County. During Nichols' absence, Jess Fisher of the Asheville office will serve the county. Fisher is a resident of Marshall.

Butler, in a separate statement issued today, expressed his appreciation for the wholehearted cooperation given him by local officials and news media. "I have enjoyed my work in Madison County tremendously," Butler states, "and this has been to a great degree because of the fine people I have had the pleasure of working with in the county."

Mr. Fisher or Mr. Nichols will be at the courthouse in Marshall the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month to assist those with questions regarding social security and to be of assistance in the filing of claims for benefits. However, the appointment system presently in use will be continued, and those wishing to meet with the representative should make an appointment by writing or telephoning the Social Security District Office, 50 South French Broad, Asheville, 28801 (Telephone 252-8773). In addition, appointment forms are available in

"Family Security"

U. S. Savings Bonds form a good background for family security. That's this little family's message to Americans. Regular saving through risk-free Savings Bonds can give any family something to fall back on. And that basis of security can be strengthened even further with extra bonds purchased during the 1963 Freedom Bond Drive. Nearly everyone has someone to care for—some sort of family. Savings Bonds can help a great deal in fulfilling responsibilities to loved ones, and in maintaining an atmosphere of family, and national, well-being.
