BEEF CATTLE PLANNING COMM. HOLDS MEETING

There was a meeting of the Madison County Beef Cattle Planning Committee, who are Joe Rice, Ernest Teague, Burt Freeman, Burdette Reeves, Don Wild, and Jack Price. The committee viewed the beef cattle situation and came up with the following things that should be emphasized by the Extension Service in 1964 to increase the income in Madison County for beef cattle.

First, in the cow-calf enterprise the things to be emphasized are: (1) Parasite control; (2) Production records; (3) Improve pastures; (4) Proven sires. In the feeder stocker steer enterprise, things to be emphasized are:

(1) Purchase the right kind of steers; (2) Parasite control; (3) The adequate feeding of protein; (4) The isolation and observation of all purchased cattle.

It was the consensus of the committee that Madison County has a considerable way to go before it reaches its goal in beef cattle. It now ranks second in the Western counties in beef production and with the proper emphasis, we hope to rank first.
