IT COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

The terrible wreck which took the lives of four prominent Marshall citizens near Fletcher last Friday night could have been avoided. The instant death of Buddy Gene Kaylor, of Hendersonville, driver of the car which crashed into the Marshall vehicle could have been avoided.

State Highway Patrolman Dan Frady, who investigated, said the condition of the wreckage indicated Kaylor's 1955 Oldsmobile was traveling at a high speed at the time of the impact. From marks found near and at the scene, it is probable that Kaylor's car ran off the road, skidded back onto the pavement and smashed sideways into the front of the car driven by Mrs. Blanche Buckner.

It is safe to assume that reckless speed resulted in the loss of lives of five persons. It could have been avoided.

Authoritative sources reveal that Kaylor had been arrested twice for drunken driving, twice for speeding and once for running a red light. Patrolman Frady said Kaylor at one time had had his driver's license suspended.

Never before in Marshall's history has this community been so widely affected and saddened.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the relatives and friends of the deceased. They were our friends, too.

VANDALISM MUST BE CURBED

Last Thursday night one or more persons broke into the library located on Main Street and destroyed numerous books, including an expensive dictionary and set of Encyclopedia. Not content with this outrage of vandalism, they tore the pages from other books, destroyed the bookmobile records, took $4.00 in money, and ransacked the entire library. Not satisfied with this, they then wrote vulgar words in red ink on the walls and desk.

In many ways it was the worst sort of vandalism ever experienced in Marshall.

A few nights ago, one or more persons broke into the principal's office at the Marshall school and forced open a safe in an attempt to find some money. Fortunately, the thieves found very little for their efforts. It has also been reported that more than once, Coca-Cola machines at the school have been forced open and damaged.

Other reports reveal that more vandalism is being evidenced in many rural areas of our county. Stores and homes are being entered, gas tanks damaged, fences torn down and other acts of law violations.

If the guilty persons are of "accountable" age, we hope they are arrested and dealt with. If they are minors, we hope their identities will soon be known and that if the "law" isn't strict enough, we urge their parents to take the "law" into their own hands before they grow up to be criminals.

Such vandalism must be curbed before it is too late.

MADISON MAN IS INJURED MON. IN AUTO MISHAP

The driver and a companion got out of a mangled car without serious injury, after a trailer truck turned over on it. The accident occurred on the Asheville-Marshall highway Monday morning. Floyd Sprouse, 40, of Marshall Rt. 2, received body scrapes and was treated at a hospital and released. His companion, Amos Reynolds of Alexander Rt. 1, was slightly cut. The truck driver, Olin Owens, 31, of Hildebran, told State Trooper W. D. Arledge that his gas pedal stuck and he lost control. He was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road.

PRICE SUPPORTS

Operations of the United States Department of Agriculture to stabilize the price of farm commodities are referred to as Price Support Programs. Price support operations involving direct dealings with farmers are a responsibility of the State and County ASC Committees. The Price Support Clerk at the County ASCS Office points out that one commodity affected through price support provisions which is very important to Madison County farmers is Burley Tobacco. Burley farmers will have their 1963 crop supported at 90 per cent of parity, provided they plant within their acreage allotment and otherwise comply with the program. The acreage support rate on the 1963 crop of tobacco is 1% up from the 1962 level. Farmers who harvest in excess of their Burley allotments are not eligible for price support and must pay a penalty of 44c per pound on their excess production in 1963.

Price support payments, for the first time, were added to the Feed Grain payments this year which benefited several farmers of our county.

One other commodity affected through price support provisions in our County is wool which comes by direct payment. According to the Price Support Clerk, shorn wool payments are computed at a percentage of each producer's cash returns from wool sales. The rate of payment is the percentage required to raise the National average price received by producers for wool up to the incentive price of 62c per pound. Payments are also made on sales of unshorn lambs at a rate per hundredweight of live animals marketed to compensate for wool on them on a basis comparable to the incentive payments on shorn wool.

Mistakes In Second Half Lead To Homecoming Loss Here

Like an old Model "T," the Marshall Tornadoes spluttered, started running smoothly, and then spluttered and finally bogged down here Friday night as the Bakersville Bulldogs defeated the locals, 24-13, to spoil the Homecoming game.

Glaring mistakes, both physical and mental, led to the Tornadoes' downfall before an estimated throng of over 1000.

The visitors found the running easy in the first period and midway the quarter drove from the Marshall 40 to the two-yard line where Allen Baker, Bulldog quarterback, plowed through the center of Marshall's line for a touchdown. A placement attempt for extra point was wide.

In the second quarter, the Tornadoes quit spluttering and during the period looked like a different football machine as they drove 60 yards for a touchdown, with Tommy Nix hitting tackle from the one-yard stripe. The extra point attempt failed and the teams were tied 6-6. Later in the second period, Marshall's offense started clicking again, spearheaded by the consistent running of Ralph Candler. Candler, Ronnie Shelton, substitute back, Nix and Messer alternated to drive to the Bulldogs' 1-yard line where Candler powered over for the touchdown. A Nix-to-Ray Caldwell pass was good for the extra point and Marshall went into the dressing room at halftime with a 13-6 lead.

It was a different story, however, in the second half as costly mistakes led to easy touchdowns for the visitors. With a 7-point advantage, Marshall made the mistake of going to the air, both from called plays and from carelessness.

The Tornadoes hurt their own chances when Ray Caldwell, usually a reliable receiver, dropped a perfect pass in the end zone. This wasn't the only pass missed. Ralph Candler, Marshall's most consistent player, dropped a pass labelled for a sure touchdown.

Nix, who was having one of his worst nights afield and obviously hampered by an injured hip, was cornered on an attempted pass and chose to get rid of the ball rather than suffer a loss. His toss landed in the hands of a Bakersville player and Read Burleson, fullback, plunged over from the three for the Bulldogs' second TD. Marshall still held a one-point advantage, 13-12, when the extra point failed but the advantage didn't last long.

Poor blocking and tackling enabled the visitors to generate sufficient power to go ahead of the Tornadoes late in the third quarter, 18-13, when Buddy Bartlett, speedy Bulldog halfback, circled end from the 15 to score standing up. This seemed to break the Tornadoes' back and from that point on it was all Bakersville. The Bulldogs ended the nightmare in the 4th period when Read Burleson scored from the seven yard line to ice the game, 24-13.

The bright spot in the Marshall attack was again Ralph Candler, who ran well, played a fine defensive game and averaged 84 yards on four punts.
