Revis Receives Stiff Fine In Assault Case

Several Traffic Cases Heard; Revis Trial Only Major Case

The September term of superior court for the trial of criminal cases started here Monday morning with Judge J. Frank Haskins, of Burnsville, presiding. Robert Swain is the solicitor.

Several traffic cases were disposed of with only one major case being heard thus far.

Jerry Franklin Revis, of Haywood County, charged with rape of a fourteen Haywood County girl, pleaded guilty of assault on a female and due to Revis's age, the solicitor accepted the plea. The incident occurred in Madison County on the night of June 22, 1963.

Revis was sentenced to two years on roads, sentence suspended for a period of five years under provisions that Revis pay court cost, a fine of $1,000, be of good behavior, remain sober, remain employed and must remain at his home every night from 9 p. m., to 6 a. m.

Court is expected to adjourn later today (Thursday), officials announced.

1964 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

In order that grain producing farmers may effectively plan their 1964 farming operations, the following basic information on the 1964 Feed-Grain Program for Madison County is being provided.

Anna Mae Tipton, Feed Grain Clerk at the County ASCS Office states that the 1964 Feed Grain Program will be very much like the one effective in 1963—it is voluntary; it includes barley, corn, and grain sorghum in a combined base; payments for diverting base acreage out of production are available; and price support will be a combination of price-support payments and loans. The price support payment will be figured on the

DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION IS MOVING AHEAD

The Madison County Development Corporation is moving ahead with plans to construct a tomato packing and grading shed. Engineers will soon have the plans drawn for a building 80 feet wide and 200 feet long. Pledges and purchases of stock in the corporation to help with this project are being made now. As soon as the plans are complete an application for a loan to complete financing the building will be submitted to S.B.A.

If all plans work on schedule, The Madison Fruit and Vegetable Cooperative, Inc., will lease the packing shed and operate it beginning with the 1964 season. The local facilities to pack, grade and market tomatoes and other vegetables will enable Madison farmers to add at least $150,000 income next year and expand this amount to about $1,000,000 when the facilities are fully used.

No Yolking, It's Truett; Eggsactly So

Truett West, Mars Hill College sophomore from Andrews, saw double for a long time Tuesday.

West, whose part-time job in the college cafeteria consists of breaking and cooking 45 dozen eggs every morning, got hold of 121 straight double-yolked eggs before he found a conventional one. Word got around after the first dozen, and there was spirited guessing as to how long the string would go. Nobody calculated there would be nine dozen more, plus one egg.

The fried egg eaters got a bonanza, but the scrambled fanciers might never have known about it. The purveyor of the eggs with bonus yolks was not known.
